Plans for an extraordinary tribute to William Wrigley Jr. were being made here last night as his host of friends throughout the country mourned the passing of the Chicago capitalist and sportsman who died early yesterday at his winter home in Phoenix, Ariz.

Due to the distance from Chicago to the Pacific coast, none of his friends and associates here will be able to attend the funeral, which has been set for 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Wrigley residence at Pasadena, Cal.

Therefore arrangements were being made last night for a memorial service to be held in St. Chrysostom's church, 1418 North Dearborn street, at the same hour as the Pasadena funeral. James C. Cox, vice president of the William Wrigley Jr. company, said he expected to be able to give the exact time of the Chicago service today.

Burial to Be Later on Catalina.

Chicago's and the country's last tribute to Mr. Wrigley's memory will be reserved, however, for a later time, probably during the coming summer, Mr. Cox said.

Following the Pasadena funeral service, which will be private, members of the Wrigley family plan to visit Catalina island and there select a site for his last resting place.

It was Mr. Wrigley's wish that he be buried on this island lying 27 miles off the California coast, a property which he purchased in 1919 and which he had developed into one of the most elaborate recreation places on the Pacific coast, a training camp for his baseball teams, the Chicago Cubs and the Los Angeles Angels, as well as a garden spot for tourists.

Mausoleum to Be Built.

The construction of a mausoleum will begin as soon as a site and a design are chosen, it is understood. Meanwhile the casket will be placed in a vault in Pasadena.

When a date for placing the casket in the mausoleum has been fixed Mr. Wrigley's friends among the notables in finance, industry and sport will be invited to attend the dedication of his monument, according to present plans.

Judging from the sheaves of condolences received at the Phoenix home and the Chicago office of the Wrigley company last night, his associates here believed that special coaches from New York and Philadelphia and a special train from Chicago would be necessary to carry his friends to the last services on Catalina island.

Death Unexpected by Friends.

The death of Mr. Wrigley, a financial genius who had amassed one of the greatest fortunes in the middle west, was unexpected by his friends and the public. He was 70 years old.

Five physicians and six nurses, working in relays for eight days and nights, were unable to save him. He fell a victim on Jan. 18 to an apoplectic stroke and a heart seizure, following an attack of acute indigestion.

His personal physician, Dr. George Goodrich, traced his illness back to a heart attack suffered about a year ago, before which Mr. Wrigley's health had been robust. His condition did not reach a serious stage, the doctor said, until a week ago Monday, when he suffered the stroke and heart attack.

Semi-Conscious for Days.

"I thought he was going to die then, but he rallied from the first attack," said Dr. Goodrich. "He did not show any improvement after Jan. 19. He was in a semi-conscious condition most of the time. At brief intervals he could be roused to say a word or two, then would sink back into coma."

Mr. Wrigley died at 2:15 a. m. At the bedside were his wife, the former Ada Foote of New York; his son, Philip K. Wrigley, president of the William Wrigley Jr. Co., chewing gum manufacturers, and Mrs. Philip Wrigley; his daughter, Mrs. James R. Offield, and Mrs. Offield's daughter, Betty.

The family had exercised the strictest secrecy concerning his illness. At the time of his first attack Mr. Wrigley's secretary, I. A. Kirkman, had said it was only a spell of indigestion, and a few hours before the end the secretary had announced that the patient was "slightly improved."

Business Policies to Go On.

The death of Mr. Wrigley will in no wise alter the present management of his vast business interests, according to word from Phoenix. Philip Wrigley will carry on without chang-

SEE WAY OUT OF SNARL DELAYING JOBLESS RELIEF

Emergency Session Called Illegal.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Recovering quickly from a setback to their hopes for speedy action by the general assembly, leaders in the struggle to find funds for the aid of the jobless and hungry in Chicago and the rest of Illinois tackled their problem in conference here today. They devised a new plan which they say is a big improvement over anything heretofore suggested.

This plan provides for the raising of funds by state bonds which will be redeemed by the counties among which the proceeds of the bonds are distributed. Each of these counties will devote to this purpose as much of its one cent share of the present three cent gas tax as is necessary each year during the term of the bonds to retire that part of them from which it benefited.

Opens Way for Chicago.

Under this proposal, it is possible for Cook county to receive as much as $15,000,000 from the state fund and pay it back in ten or twenty years with part of $4,000,000 or more it will receive annually from the gasoline tax and still have some left for road work. And the counties which do not accept this aid would not be called upon to pay a cent toward the redemption of the bonds.

This program was determined upon shortly after a definite agreement that, although the first session of the assembly is back here tonight in response to an emergency summons which broke up a week's recess, it cannot legally transact any business before next week. This was the advice, without exception, of legal specialists called into early conference by the leaders putting on the drive for emergency action.

Third Session on Monday.

Because the effort to hasten operations this week miscarried and for the additional reason that there is doubt whether the bills embodying the new relief plan are within the call for either the first or second special sessions, it is probable that a third special session will come into existence next Monday.

Gov. Emmerson returned from his home in Mount Vernon this evening and was immediately waited upon by a delegation which laid before him the latest developments and urged that a new call be issued. He expressed his willingness to comply with the request but said that he would not act until he knows definitely the date when the drafting of the bills will be completed. He was told this task would take two or three days.

Therefore it is expected he will issue the call on either Friday or Saturday for a new session on Monday. The first and second sessions are in recess until Tuesday.

Callers on Governor.

The group that called at the executive mansion consisted of Senator Richard D. Barr, President Whelan of the Cook county board, and two representatives of the Joint Emergency Relief fund organization, President Edward L. Ryerson Jr. and Britton I. Budd.

While waiting the governor's return both houses started unofficial sessions late in the afternoon, but almost immediately went into a joint meeting, where the Cook county situation was pictured to the members by representatives of the joint emergency relief organization and the new plan was explained to them by Dewitt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau, who will have charge of drafting the new bills.

Billman's statement was pronounced a marvel of clarity for what is admittedly a complicated program.

Paper Tax Levy Involved.

"First," he said, "since this money is to be raised immediately it will be raised by the sale of state tax warrants. In order to issue those warrants there must be an additional tax levy, but it would be a paper one, because it would be wiped out by the issuance of bonds which would bring into the treasury the money to take up the warrants.

"And that bond issue would be a paper issue, too, for the bill for it would provide there would be a property tax, but one that would not be levied if other means were found to pay the interest on the bonds and the principal.

"Another bill would provide that if a county accepts any part of this emergency aid the first use to which that county's share of the present gas tax can be put is to meet the bonded

Schools Get Pay Tomorrow from City Fund

All Chicago school employés will get half a month's pay tomorrow. Mayor Cermak yesterday announced that the city would buy $2,500,000 worth of board of education tax warrants to make the pay day possible. The city will also make warrant purchases to insure half monthly pay checks to employés of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium and the library board.

The pay day will give the school teachers a total of two months' pay since last May 1, when the school board ceased paying its employés. All of the cash since May 1 has been furnished by the city, a month's pay last November, two weeks just before Christmas, and now an additional two weeks.

Send Warrants to City Hall.

Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board of education, sent tax warrants to the city hall last night for the signatures of Mayor Cermak and Controller Szymczak. The warrants will be turned into the city treasury and the cash credited to the school board. Pay checks will be mailed today to principals and department heads and will be distributed tomorrow.

Employés in the downtown offices of the board probably will get their checks this afternoon, and it is hoped to pay the sanitarium and library employés by that time. The city will buy $60,000 worth of warrants from the sanitarium, which will bring its pay rolls up to Dec. 22, and $55,000 from the library board, to bring its pay rolls to Jan. 1. The school pay checks are for the last half of October, but teachers and other employés are still unpaid for several months last spring and summer.

Use Aggregate of Funds.

The cash for the school pay roll will come from the city's aggregate of funds. The money was obtained through the payment of water bills above the amounts required to be set aside for the water certificate trust and revenue from the vehicle tax.

Mayor Cermak said the decision to buy the school warrants was based in part on the revival of hopes that the banks would soon accede to his request that they buy $5,000,000 worth of city tax warrants. Funds from the warrants, if sold, would be used to replace the funds taken for the school rolls and to meet police and fire pay rolls delinquent since Dec. 15.

"What money the city gets from now on will be distributed among school employés as well as those of the city," Mayor Cermak said.

Girls in India Who Killed British Judge Given Life

MRS. LEBCHUCK LETS CHILDREN SEE DADDY RUN

The neighbors were perturbed last night when Mrs. Parasha Lebchuck, 36 years old, ran out the front door of her home at 1817 West 19th street and pursued a tall, thin man to the sidewalk. She was industriously shooting a pistol and the fugitive was crying loudly that he was shot.

When the neighbors notified the Marquette police, Sergt. Henry Kristen and his squad were sent to look into the matter. As they reached 19th street and Damen avenue they saw a man slumped on the sidewalk.

"I'm shot," he moaned, "I'm bleeding. Take me to a hospital."

Sergt. Kristen examined the man and found that he had not been hit. The stranger told his story. He said that he was Andrew Lebchuck, that he was 40 years old and that he had been fired on from close range when he went to visit his estranged wife, Parasha. Then they all went to ask Mrs. Lebchuck and she told them her story.

"We have been separated for four years and there's a warrant out for Henry, charging non-support," she said. "He came around tonight and tried to kick in the front door. I told the children we would have some fun watching daddy run. I got a pistol and opened the door and shot. Of course I would have killed him, except that I had loaded the pistol with blanks."

Her version was found true and Lebchuck was locked up.

Fear British Sub Lost in Channel Dive

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

PORTLAND, England, Jan. 27.—[Wednesday.]—The British submarine M-2 dived near Portland yesterday, failed to rise, and early today was feared to be lying disabled at the bottom of the English channel with 54 men aboard.

Searching ships, rushed to the scene, touched an object with their instruments which they believed to be the vessel. It was in 17 fathoms of water three miles west of Portland Bill, a rocky promontory, and gave a metallic ring when struck.

Divers to Descend at Dawn.

It could not be established before daylight if the object really was the submarine. Divers will be sent down at dawn. Meanwhile, an anxious crowd on the coast watched a circle of flickering lights from the flotilla of salvage craft.

The submarine went down at 10:38 a. m. in routine practice exercises. Sailors dashed out of Portland's movie theaters a few hours later, under orders cancelling their shore leave and rushing them to their ships.

Rumors that something was wrong had spread throughout this naval port before the movie programs were suddenly interrupted for the reading of the orders. Wives, mothers and sweethears of the submarine's crew, most of whom come from Portland or Portmouth, the large English naval base nearby, became agitated as the hours passed.

Carried An Airplane.

The M-2, a sister ship of the M-1, which was lost in a collision in November, 1925, with a loss of 68 lives, has been popular in the British navy as a "fine diving ship."

Lieutenant Commander J. D. De M. Leathes was listed in the last navy roster as commander of the M-2, whose home port is Portsmouth.

An official at headquarters of the commander in chief at Portsmouth said the M-2 was engaged in routine exercises when she disappeared. The sea was calm, but there was a fog. Naval officials said a submarine of the M-2 type could stay under water for 48 hours.

The M-2 is equipped with the latest life-saving devices, he pointed out. Admiralty quarters in London said the ship's wireless might have failed, but even in that case she should have returned to port long ago.

While admiralty officials saw no reason to abandon hope, they said it would be idle to suggest there were not grounds for the gravest misgivings.

Wife Set Free to Get Ransom in South Bend

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 27, 3 a. m.—[Special.]—Howard A. Woolverton, 52 years old, secretary-treasurer of the Malleable Steel Range company, and his wife, Florence, were kidnaped near their home here shortly after midnight by two men who drove them toward Chicago.

Mrs. Woolverton was released a few minutes later and sent back to South Bend in her own automobile with a note instructing her to deliver $50,000 to the kidnapers by 8 o'clock this evening. If she failed to do this, the note stated, Woolverton would be killed.

The kidnaped man is the son of Jacob Woolverton, 85 year old vice president of the St. Joseph Loan and Trust company. He is a member of the South Bend aviation commission and is wealthy.

Auto Crowded to Curb.

Returning to their home at 1246 East Jefferson boulevard after attending a theater, the Woolvertons, in their automobile, were crowded to a curb by another car in which rode three or four men. From this car stepped a man with a pistol.

The bandit threw open the rear door of Woolverton's car, told him to obey orders strictly, and commanded that he drive through the city. The manufacturer, with the abductor's pistol pressing his back, drove through Michigan avenue, one of the most frequented of South Bend thoroughfares, and into Lincoln Way West, which leads to the old Lincoln trail, now United States highway No. 20.

The car containing the other man or men—Mrs. Woolverton could not be sure how many there were—followed. Five miles west of the center of the city a halt was commanded by the man with the Woolvertons. Woolverton was thrust out of the car and into the one with the other kidnapers.

Orders Wife to Get $50,000.

"Now," said the man who had accompanied the couple to the almost hysterical wife, "turn this car around. Drive into South Bend. Keep quiet and everything will be all right if you do just what this note tells you to. But do it if you want to see him alive again."

The turn was made and Mrs. Woolverton started for home. The car in which her husband was held prisoner already had been driven off to the west at high speed.

On the outskirts of the city she met Policeman Nicholas Laskowski, who got into the car and took her to police headquarters, where the ransom note was read. It said:

"On Wednesday at 8 p. m. take your four passenger Packard automobile with the license number 20 and the trunk on the rear and go to Chicago Heights. Before leaving you will take $50,000 and wrap it into a strong bundle.

Threaten to Kill Husband.

"On your way we will signal you by flashing our headlights ten times. We will be behind you. You will then drop the package and drive on to Danville and return home from there.

"Say nothing to the police. Your husband will be killed if there is any slipup at all."

When the note was read Mrs. Woolverton became hysterical. She asserted that the ransom would have to be paid. The police, however, notified authorities in Chicago and all other nearby cities to watch for the kidnapers. It is believed the gang has a hideout either in towns south of Chicago or in the vicinity of Chicago.

The Woolvertons are the parents of a daughter, Betty, 12 years old, who was at home with three maids when the kidnaping occurred.

Mrs. Woolverton was Miss Florence Flannery, a daughter of John L. Flannery of Wheaton, Ill. The couple was married in Chicago in June, 1905.

Mrs. Woolverton is part owner of the Boye Needle company at 4343 Ravenswood avenue, Chicago. Her father left the business to her and a brother.

Friends Demand Action.

"Community interest in this city and every city," he said, "must start a drive now to send every law violator to prison. All the resources of South Bend should be mobilized to bring the perpetrators of this crime to justice."

It was reported that Fred Mayer, Indiana secretary of state, a resident of South Bend, would be asked to have the state police force turned over to a search of Woolverton.

HOOVER MOVES TO KEEP JAPAN OUT OF CHINA

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 27 (Wednesday).—(AP)—In the foreign settlement here the American forces of 1,200 marines have erected barbed wire barricades and made ready to defend the area in anticipation of Sino-Japanese clashes. The authorities indicate they are considering declaring a state of "emergency."

A hope was expressed that Admiral Taylor of the United States navy's Asiatic squadron, now at Manila, would come here to command, or Admiral Kelly, commanding the British Asiatic fleet, now at Hongkong.

British and American defense forces here have not yet changed their routine, however, it was said.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.] — President Hoover, it was learned tonight, is considering a course of action designed to deter Japan from carrying out her threatened invasion and occupation of Shanghai and other parts of China proper. A possible step would be the dispatch of American warships to Shanghai.

With Manchuria completely in the hands of the Japanese and 24 Japanese warships either at or headed for Shanghai to support demands for the suppression of the Chinese organizations promoting the boycott of Japanese goods, the President and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson conferred late today on the propriety of intervention by the United States.

Confers with England.

While the league of nations council at Geneva was deciding to warn Japan and China of the serious potentialities of the situation at Shanghai, conversations were in progress among the American, British and French governments on measures for the protection of their interests in China in the event of a Japanese invasion.

It is understood that the conversations so far have dealt mainly with the question of protection of the international settlement and the French concession at Shanghai in the event of a Japanese occupation that interferes in any way with freedom of movement and intercourse on the part of the nationals of the three powers. There is reason to believe, however, that involved in the discussions is the larger question of what action, if any, the principal powers will take if Japanese occupation should materialize and take on the aspect of a virtual annexation of northern China in addition to Manchuria.

Serves Notice on Japan.

The occupation of northern China, as of Manchuria, the President and Mr. Stimson would regard as a violation of the nine power pact of 1922 which guarantees the territorial integrity of China. The United States alone already has served notice on Japan that it will recognize as valid no arrangements in Manchuria contravening the nine power pact or the principles of the open door for trade.

The course eventually adopted by the President will depend not only on developments at Shanghai but on the attitude of the British and French governments toward joint action. There is no doubt that Mr. Hoover would be willing to dispatch American warships in conjunction either with British or French naval forces or both to the scene of the threatened trouble. Whether the other governments are disposed to join in cooperative measures of this character or whether Mr. Hoover would employ naval forces without support of other powers are matters not clear at this juncture.

Officials in Conference.

There was a conference yesterday between Secretary Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, which had to do with the disposition of American navy units in the Pacific which might be dispatched to Shanghai for the protection of American interests. One reason for the consideration of the employment of naval forces by the United States to protect its rights in the far east is said to have been the intelligence that Japan within two days will have naval units at Shanghai sufficient to constitute in effect a blockade of that port which would interfere with American shipping.

The extent to which the use of naval forces is figuring in the deliberations of the administration leaves no doubt that what the President is aiming at is a display of force that would constitute a warning to Japan to refrain from extreme measures in China or risk embroilment with the United States and perhaps other powers also over violation of the nine power pact. For several months the administration has been bombarded with appeals from various groups of citizens to adopt more forceful measures in dealing with Japan in the Manchurian affair.

Severance of diplomatic relations with Japan, which is generally about one step short of war, particularly has been demanded. Some of these memorialists are groups of pacifists, who have been most active in forcing curtailment of the American navy in international conferences and defeating appropriations for building the navy up to the limits established by the treaties they promoted.

Although Secretary Stimson declined to discuss his conference with the President after leaving the White House, other administration officials did not hesitate to pronounce the situation the most serious that has developed in the Sino-Japanese affair for the reason that American commercial interests are endangered not only by the presence of the Japanese fleet at Shanghai but by the possibility of an extensive Japanese occupation of northern China.

Mr. Stimson learned from Admiral Pratt that nearly the entire American navy now is in Pacific waters. On the Asiatic station are the Houston, an eight inch gun cruiser, nineteen destroyers, twelve submarines, and the Jason, an aircraft tender, with twelve planes. The destroyer Truxton is our only warship now at Shanghai, though another destroyer, the Borie, is due there tomorrow. The other warships in Asiatic waters are now in the Philippines. Altogether on the Asiatic station there are sixty-three ships of all kinds, manned by 456 officers and 5,844 enlisted men.

2,000 U. S. Marines in China.

Ashore in China there are 2,000 American marines of whom 52 officers and 1,173 enlisted men are stationed in the international settlement at Shanghai.

The entire battle fleet of the United States navy will be concentrated at the Hawaiian islands for the winter maneuvers early next month. The battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, aircraft carriers, and other craft composing the battle fleet early in February will steam toward Hawaii, which, as a result of the terms of the Washington treaty, now is the naval base nearest the far east that we are allowed to develop.

Whether any units of the battle fleet will be detached for reinforcement of our Asiatic forces remains to be seen. The aircraft carrier Langley which is capable of carrying 60 planes was ordered to the Asiatic station a couple of months ago to replace the Jason, but ordinarily would not arrive there for four months.

Strong Submarine Force.

The effect of the Washington treaty was to render the American navy incapable of meeting the Japanese navy on equal terms in the western Pacific.

Because of the distance of our effective base in the Hawaiian islands we could maintain in the western Pacific a force only 50 per cent of the strength of the Japanese fleet. The Japanese submarine force is far superior to ours, but our air forces are said to be superior to their. It is the judgment of American military experts that in any action our airplanes would be able to put out the eyes of the Japanese fleet.

'ARON, ONCE HEAD OF FASTING CULT, TAKEN BY DEATH

George H. Aron of the Birchwood hotel, 7464 Greenview avenue, one time head of a cult that held prolonged fasting as a part of its ritual, died yesterday in the Chicago hospital after he had been stricken by heart disease on the 47th street elevated station platform.

In the summer of 1929 Aron led a party of thirty persons, members of the Chicago Fasting club, to a wilderness in Colorado, where they expected to find "the truth" by a prolonged abstinence.

The party came to an unsuccessful end when Aron discovered that some of his followers had found a cherry tree and broken their fast. Two of his disciples, who later deserted him, said that some of the women a little later got possession of chickens and cooked them.

GARAGE MEN IN EVANSTON TALK OVER ABLIN BID

Evanston garage owners met yesterday afternoon in Redfield hall in Evanston to hear the report of a committee as to the advisability of forming an Evanston branch of the Chicago Public Garage Operators association under the leadership of David "Cock-eyed Hulligan" Ablin.

Thomas F. Polad, owner of the Avenue Auto company, 1623 Monroe street, Evanston, and chairman of the committee, reported that further time was needed for investigation, and the meeting adjourned, to be reconvened when the investigation is complete.

Ablin was head of the Midwest Garage Owners association until he was muscled out of that organization by George "Red" Barker.

Will Pledge to Suppress "Illegal" Boycott.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26. — Lights burned late tonight in the Japanese consulate here, where officials were awaiting fresh instructions from Tokio regarding what action to take should the Chinese refuse to comply with the Japanese ultimatum demanding suppression of the anti-Japanese boycott, damages for the Japanese killed and injured in recent riots, and the arrest and punishment of the Chinese rioters.

Meanwhile, in the Chinese area innumerable lanterns swung to and fro, illuminating the labors of Chinese forces continuing the work of entrenching and throwing up barricades of barbed wire and sandbags against an expected Japanese move to seize the city.

Japanese officials said emphatically that although Shigemitsu, the Japanese minister, would not arrive here from Japan until Sunday, Japan would not permit the Chinese to delay compliance with the Japanese demands that long.

Martial Law in Force.

All roads around Shanghai are patrolled by Chinese soldiers or merchant volunteers, while at the junctions of roadways and at the foreign settlement limits mounted Sikhs armed with rifles stand guard. Martial law is being enforced in the entire Chinese zone and Japanese marines are guarding cotton mills and other places with large Japanese investments, while along Shanghai's waterfront a long string of Japanese war craft are anchored. Thirteen more warships are on the way from Japan.

The situation is tense within the foreign settlement, where the Chinese members of the international police force are not attempting to conceal their hatred for the Japanese members.

Despite this perilous situation, which is considered likely to cost China foreign occupation of her main seaport in her greatest city, Chinese leaders continue sordid political and military intrigues and seem to be utterly heedless of the imminence of the blow which is likely to crumble the foundations of the national existence.

Newspaper Is Suppressed.

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Capitulating to the Japanese demand, the Republican Daily News, organ of the local Kuomintang, suspended publication indefinitely today. Observers considered the incident tantamount to independent Japanese action within the Chinese settlement.

Publication was halted after international settlement authorities had convinced the editors that in view of the tense situation here the newspaper had become a menace to peace and order, and suspension appeared desirable. Japan had asserted that unless the newspaper suspended or apologized it would use force to retaliate for editorials which the Japanese considered offensive.

Similar demands have been made elsewhere in Chira. In Foochow and Peiping Japanese officials demanded that two newspapers be closed because of articles displeasing to Japan.

Gen. Chen Ming-shu, minister of communications in the present Chinese government and old supporter of Gen. Chiang-Kai-shek, was named foreign minister today to succeed Eugene Chen, who resigned yesterday. The naming of Gen. Chen was the second rapid shift in the office in the 24 hours since Chen designed. Lo Wen-kan was named acting foreign minister earlier in the day.

Tokio War Council Maps Plans.

TOKIO, Jan. 26. — (AP) — The supreme military and naval council today drew up a tentative plan of action at Shanghai, which included a provision for sending another squadron of destroyers in case of necessity. Already eleven vessels are at anchor off Shanghai and thirteen more are on the way. They are expected to arrive Thursday. They carry a landing party of from 700 to 900 men.

Meanwhile, a news agency dispatch from Harbin, Manchuria, said new fighting had broken out between troops of Ting Chao, former commander of Chinese Eastern railway guards, and Kirin provincial forces.

Account of the Man Who Wouldn't Trust the Bank

Robinson, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The people of Crawford county accepted announcement that the eleven county banks had agreed to limit withdrawal deposits without excitement—all except one man. He entered a local bank and loudly demanded his deposit. Officials looked up his account. He was overdrawn $3.52.

FISCAL EXPERTS WILL LECTURE AT U. OF C. INSTITUTE

Bankers, economists, and government financial experts will participate in the Harris Foundation institute on gold and monetary stabilization which opens today. The institute will consist of four public lectures and a series of round table discussions on special problems at the University of Chicago.

Jacob Viner, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, will lecture on international balances and the gold standard in the evening at Leon Mandell hall. On Thursday afternoon H. Parker Willis, professor of banking at Columbia university, will discuss the federal reserve policy in the depression.

Friday afternoon Dr. Gottfried Haberler of the University of Vienna, who is a visiting professor at Harvard university, is to lecture on gold and the business cycle. The final public lecture on the future of the gold standard is to be given Saturday afternoon by Dr. Lionel D. Edie, vice president of the American Capital corporation.

This year's institute is the ninth of a series begun in 1924. The foundation was established in 1923 in memory of the late Norman Wait Harris, for many years head of the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

LEAGUE PONDERS STERN ACTION TO CURB JAPANESE

May Send Tokio Note Invoking 3 Pacts.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Jan. 26.—With a really angry Chinaman in their midst, the league of nations council appeared tonight to be meditating action in the Sino-Japanese dispute.

An admonition to the Tokio government, this time in line with the recent American note but invoking the league covenant and the Kellogg pact as well as the nine power treaty, was proposed by Lord Cecil today. Although the council met in secret, without the attendance of the angry Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese minister to Washington and China's representative on the league, or the still smiling Japanese representative, Naotake Sato, there were indications that the proposal has a chance for success.

China Threatens Drastic Move.

That China's energetic envoy to Washington seems prepared to be disagreeable has not been deplored even in the more polite league circles. Privately, pleasure is expressed at his maneuvers to force the council to try to salvage its prestige.

Dr. Yen has threatened to invoke Article XV. of the league covenant. But what is more serious is that he seems to mean it, abandoning China's theory that it would not pay to embarrass the league. And Article XV. is right next to Article XVI., that unpleasant one providing for sanctions against nations that resort to war. The very mention of this starts a chill in this already chilly shelter, since no exceptions are made for warlike "bandit hunts."

Joseph Paul-Boncour, French delegate to the council, who has replaced Aristide Briand as chairman of the council, warned the Japanese in the name of the council today to go easy in Shanghai.

French Frown on Move.

The Chinese when called in tonight objected strenuously to what they claim is an attempt to turn the Shanghai situation into a "red herring" for use in the Manchurian trial.

Lord Cecil's proposal to send a stiffer warning on Manchuria after Japan had not heeded the resolution adopted by the league last September did not arouse French enthusiasm. The Jugo-Slavs openly objected. They disapprove further efforts to stigmatize bandit chases as warlike, since they do not want their own hands tied if their particular bandits, the Bulgarian comitadji, get obstreperous near their frontier.

It is assumed here that a note from the league to Japan on the lines of the Washington note would precipitate a parley of nations under the nine power pact.

"Don't Worry," His Rule as He Attains 103d Year

Pittsfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Otto Jaritz celebrated his one hundred and third birthday near here today on the farm where he had lived for over seventy-five years. He has no rules for long life except that he has never allowed himself to worry.

indebtedness each year in proportion to the amount it has received from the bond fund."

Secretary Billman did not say so, but the earlier conference agreed that since the law limits tax warrants to 75 per cent of the levy against which they are issued it would be necessary to make the additional levy in this case $25,000,000 in order that the warrant sale might approach the $20,000,000 said to be needed in the crisis. Under this plan a total of $18,750,000 in warrants could be sold.

Higher Gas Tax Abandoned.

It was agreed in the conference of leaders a jump in the state tax rate such as would be required to carry out the original relief plan—estimated as high as a 30 cent increase over the state's present total rate of 39 cents—would meet with general opposition downstate. The new plan was declared to meet this issue satisfactorily.

The conference earlier had decided that the proposal to raise the needed funds by a two cent increase in the gasoline tax would not work out. Formal notices from the producers that they would take such a new tax into the courts were recalled and emphatic opposition from the rural districts was predicted. And expert advice was that there will not be sufficient money in the state gas tax fund this year to look for adequate aid from that source.

Ryerson Presides.

The conference was presided over by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Joint Emergency Relief fund of Cook county. Other representatives of the drive for aid were Britton I. Budd, Col. Edward J. Blair, George R. Carr, for a committee of the United Charities, and Attorneys Henry E. Cutler and Cyrus H. Adams.

The members of the senate present were Richard J. Barr, Joliet; Harry G. Wright, De Kalb; Earl B. Searcy, Springfield, and three Cook county men, Arthur A. Huebsch, James J. Barbour, and Peter Kielminski. The lower house was represented by Minority Leader Igoe of Chicago and Reuben G. Soderstrom, Streator. Other participants were President Emmett Whealan of the Cook county board, Corporation Counsel W. H. Sexton, and Harris S. Keller of the Chicago Bureau of Public Efficiency.

Opinions Dash Hopes.

While fear was expressed at the conference in Chicago last Saturday that the plan of calling the assemblymen back from their week of recess was of questionabl. legality, the leaders there felt that by unanimous consent several days' time might be devoted to work with a chance that the relief program would be enacted. The first bad news they received here came from Secretary Billman, who was asked about the legality of action taken this week. His adverse opinion was duplicated a short time later when Assistant Attorney General Winning appeared.

"I have made a search," said Secretary Billman, "and find no precedent for a meeting of the assembly in the midst of such a recess as this. It is rather doubtful whether it is legal."

"I think it's very doubtful," said Winning. "There isn't any authority for it that I've been able to find."

Tell Chicago's Need.

The Chicago speakers before the joint meeting of the members of the two houses were Mr. Ryerson and Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities. Mr. Ryerson told of the $10,000,000 drive for public subscriptions, but said that it became apparent that, when on Dec. 1 it was found there were 640,000 jobless in Cook county, public funds must be raised.

"It is a tragic situation," he said. "If we close down on Feb. 1, as we shall have to do unless this help is given, I hesitate to say what will happen if 12,000 jobless men are turned out on the streets."

Mr. Hunter gave vivid descriptions of cases of need that have come to his attention.

Following Secretary Billman's talk it was agreed the members of both houses would meet again at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

DISPROVES TALK OF HIGH PAY TO RELIEF WORKERS

Surveys Shows $117 a Month Is Average.

Rumors of inflated salaries paid to workers charged with the care of the destitute and helpless under the Joint Emergency Relief fund were exploded yesterday by Frank D. Loomis, secretary of the fund, with the publication of figures from the salary lists. After a survey of the overhead costs and all agencies coöperating with the fund, Mr. Loomis reported that he found the average salary paid to the social workers is $117.16 a month.

"In times of disaster there are always wild rumors flying about," Mr. Loomis added. "It may be due to the natural desire to gossip, or to malice on the part of some who do not deserve or need aid, but are seeking a 'free ride' in this great emergency.

Complete Figures Assembled.

"Therefore I have had assembled complete figures concerning moneys paid all social workers, including supervisors and district superintendents, by relief agencies coöperating with the fund, and $117.16 is the average monthly salary of the 407 persons on their rolls. These agencies include the United Charities, Catholic Charities, Jewish Social Service bureau, Salvation Army, and the Joint Emergency Relief stations under Red Cross supervision.

"The almost superhuman amount of work each one of these workers is doing should be emphasized. Whereas in normal times a trained social worker will care for 50 to 75 families, now each one has an average of 245 under her care, or three to five times as many as usual. Of course, not as extensive case work can be done, because the whole matter of relief has had to be put temporarily on a disaster basis.

Points to Overtime Work.

"Nevertheless, relief workers of all agencies are working early and late, often far into the night and on Sundays. Nowhere are courage and fidelity to the task in this emergency being shown in greater measure. Many of them are working to the point of exhaustion, and many will suffer nervous breakdowns if the pace keeps up.

"We hope, of course, for the demand to taper off, but no decrease has begun to appear as yet. During December these 407 case workers were providing relief to 99,839 families, or more than 400,000 persons. They also interviewed thousands of other families and helped find a way out of their needs."

225 Woodchoppers Dismissed.

Lack of funds to pay their salaries caused the dismissal yesterday of 225 men who had been employed in the forest preserves, cutting down dead timber for distribution to needy persons. More than 1,500 truckloads of wood have been cut up into serviceable lengths and given away since Nov. 15, according to Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the preserves. Only a small amount of dead timber remains and any one caught felling trees in the forest preserve district will be subject to arrest, Supt. Sauers emphasized, because only trained foresters can determine the condition of the trees at this season.

MAC DONALD AND LAVAL ABANDON PLAN FOR PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—All pretense that Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Laval will meet to discuss reparations and war debts has been abandoned. Officials are adopting the convenient formula that "sufficient means of discussion exist in ordinary diplomatic channels," and that it will be unnecessary for the premiers to waste their time in a personal discussion.

ALDERMEN ASK SALE OF CHEAP MILK TO POOR

Propose 100 Stations for Distribution.

The opening of 100 emergency milk stations in Chicago to sell milk in waxed paper cartons at 6 or 7 cents a quart to those who cannot afford to pay 12 cents a quart for delivered milk was asked in a resolution approved yesterday by a council subcommittee. The resolution would ask Mayor Cermak to instruct the board of health to coöperate in this relief project.

ALD. SUTTON.

The subcommittee, consisting of Aldermen David L. Sutton [8th], chairman; John F. Healy [6th], and John J. Lagodny [21st], has been appointed to investigate the milk situation in Chicago. The resolution was proposed by Ald. Lagodny after Chairman Sutton threatened to ask the department of justice to investigate the milk situation in Chicago.

Charges Price Fixing.

Ald. Sutton said there was clear evidence of price fixing. He complained that the dealers had evaded cost questions and has refused to bring their books before the committee.

"From evidence obtained by this committee, we have formed the opinion that there is an organized effort upon the part of the milk industry as a whole to maintain a price that will prevent thousands of small children from obtaining the necessary amount of milk for their well being," Ald. Sutton said.

"Information has come to us that producers have been instructed to feed the so called surplus to the hogs rather than to the destitute of Chicago, in order to maintain a high price."

When informed of the proposal to set up the 100 milk depots which will sell milk at cost Mayor Cermak indicated that he would approve the project.

Bundesen Is a Witness.

One of the witnesses who appeared in the investigation meeting yesterday was Dr. Herman Bundesen, president of the board of health. He emphasized the necessity of an adequate supply of milk both for children and adults.

Bundesen had no comment to offer on the feasibility of opening the milk stations, which Ald. Sutton suggested might be set up in police and fire stations if the need and the means were found to b immediate. One indication of a possible objection by the health department to this cheaper milk, however, was in his statement: "I am in favor of cheap milk for the people, but it must be safe."

R. P. Ames of Madison, Wis., representative of the Pure Milk Products association of Wisconsin farmers, told the committee he did not think there was evidence of conspiracy in milk prices. He warned the investigators that "price wars" are dangerous to milk quality.

JANITOR, 82, FOUND DEAD.

William Bell, 82 years old, was found dead, apparently from heart disease, yesterday in the basement apartment of the building at 3648 Grenshaw street in which he was employed as janitor. Police began a search for relatives.

U. S. ARMS DELEGATES HEAR PEACE SOCIETIES' PLEA ABOARD SHIP

S. S. PRESIDENT HARDING, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Senator Claude A. Swanson and Dr. Mary Emma Woolley, American delegates to the international disarmament conference, received representatives of three women's peace societies today and listened without comment to their pleas for disarmament.

The delegations represented the national council for prevention of war, the committee on the cause and cure of war, and the women's international league for peace and freedom. Six points were urged on Senator Swanson and Dr. Woolley regarding their attitude when the conference opens in Geneva. They were:

Open sessions and complete publicity, exercise of a leading rôle by the American delegates, direct limitation of armaments, discontinuance of poison gas and chemical warfare, organization of a permanent disarmament commission to make reduction continuous, budgetary limitation of arms.

NAME OFFICIALS FOR WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY FETES

Mayor Cermak yesterday named Francis X. Busch as chairman and City Controller Szymczak as vice chairman of the Chicago George Washington bicentennial commission. The group was created by the city council to prepare local plans for the national celebration.

"Chicago calls upon its citizens to pay adequate tribute to George Washington by taking part in the various celebrations that will be staged here throughout the year," said the mayor at a meeting of the commission. "Let us make 1932 a 'George Washington year' with Chicago's celebrations leading the country."

MANUFACTURERS URGED TO HELP HUNGRY PUPILS

Manufacturers are invited today to send their gifts to the Hungry School Children's fund so that free lunches for needy children in 211 public schools need not be discontinued.

By stretching pennies those administering the fund have managed to guarantee lunches until Feb. 4. Should the Hungry School Children's fund be unable to function after that date 10,000 children will be denied their lunches. For most of them these lunches are the heartiest meal of the day.

Manufacturers have been among the fund's best friends. The fund, therefore, looks to them to stand by in the new emergency. Gifts received yesterday were as follows:

LOESCH BALKS AT TESTIFYING TO GRAND JURY

Judges' Accuser May Ask an Open Hearing.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission and recently a member of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement, refused yesterday to sign an immunity waiver when called before the grand jury. He was summoned to substantiate his charges that certain unnamed judges were "ignorant," and "subservient," applying to them such terms as "mountebanks" and "cash register."

As a result of his refusal to sign the waiver he did not testify. Mr. Loesch may suggest an inquiry into his evidence by a group of judges—an open hearing rather than the closed grand jury quiz.

Mr. Loesch was called before the grand jury as a result of an action of Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court Monday, who told the jury that Loesch should be compelled to prove his charges or face indictment on charges of libel. Mr. Loesch's statements regarding the judiciary were made in his annual address to the crime commission last week when he was reëlected president for his fifth term.

Reject Disbarment Move.

During the noon hour Judge Fisher called a meeting of the eight judges assigned to the Criminal court for a discussion regarding proposals to bring disbarment proceedings against Mr. Loesch and Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission. Col. Chamberlin also is a lawyer. Judge Fisher said the judges decided against such action.

Mr. Loesch refused to accept a telephone notification to appear before the grand jury. Mr. Marshall was told by Attorney Edward A. Zimmerman, a member of the crime commission, that a regular subpœna must be served. After this was done Loesch and Zimmerman appeared at the Criminal court building and when Mr. Loesch was called into the jury room he said he refused to sign the immunity waiver on advice of his counsel, Mr. Zimmerman.

Lawyer Issues Statement.

"Mr. Loesch has asked me to advise him on the request made by Mr. Marshall that he sign an immunity waiver before testifying," said Attorney Zimmerman in a public statement. "I have advised him not to sign the waiver.

"Mr. Loesch is not a criminal and does not stand here accused of any crime. He is here to answer a grand jury subpœna and stands ready to respond to that subpœna in due course and answer any questions propounded.

"However, it has been publicly understood that the general purpose of this inquiry is to indict some one or more judges if Mr. Loesch produces sufficient evidence to do that, or failing to do that, then it is the purpose to indict some one or more officers or members of the crime commission or to lay the foundation for libel suits.

No Libel, Attorney Says.

"Mr. Loesch has not libeled any one. His annual address to the crime commission was made openly. Neither Mr. Loech nor the crime commission has anything to hide. His motives and its records are open to critical inspection."

"It has been publicly charged that Mr. Loesch's motives were evil. Let me read from the opening paragraphs of his speech:

"'During the years in which I have had the honor to serve you as president, taken in connection with my experience and service in official positions, I have learned much of the workings of law enforcement. Some things in my experience stand out to which I feel I must call attention if you are to be advised of conditions as they are in criminal law enforcement. I do not do it in any spirit of captious criticism but in the interest of public welfare and of truth.'

Quotes Comment on Judges.

"It has been further intimated that Mr. Loesch has libeled the judges as a group. Let me again read from his speech:

"'It is hardly necessary for me to say that I make no general charge against all the judges for I have a high respect for many of them and we have many judges who must feel as strongly as I do concerning the conduct of the judges whose actions I have criticized.'"

"It was reported in the press that Mr. Loesch 'assailed' the state's attorney. He made but one reference to the state's attorney and that was as follows:

"'Without meaning to be overcritical, I feel compelled to say that the state's attorney has not shown that vigor and effectiveness in the prosecution of criminals which was expected of him when he was so triumphantly elected by public acclaim nearly four years ago.'"

"If that be libelous, let them make the most of it."

Comment of Judge Fisher.

Judge Fisher made the following statement when he was informed of Mr. Loesch's refusal to testify under an immunity waiver:

"I am surprised that any person claiming to be entitled to the respect of the community would permit himself to be put in the light that Mr. Loesch has. Only those who are afraid that what they say before a tribunal may be used against them as incriminating refuse to sign immunity waivers.

"However, that is up to Mr. Loesch and his counsel. That is his right and I find no fault with it, but we have not come to the position where Mr. Loesch, his counsel, or any other person can dictate the creation of a new and heretofore unknown tribunal."

HAWAII INDICTS MASSIE FOR 2D DEGREE MURDER

Mother-in-Law and Two Sailors Also Named.

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 26.—The Honolulu grand jury today indicted Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Washington and New York society matron, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two navy enlisted men—E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones—for second degree murder. The indictments were voted in connection with the abduction and slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, one of five men accused of raping Mrs. Massie, Mrs. Fortescue's daughter.

The grand jury submitted its indictment after deliberating for ten hours and only after Circuit Judge A. M. Cristy had hurled a reference of "anarchy" at the jurors.

Removes Possibility of Hanging.

The indictment removes the possibility of hanging in case of a conviction since second degree murder carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment and a minimum of twenty years. The action also opens the way for a possible jurisdiction by the navy. A "gentleman's agreement" between the navy and local authorities provides for naval jurisdiction over naval personnel in crimes not involving capital punishment. Mrs. Fortescue, however, must stand a civil trial.

A conference on the matter of jurisdiction is expected to be held tonight between Special Prosecutor Barry S. Ulrich, Gov. Lawrence M. Judd and naval authorities.

As soon as the indictment was returned, Montgomery Winn, attorney for the defendants, announced he will enter a motion to quash the bill tomorrow on the ground that Judge Cristy had coerced the jurors.

Judge Admonishes Jurors.

When the grand jury resumed its inquiry this morning Judge Cristy again severely admonished the jurors to put aside their personal prejudices. Indicating that the jurors had presented a report last Friday which the court rejected, the judge asked the jurors whether they were willing to accept responsibility for "anarchy" in the community. He suggested that any member feeling that he was unable to carry out his oath should resign.

Judge Cristy's remarks to the inquisitorial body were interpreted by some to mean that the grand jury had previously refused to vote a true bill against the quartet.

Attorneys Ulrich and Eugene H. Beebe were appointed today by the Honolulu chamber of commerce and the Honolulu Bar association to assist in prosecuting Lieut. Massie and the other three defendants. The two will also assist the prosecutor at the second trial of the four surviving youths in the rape case. The jury disagreed at the first trial.

Union Leaders Stay in Rail Wage Cut Huddle

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The railway unions were still unable last night, after 36 hours of deliberations, to reach an agreement on whether they will accept the 10 per cent wage cut demanded by the railroad managements.

The labor leaders this morning will enter upon their third day of argument on the subject and none of the labor leaders would predict when the end will be sighted. Much less would they forecast whether the unions will accept the pay cut or turn it down and take their chances in arbitration.

Presidents Await Answer.

The committee of nine railroad presidents who presented the wage cut plea to the unions have sat idle in their quarters at the Palmer house and have had no word from the labor forces since last Sunday night, when the presidents submitted to the unions their last stand on the issues involved.

Late last night, after a prolonged session of the executives of the 21 railway brotherhoods, David B. Robertson, chairman, announced that the situation was practically unchanged from Monday night. There were still 11 brotherhoods which had failed to wind up their discussions and get to a definite decision. The representatives of the other 10 unions are ready to take a stand, but what the stand might be or whether these 10 are divided or together in their decision was not revealed even to the other executives.

Consider Problem—Robertson.

"It should not be considered unusual for us to take several days in this task," Mr. Robertson said. "This is the first time in history that labor and capital have come together to settle national wage and employment problems in a friendly negotiation. It is a big problem. We labor representatives are acting for 2,000,000 railway employés, a fourth of whom are out of jobs. The railroads are asking us to give them $225,000,000 of our wages.

"We are working hard to reach a decision, but naturally we are not going to act without giving to the problem the full and careful consideration which it deserves."

Mr. Robertson said that the unions are working in the greatest harmony and solidarity. There has been no dissension or quarreling, even though there have been differences of opinion voiced.

Executives Meet Today.

The labor executives will hold another meeting at 1 o'clock this afternoon, at which further progress may be reported. The discussions among the various brotherhoods will continue until a decision to act has been reached.

It appeared from what was larned about the meetings that the decision will be guided largely if not entirely by the action taken by two brotherhoods, the firemen and the trainmen.

The "big four" brotherhoods—engineers, conductors, firemen, and trainmen—hold the balance of power in the association of rail unions, and when they decide what to do the other brotherhoods are expected to follow.

Report Two Accept Cut.

The conductors and engineers are understood to have agreed to accept the full 10 per cent wage cut, but it is reported they have withheld announcement of their position because if the firemen and trainmen decide to fight the cut the two other big four unions will stand by them and present a united front against the railroads' demands.

Viewed in this light, the deliberations of the firemen, guided by Mr. Robertson, and of the trainmen, headed by President A. F. Whitney, assumed vital importance.

At the same time there seemed to be a holding back by some of the organizations, whose leaders fear the political consequences of being the first to make a decision. It was also learned that the general chairmen, as the local union officers are titled, have insisted that their chief executive make the decision, while the executives insist that the men must make it. This also reflects the organization politics entering into the question.

Compromises Suggested.

In many of the separate discussions various compromises were suggested for submission to the railroad presidents. These included a proposal to try for a cut less than 10 per cent before submitting to the full amount; a suggestion to have the cut apply only to employés earning more than a fixed sum, probably $100 a month; a plan to put the savings resulting from the cut into a pool from which financially distressed roads might borrow.

However, when these suggested compromises crop up, there is usually a reply from other union leaders that the railroads would not temporize further, that the unions must take the 10 per cent cut or leave it. Some of these leaders have suggested that the unions had better take the cut, that they could not "leave it," because they believed that the railroads would then try to enforce a 15 per cent cut and make the employés "like it."

PASS 500 MILLION RECONSTRUCTION BILL; LAW TODAY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The five hundred million dollar appropriation bill to provide capital for the new reconstruction finance corporation received congressional approval today.

The house, which had previously passed the measure, refused to concur in the amendment attached by the senate yesterday to permit the secretary of agriculture to use a portion of the amount for the administration of the 200 million dollars of the corporation's credit set aside for direct loans to farmers.

Led by Representative Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the house appropriation committee, the house balked and it was decided not to approve the amendment unless the director of the budget would send a specific recommendation.

The senate settled the matter by receding from the amendment, permitting the bill to be signed by the President tomorrow.

AURORA STARTS BUSINESS TODAY; RECESS PRAISED

Industry and business will start again today in Aurora after a five day moratorium. The holidays were proclaimed last Friday by Mayor Conrad Bjorseth as a measure to restore faith in Aurora's five banks.

During the moratorium 13,800 of the 14,100 depositors in Aurora banks signed pledges not to withdraw more than 10 per cent of their deposits in any month. The depositors have also signed cards renouncing the hoarding of money in safe deposit vaults.

W. M. Willett Sr., head of the group of business leaders who sponsored the moratorium, declared the plan had been a success. "Now that people are certain that their next door neighbors will not draw out their funds and have confidence that our banks are solvent, we have gone a long way," said Mr. Willett.

TITLED BRITON ORDERED TO PAY WIFE $7 A WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26. — Chronically broke and, according to the court's description a "rolling stone" wandering through three continents, Clotworthy Wellington Thomas Edward Rowley, who inherited the title of Lord Langford while in Australia, was ordered to pay $7 a week to his wife, a former tea shop waitress.

Langford worked his way back to England from Australia after he became a peer in order to resist his wife's action. He told the court that he was wearing borrowed clothes.

A long series of letters in which Lord Langford alternately promised to turn over a new leaf and support his wife, and then reviled her because she refused to leave Dublin and join him in Australia were in evidence.

HEAD OF SHRINE FORCES FOE OFF TICKET OF CLUB

The annual election of officers and directors of the Medinah Athletic club was held last night after Thomas J. Houston, imperial potentate of the Shriners of North America, had forced a candidate for director off the ticket. Otto E. Schmidt, a candidate for a two year term, resigned his nomination after Houston had threatened to expel the officers from the Shrine if Schmidt were elected.

The officers elected, all of whom were unopposed, are Robert J. Virtue, president; Will J. Bell, first vice president; John H. Kraft, second vice president; Guy L. V. Emerson, secretary; Paul W. Pettengill, treasurer, and directors, Fred O. Burkholder, three years; Alfred Walcher, three years; John W. Schippman, two years; John R. Fugard, one year, and James S. Turner, one year.

Houston's action in forcing Schmidt off the ticket, it was said, was because the latter was not a member in good standing of the Shrine. Schmidt, with another member, was expelled from the Shrine early last fall after being instrumental in removing Houston as president of the club, charging inefficiency when the club went into a receivership.

CHARGE ARSON AS GARY MOVIE THEATER BURNS

The Plaza Theater building at 12th street and Broadway, Gary, was destroyed by fire of alleged incendiary origin early yesterday with a loss of $100,000. The theater on the first floor and offices on the second floor of the two story brick building were gutted.

Fire Chief Joseph Shirk said he found that an oily substance had been poured on the theater seats. Deputy State Fire Marshal William Hindel also ascribed the blaze to incendiaries and charged that an arson ring is at work in Lake county.

HEAD OF CLOSED CROWN POINT BANK INDICTED

Jacob J. Steeb, president of the defunct Peoples State bank of Crown Point, Ind., was charged with the embezzlement of $82,000 in bonds in an indictment returned by the Lake county grand jury at Crown Point yesterday. The bank closed shortly before Christmas. Prosecutors alleged that an audit failed to reveal the disposition of bonds entrusted to the banker by Mrs. Guy Clark, wealthy Crown Point widow, in 1930.

The jury also returned two other indictments charging three men with conspiracy in filing and approving false claims for inspection of highway material. Those named are James Black of Lowell, Ind., Lake county commissioner; William Linton of Crown Point, former conuty commissioner, and Ross Smith of Hammond, former inspector of highway materials. All posted bonds of $2,000 each.

The depositors' committee of the closed Cicero Trust and Savings bank will meet tomorrow evening in the Cicero Community house at 16th street and 50th avenue.

ARCHITECTS HIT SCHEME TO GRAB ALL ESTIMATES

Resolutions have been adopted by the Illinois Society of Architects attacking "certain electrical contractors" who are said to have formed a scheme of centralizing all estimates of cost under which no work can be undertaken in building construction unless the central bureau passes on the proposed cost.

The architects ask that all members of the society insist upon independent estimates and that the central bureau be ignored. It is reported that the so-called central bureau is an outgrowth of a movement originating with officials of the electricians' union whereby the bureau might collect a fee from all building proposed.

The architects also adopted a resolution urging a reduction of 35 per cent in the wages of all the trades in the building industry. This action is in support of the Allied Construction council, which recently led the way by a similar recommendation.

STORY OF HOW GUM BECAME A BIG BUSINESS

Chicle and Wrigley Rise in World Together.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

When William Wrigley Jr. touched chewing gum it was an orphan among products, a low caste confection at which the well bred arched their brows. Until chewing gum touched him, William Wrigley Jr. was only another struggling young salesman with ideas too big for his pocketbook. Together they made fortunes, built factories, adventured into far countries and high places, achieved social standing.

The prince of Wales, visiting the Wrigley building, was photographed reaching for a stick of the masticatory triumph and joy of the builder's life. The prince candidly acknowledged his fondness for the chewy morsel.

An Exchange of Favors.

Wrigley made gum known, and it returned the favor, in practically every land under the sun.

He knew, as only comparatively few people know, that even back in the Aztec days, a form of chewing gum was used by the feminine beauties to promote good teeth and shapely lips. And that the chicle then used was identical with that which formed the base for his own products. It has been used by many nations in many different stages of history.

Mr. Wrigley discovered when he went into the venture on a large scale, that the chicle is the sap of the sapota tree, a jungle giant which grows in Central and South America; that one of these trees must be at least half a century old before it is tapped; that it will yield only six pounds at a time, and that five years must elapse between tappings.

Other Facts About Chicle.

Other data about the process of gum manufacture came to be familiar as his business expanded. He learned that the milky chicle is usually boiled on Sunday, for some obscure reason nobody has ever satisfactorily explained; that the manner of getting the chicle from the trees suggests our method of gathering sap from the maple tree, though in a far different setting; that the native known as a chiclero, with a sharp machete in a scabbard at his belt, swarms up the trunk and deftly slices the herringbone path down which the sap may run.

He found that the basic liquid is put into iron pots, placed over roaring wood fires for cooking, then cooled in molds for shipping. And it was at this stage of the proceeding that Mr. Wrigley's genius for perfecting and marketing his individual brands entered into his business.

For when he first noted, as an indifferently successful soap salesman, that chewing gum was liked by the public when he distributed boxes of it as premiums with his soap, he deduced that better gum might be even more popular and profitable.

Where the Flavor Comes From.

He set about catering to a taste, to create a demand. His method was based, for the major part, on distinctive flavoring and sanitary manufacture.

His company is at present the greatest user of flavor in the world. Vast fields in Michigan and Indiana produce spearmint and peppermint for the flavoring of gum. On one farm alone, comprising 3,000 acres, the entire output is grown exclusively for the Wrigley company.

Chemists retained by the far seeing founder of the concern worked out ways and means of improving the taste and quality of the savory little sticks, and the results of their labors are formulae which are kept carefully guarded.

Adventures with Premiums.

One of the methods employed with such happy results by the young merchant in building up his infant business was the distribution of generous premiums to dealers. Twice it cost him his fortune, when he guessed wrong on the article. There was the instance when, deciding to plunge, he ordered a tremendous number of silver plated cologne bottles.

In his haste to turn out the lot the manufacturer made the plating too thin and by the time the bottles arrived at their destinations they were already tarnished. Some of the country dealers also failed to recognize the bottles and returned them with such comments as:

"Your sirup jug has no handle. We can't use it."

Again Mr. Wrigley contracted for 100,000 green handbags to be sold over the counter by dealers, without realizing that in small towns feminine psychology would resent the appearance on the street of more than a couple of such distinctively colored purses. More than 19,000 came back, a dead loss.

His advertising motto was: "Tell 'em quick and tell 'em often," and he was frequently heard to express the opinion that advertising is like running a furnace, because "You've got to keep on shoveling coal. Once you stop stoking, the fire goes out."

Fortune of Wrigley Built with Coins of Many Lands

William Wrigley's income was reckoned in pennies, centavos, pfennigs, piasters, and yen. He taught the world the chewing gum habit and had factories in Chicago, New York, Toronto, London, Frankfort-on-Main, and Sydney, Australia.

The standard five cent package of Wrigley's gum was unsuitable for foreign trade, so the necessary change was made. For Germany a two pfenig package was prepared and in England a two pence package was widely sold.

The Chinese market was a problem for a time, it being impractical to advertise the Wrigley packaged brands in the hundreds of Chinese dialects. The problem was met by providing the merchants with scissors and ribbons of gum, from which they clipped off chews as a dry goods clerk trims bolts of cloth.

About ten years ago Mr. Wrigley revived the manufacture of a sugar coated tablet gum, which he had discontinued two decades before. The new confection was called "P.-K.'s," and friends supposed the brand was named as a compliment to his son, Philip K. Wrigley, who had been made president of the company shortly before.

The guess, Mr. Wrigley explained, was only partly correct. The principal reason for his choice of the name, he said, was that the letters P and K appeared in every alphabet and thus could be advertised in any tongue, whereas many languages had no letter "W," making the name of William Wrigley unpronounceable in those tongues.

"Nothing Great Was Ever Achieved Without Enthusiasm."

Despite the impression of youthful vigor in his personality, Mr. Wrigley was never secretive about his age. When an insurance company issued him a $1,000,000 policy thirteen years ago he chuckled over the fact that the eight examining physicians could find no organic troubles in him—a man of 57 years.

The reported annual premium on the policy was $60,000. On this basis Mr. Wrigley had paid $780,000 in premiums on the policy to the time of his death.

There was tenacity in Mr. Wrigley's character, as illustrated by his seventeen year litigation with L. P. Larson Jr., a competitor. Back in 1911 Mr. Wrigley filed suit charging the Larson company with trademark and patent infringements in the manufacture of Doublemint gum with a wax sealed wrapper.

Larson retaliated with a countersuit, making the same charge. Master in Chancery Charles B. Morrison found for Larson to the sum of $2,800,000, and Federal Judge Wilkerson, in 1928, confirmed the master's finding. Mr. Wrigley announced he was just beginning to fight. The case went to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme court, whence it was returned again to the District court. A second appeal was made and finally on Dec. 8, 1928, the Wrigley company settled for $1,900,000.

Mr. Wrigley owned a stock farm, Green Gables, near Lake Geneva, Wis. There he raised Poland China hogs. At an auction in 1920 twenty-six of the porkers brought a total of $55,975, and Mr. Wrigley refused a bid of $50,000 for his prize boar, the Clansman, for which he had paid $15,000.

In 1920, while a trustee of Lincoln park, he gave $4,000 for the purchase of a hippopotamus, a huge beast, whose cavernous mouth and wrinkled hide are still a source of awe to the children visiting the park zoo.

The jokes Mr. Wrigley relished most were those on himself. He was fond of telling how he once got "stuck" with 2,500 pounds of honey. He had heard of an Idaho apiary where the bees fed on alfalfa and produced a honey of tantalizing flavor. He asked a salesman to call, tasted the honey and instructed the salesman to send him by express fifty boxes of the size the salesman carried for a sample.

The salesman may have been shrewd or possibly there was a mistake. In either event, Mr. Wrigley reached his office one morning three days later to find fifty "boxes" stacked up along the walls, each box containing 50 pounds of honey. The express bill was $197. The honey was distributed among his employés and the Illinois Home for Crippled Children.

"I couldn't eat that much honey in a lifetime," Mr. Wrigley laughed. "It wouldn't have been so bad except for that express bill. It could have come by freight for $15."

The Wrigley employment welfare plan, established in 1919, was considered a model of its kind. The workers, mainly girls, were allowed a free manicure and shampoo once a month on company time. They were provided free linen dresses and free laundry. They lunched at a company cafeteria operated at a loss and, when ill, had the free services of a company nurse, physician and hospital. Each employé received a $300 paid up insurance policy upon completing three months of service and a share of stock after one year.

WRIGLEY MAKER OF HISTORY IN CHICAGO TRADE

Business Men Tell of His Acumen.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Many were the stories told yesterday about William Wrigley Jr., by Chicago bankers and business men. There were instances of his great business ability, which brought to him one of the large American fortunes, coupled with a prodigality that often amazed his friends.

It was recalled that Mr. Wrigley was one of a little group that made financial and industrial history when Chicago was emerging as the western metropolis. In this group of younger business men were John Hertz, the late John R. Thompson, Charles McCulloch and Albert D. Lasker. While each man developed an individual business that later became national in scope, they were all friends and each man became financially interested in the enterprise of the others.

Helps Found Yellow Cab.

For example, when Hertz and McCulloch conceived the idea of a big taxi service for Chicago, it was Wrigley who joined in to help them acquire the old Walton Shaw company. From that beginning grew the Chicago Yellow Cab and the Yellow Cab Manufacturing companies, which made fortunes for their originators, although both finally were sold to other interests.

It was this same little group that "took a flyer" in the motion picture field in Chicago when the movies were emerging into a great enterprise. They gave financial backing to the Balaban & Katz company, which developed the present chain of de luxe theaters in Chicago. And again Wrigley and his friends made additional fortunes. The Balaban & Katz enterprises later were sold to what now is the Paramount Publix corporation and control passed from the Chicagoans. Only a short time ago Wrigley, Hertz and McCulloch returned to the field and became identified with the management of Paramount-Publix.

Backer of Many Enterprises.

While Mr. Wrigley's business ability was chiefly devoted to his own company, it was recalled that his energy and enthusiasm overflowed into all sorts of enterprises. He was willing to back almost any kind of undertaking that had any chance of success. Most of these enterprises turned out exceedingly well.

One of the stories told yesterday was how Wrigley backed Charles Weeghman in establishing a chain of restaurants, lending Weeghman more than $100,000 on the latter's notes. But John R. Thompson also was building another restaurant chain. Then Weeghman got interested in baseball and started the Federal league.

The war between the Federal league and the National and American leagues was settled. Weeghman emerged from it as new head of the Cubs, but his restaurant business got into difficulty. It was said that Weeghman turned over his interest in the Cubs to Wrigley in payment of his debts—and so Wrigley became financially interested in baseball.

Stands by Chicle Imports.

It also was recalled that a decision made by Wrigley at the beginning of the world war gave his company a preëminent position in the chewing gum industry. American companies had been importing chicle from Yucatan, but shipping became scarce and ocean freight rates rose extravagantly. Several companies formulated substitutes for chicle, which didn't prove satisfactory, but Wrigley continued to import it.

Last year by devising a unique trade agreement he employed the facilities of his company to support the falling wheat and cotton markets, with expectations of eventually realizing a profit on the plan. His first move was in wheat, when he told his Canadian distributors that they were to accept up to 1,000,000 bushels at a specified price in trade for chewing gum. Later he made the same offer in the cotton states, taking up 100,000,000 pounds at not more than 12 cents a pound.

Fortune Put at 30 to 100 Millions.

All his varied enterprises resulted in bringing Mr. Wrigley a great fortune. Estimates by his associates yesterday ranged anywhere from thirty to 100 million dollars. He was the majority stockholder in the 63 million dollar William Wrigley Jr. company, whose earnings in 1930 exceeded 12 million dollars.

His son, Philip K. Wrigley, who is president of the company, said last night that none of his father's stock will be sold for inheritance tax or any other purposes, as ample provisions have been made to take care of all estate and federal expenditures.

WRIGLEY RITES TOMORROW IN PASADENA HOME

ing the policies or personnel of the William Wrigley Jr. company, it was announced.

Beyond attending the services at Pasadena and visiting Catalina island to survey the ground for the mausoleum, the Wrigley family has made no plans, Kirkman added. He said they expected to remain in the west for some weeks, probably occupying the forty room home in the shadow of Camel Back mountain at Phoenix. Construction of this home and supervision of additions to his $3,500,000 Arizona Biltmore hotel, which the home overlooks, were among the last enterprises of Mr. Wrigley's long career.

Fortune Founded on Gum.

The fortune of William Wrigley, now spread among banks, mines, real estate projects, and the movie industry, was founded on a 5 cent package of gum and on his faith in advertising. He was one of the greatest advertisers in the world and was rated one of the five wealthiest men in Chicago.

He was born in Germantown, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia, on Sept. 30, 1861, the son of William Wrigley, a prosperous soap manufacturer. At the age of 11 he ran away to New York and there established his first business enterprise in the form of a newsstand in front of the New York Tribune building.

The truant lad's penny profits were small and he tired after a few months of making his nightly pillow on a bundle of unsold newspapers. On his return to Germantown his father decided the best cure for his runaway proclivities was to put him to work. Within two years, at the age of 13, he was a drummer on the road, selling soap dealers the output of the father's factory.

Comes to Chicago in 1891.

Such was his success that, at the age of 21, his father offered him a full partnership. At the time there was much talk in the east of the rising western metropolis, Chicago.

Wrigley Jr. came west in 1891 and founded his own concern, William Wrigley Jr. & Co. His first choice of a product to manufacture was baking powder. This choice drew his attention to chewing gum, for it was while he was offering the confection as a premium to baking powder sales that he became aware of the possibilities of its exploitation.

Chewing gum, he reasoned, could be shipped anywhere and be made to pay its freight. One hundred pounds of his father's product, soap, was worth only $5, he knew, but 100 pounds of chewing gum was worth $100.

Starts in Gum Business.

He was purchasing his gum premiums from the Zeno Manufacturing company. Wrigley contracted for 10,000 boxes of the confection, which he named Wrigley's Vassar. In those days the product was mixed like dough and rolled, cut into sticks, and wrapped by hand. The contract was considered an enormous order, for a girl could wrap and pack only twelve boxes a day.

However, Wrigley's faith in the product was supreme. He chose New York for his market and contracted for $10,000 worth of advertising. The campaign showed no results. Wrigley borrowed and launched a second advertising campaign.

Almost overnight the results of the double campaign were apparent and Wrigley's career as the world's gum magnate was fairly begun. In 1911 he bought out the Zeno company, paying $2,500,000 for the plant he might have purchased for a tenth of that sum in the nineties.

Wrigley set out to educate the world to the chewing gum habit. Premiums helped him popularize the product and in the first few years he gave away tons of gum to develop potential customers. Twenty-five years after he first embarked on the venture the public was paying $30,000,000 for his products every year and by 1930 his annual sales were above $70,000,000.

Enters World of Baseball.

A jest by a fellow drummer in his early gum selling days brought Wrigley into the baseball world. The story is told that the other drummer twitted him because the Chicago club of the National league was controlled by Cincinnati interests.

Twenty years after hearing the jibe Mr. Wrigley, always an ardent baseball fan, formed a syndicate with several other Chicagoans to acquire the Cubs. Within the last few years he gained the majority ownership.

A third major venture was the purchase of Catalina island in 1919. Two years later he also bought the Los Angeles baseball club of the Pacific Coast league and developed the island as a pleasure resort, with the Cubs and the Los Angeles teams playing practice games there as an attraction.

Among other interests he was a director of the First National bank and First Union Trust and Savings bank, the Boulevard Bridge bank, the Consumers company, the John R. Thompson company, the Erie railroad, and the Wilmington Transportation company. He was chairman of the board of the William Wrigley Jr. company and the Bon Air Coal and Iron Company of Tennessee. He was a trustee of the Field museum, member of the executive committee of the Chicago Red Cross, and a member of the Chicago club, Chicago Athletic association and Glen View Golf club.

Supporter of Republican Party.

Mr. Wrigley was a generous supporter of the Republican party, but never aspired to political office. In the presidential campaign of 1920 he and Mr. Lasker visited the Republican nominee, Warren G. Harding, at his home in Marion, O., and mapped out a billboard advertising program to support Harding's front porch campaign.

Prior to the visit he had been mentioned as under consideration by the Republican old guard as running mate for Mr. Harding. He denied the report as, subsequently, he declined to be mentioned as a candidate for mayor of Chicago.

In the convention of 1924 Mr. Wrigley and Mr. Lasker appeared as financial backers of the aspirations of Senator Hiram Johnson of California. Mr. Wrigley later switched to Calvin Coolidge and, after his election, invited him to spend a summer at the Wrigley country place, Green Gables, near Lake Geneva, Wis. Mr. Coolidge was unable to accept. In the Kansas City convention of 1928, Mr. Wrigley was a delegate and supported President Hoover.

His Gifts to Charity.

Mr. Wrigley was known as a generous but unostentatious philanthropist. One of his notable gifts was a $270,000 endowment to the Chicago Memorial hospital. Another of his favorite charities was the Illinois Home for Crippled Children.

When the unemployment situation became acute in 1930 he turned over to the Salvation Army a six story building at 509 North Union avenue and provided $16,000 to equip the place as a refuge for jobless men. Since then he has provided $5,000 monthly for its maintenance. His gift to the 1931 relief fund was $100,000.

Hertz Says Wrigley Applied the Golden Rule to Business

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—(Special.)—An intimate, human picture of William Wrigley Jr., who died today in Phoenix, Ariz., was obtained here from his lifelong friend, John Hertz, capitalist and sportsman. Seated in his office in the Paramount building near the spot in Times square where the Wrigley chewing gum manikins once danced in Broadway's greatest electric sign, Mr. Hertz said:

"In William Wrigley's death Chicago has lost a man she may never replace. If any man ever did business by the golden rule, he did. He ran his business as he would care for a pet child and it is in that same splendid condition today. He enjoyed life, every moment of it, and when I saw him last December he appeared in perfect health.

Business By the Golden Rule.

"William Wrigley never hurt any one, never trimmed anybody. He was the most liberal of big money men. He never tried to bargain nor to buy a business cheaply. He did business by the golden rule.

"He was no accident. He made hair trigger business decisions and many times they seemed to be sure losses, but almost everything he touched turned out to be profitable.

"About ten years ago some one told him of an island near the California coast. The idea of owning an island appealed to him and so he bought Catalina without having ever seen it. Now Catalina island is a gold mine worth many millions of dollars.

How He Built a Hotel.

"The Arizona Biltmore hotel at Phoenix is an example of the way he made investments. A young man came to him with an idea and he immediately lent him $1,500,000. Then he found that the Phoenix development was not flourishing, so he dug up another couple of million dollars and everything began to bloom. William Wrigley never turned down any one and he seldom was stung.

"There was Paddy Harmon and the Chicago Stadium. Harmon came to me one day with a letter from Wrigley recommending the project and so written that it would have made Wrigley financially responsible for the entire project. I called him and told him what he had done. He laughed, but he got the letter back and destroyed it.

A Helping Hand for Many.

"Wrigley helped more men than I can name. He made many of them wealthy. How much help he extended to struggling young men, how many widows and old men he carried on his pay rolls, none but himself will ever know. He never talked about his charities although they were legion.

"Few men have had his ability to touch so many things and still succeed beyond wildest dreams commercially and at the same time create marvelous friendships. I wish I could pour into words the great love and admiration I had for him.

"I have never seen him angry, never heard him curse nor raise his voice nor bargain. He had no airs. He was as plain in his last years as he was in the days when he peddled soap. No man was plainer nor less assuming. He was a swell fellow."

Proud of Cubs and Chicago.

Mr. Hertz told of Mr. Wrigley's great love for two things—Chicago and his baseball team. His one ambition was to win the world's championship with the Cubs.

"The Cubs were the joy of his life," said Mr. Hertz. "Money meant nothing to him. He was proud of Chicago—proud of being in business in Chicago. He once told me that he would not take the throne of England if it meant he had to leave Chicago."

When the depression began to hurt last winter, Mr. Hertz said, Mr. Wrigley was among the first to start relief stations and later he gave the Salvation Army the use of a building as a shelter.

"He was a benefactor to every charity seeker in Chicago, but no one will ever know just how much he gave to charity," said Mr. Hertz.

Mr. Hertz said he would not be able to reach Pasadena even by airplane in time for the funeral Thursday afternoon, but that he intended going to Catalina island later when Mr. Wrigley's body is placed in the mausoleum that is to be built there.

MISSING MEXICAN ARCHBISHOP IS IN U. S. FOR A "VISIT"

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The archbishop of Guadalajara, Francisco Orozco y Jiminez, reported detained at Guadalajara, Jalisco, and later sent to an unannounced destination by airplane, appeared at the United States immigration office here today and asked for a six months' tourists passport.

The passport was granted and the archbishop said he intended to leave immediately for Los Angeles. He declined to see interviewers and sent word to them that he was in the United States only for a short visit.

The Herald said it had obtained semi-official information that the archbishop, a central figure in the Mexican church embroglio, was given 24 hours to get out of Mexico after he made scathing statements relating to the church-state quarrel. He is said to have obtained a private airplane and flew to the border, a distance of more than 1,000 miles. According to reports, the newspaper said, plans were made in Mexico for the execution of the archbishop. President Rubio interceded, however, and compromised by giving the churchman a limited time in which to leave the country.

MRS. JUDD RAGES AS HER INSANITY DEFENSE OPENS

Hurls Hysterical Tirade at Sheriff.

Phoenix, Ariz, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Dramatic support to the insanity defense her lawyers are building for her was given by Winnie Ruth Judd in a courtroom corridor today as she raged against Sheriff J. R. McFadden in a hysterical outburst.

J. R. McFADDEN. [Acme Photo.]

The state had but recently close its case with a climax of testimony supporting a motive of jealousy for the slaying of Agnes Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson, whose bodies were discovered in two trunks and a suitcase in a Los Angeles railroad station.

It was during the midafternoon recess that Mrs. Judd assailed Sheriff McFadden and accused him of trying to intimidate defense witnesses.

Storms for 5 Minutes.

She stormed in a corridor for five minutes, hysterically demanding the protection of her attorneys, before she was quieted by a matron, from whom she once broke free to pursue the sheriff with her accusations.

She had caught a glimpse, through an opened door, of the sheriff talking to his secretary, whom she mistook for another woman. She was trembling when she returned to the courtroom, but not once did she look squarely at her mother as the ageing wife of H. J. McKinnell, a Darlington, Ind., minister, recounted intimate facts of her childhood from the witness stand. Mrs. McKinnell, who was forced to stop twice as emotion overcame her, was far more affected by her part in Mrs. Judd's battle to escape the noose than the defendant herself.

The state's closing witness told of Mrs. Judd's apparent jealousy of the women whom she is accused of slaying.

Jealous Over Lumberman.

"Mrs. Judd said she got so angry at thinking about Jack and Sammy that she would go crazy or die," testified Mrs. Arthur Lepker, wife of a boxer.

"Jack," she said, is J. J. Halloran, wealthy Phoenix lumberman; "Sammy" was Miss Samuelson.

Lucille Moore, nurse and party friend of Mrs. Judd, told the jury how Mrs. Judd had sought to keep Miss Samuelson and Mrs. Le Roi from knowing she was with Halloran on the night before the dual killing.

Mrs. Judd, she testified, remained in Halloran's car beside the Le Roi-Samuelson apartment, although she had been their close friend, when Halloran went in to call on the two women before going with her to a dinner party in the Judd apartment.

Defense Starts Testimony.

Closing its case on the testimony of Mrs. Lepker and Miss Moore, the state reserved some 30 witnesses for rebuttal testimony as needed.

The defense opened after a preliminary statement to the jury claiming Mrs. Judd was insane by calling Henry Beholeguy, secretary to Thomas Campbell, president of the United States civil service commission, when the latter was governor of Arizona.

Beholeguy declared that from his home 500 feet distant he heard screams of women and shots from the Le Roi duplex on the morning of Oct. 17, eight hours after the time the state contends Mrs. Judd killed her two friends while they slept.

On cross-examination he admitted the "screams" were no different from other loud noises he had previously heard from the same house, and that shortly after the slaying he told an investigator the "shots" sounded like a screen door slammed twice.

Call Mother to Stand.

The defense went back into Mrs. Judd's childhood to base their insanity contention. They called Mrs. Carrie McKinnell, Mrs. Judd's mother, to the stand, where she wept as she told that as a child of 16 Winnie Ruth had fled home in her nightdress and wandered for two days wearing only a gunny sack before being found near Olney, Ill., with a story of being kidnaped.

Other testimony of Mrs. Judd's mother was concerned with aiding the slayer's proposed insanity defense.

"My mother," she declared, "had one cousin who died in the Peoria asylum for the insane in Illinois. About six years ago my first cousin collapsed mentally from worry over financial matters."

State attorneys for more than an hour argued to prevent introduction of this testimony, contending Mrs. McKinnell's knowledge of her relatives' mental condition was "hearsay."

Four patients in the Grunow Memorial clinic office where Mrs. Judd was employed told in turn of seeing her left hand bandaged on Saturday, Oct. 17.

Mrs. Judd had a bullet imbedded in her hand when she was arrested a week after the slayings. In the letter to her husband read into the court record she told of having been shot first by Miss Samuelson in a quarrel.

FEED ABANDONED BABY

Note with Child

At St. Vincent's infant asylum on North La Salle street a ten days old baby girl cuddled yesterday into the warm pink blanket in which she was discovered in a hallway at 6034 Woodlawn avenue. All traces of identification had been removed from the attractive clothing of the infant. A note, penciled on a slip of paper, was found pinned to the blanket. It read, "This baby belongs to you, looks like you, and it's up to you to take care of it." The child had been placed in front of the door of an apartment, but no connection could be traced through the occupants, who summoned Woodlawn police.

Five Given New Changes of Venue in Murder Case

Three men and two girls charged with the slaying of Policeman James J. Caplis during an attempted holdup of the Beach View Gardens café at 804 Wilson avenue on Dec. 21 were granted a new change of venue yesterday. Attorneys for Frank Freeman, alleged leader of the gang, asked for a change from Judge Thomas Taylor, and the state asked that the other defendants be assigned for trial before another judge also.

CYR TAKES OATH AS GOVERNOR OF LOUISIANA AGAIN

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Dr. Paul N. Cyr this afternoon took the second oath of office as governor of Louisiana in the clerk's office of the District court at Baton Rouge after a conference with his attorneys, preparatory to filing suit to oust Alvin O. King, named by Long as governor when he took the oath of office as United States senator.

PAUL N. CYR.

King is still occupying the executive offices in the capitol and continues to have all state offices in the state heavily guarded.

Cyr Claims Office.

Dr. Cyr went from New Orleans to Baton Rouge today and announced that he would make a legal move to be declared governor, to which office he says he is entitled as he never resigned as lieutenant governor, the office to which he was elected by the people. He asserted that Huey P. Long had no right or authority to turn over the office to King, who was in reality only president pro tempore of the senate.

Cyr asserts that when he first took the oath of office as governor at Shreveport, that he did not relinquish the office of lieutenant governor, and that the courts have since held that he could not have done so, when they also held that they had no jurisdiction to oust Long as governor or to name Cyr as governor. Naturally, he said, he could not abandon an office which he had no legal right to abandon, without resignation.

Oath Is Rejected.

Dr. Cyr attempted to file his oath with the secretary of state's office. It was refused, the office stating that it already had the oath of Gov. King. Dr. Cyr then wrote a letter to Gov. King, warning him that he was usurping the office and asking that he vacate it. Guards around all state offices were doubled.

U. S. TAKES OVER RALPH CAPONE'S $10,000 CASH BOND

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday instructed the clerk of the District court to turn over to the government the $10,000 cash bond posted by Ralph Capone when he was sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary for income tax evasion. The money was taken, in accordance with the terms of the bond, to satisfy a fine for that amount which was imposed upon the gangster in addition to his prison sentence. Attorney George N. Murdock, representing Capone, announced that the bondsmen would also satisfy a court cost of $500 in order to avoid sale of property they had scheduled as surety.

Boy Tells of Kidnaping and Threat of Torture

Alvin Baur, 19 year old son of a McHenry ice dealer, yesterday told a strange story of having been kidnaped and threatened with torture by fire by five beer runners, a story which State's Attorney V. S. Lumley and Sheriff Lester Edinger pronounced incredible. Baur said he was taken from the ice wagon he was driving to a wood about three miles west of Lake Zurich where the kidnapers tried to force him to tell which of his ice customers were selling beer. The youth said he overpowered the men and escaped.

STOLEN BONDS SUSPECT SHOT TO DEATH IN HOTEL

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Abe Cooperman, owner of the Atlantic Dyeing and Cleaning company, who was arrested yesterday as one of a gang disposing of stolen bonds in Chicago and St. Louis, was shot and killed today in the lobby of the St. Francis hotel.

Eugene Epstein, suspected of being involved in the handling of the stolen bonds, is alleged to have shot Cooperman. He was taken into custody at the hotel.

The killing was the second attributed by investigators, including postal investigators, to internal war among the gangsters. The other victim was Abraham Schneider, alias Abe Cooper, whose bullet riddled body was found on a roadside near Franklin Park, outside of Chicago, on Dec. 30.

The stolen bonds, with a face value of $75,000, were found yesterday in the Boatmen's National bank, where they had been deposited as collateral for loans. One of these loans was made by a Chicago bank to Harry Sodini, manager of the Planters hotel in Chicago, and it is reported that all of the $24,500 of securities he put up to obtain $14,000 cash were found to be stolen.

Sodini, who formerly operated two hotels here and has been a hotel manager in St. Paul, is under arrest. So is Joseph O'Brien, one of his employés in Chicago.

The only explanation made by Sodini was that he had purchased the bonds in good faith four months ago, believing that the seller had obtained them legitimately. He obtained his loan on Dec. 24 and requested that they be sent with his notes to the St. Louis bank, which was to make collection.

Cooperman and Sodini made bond, but O'Brien still is in jail.

But her skin, Tragic!

Lithe, beautifully molded . . . a simply captivating figure. I watched her with delight. But as I drew nearer the whole illusion was ruined. What a tragedy—her skin! How I longed to tell her about a daily treatment I learned from a famous expert.

* * *

Don't ever let your skin reach the "tragic" stage. No woman has the right to do that these days. You'd be surprised what a little time and the right kind of daily care will do to keep your skin supple and youthful . . . free of blemishes. Here, for instance, is a two-minute treatment:

Use your hands to massage a lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water into the skin. Work it in, gently. Then rinse away lather, dirt and oil . . . with warm water, followed by cool. For dry skin, a little olive oil at night. In the morning, your regular make-up. But never, never—till after this correct foundation cleansing!

Tired — try this pick-up bath

Shave a cake of Palmolive into 4 cups of water and heat it until the soap has completely dissolved. Then, pour this amber liquid into half a tubful of tepid water. Let this caressing bath enfold you—enrich and revive your skin. Then, massage your entire body with the lather from another cake of Palmolive. Rinse it off and rise, refreshed, from the most soothing beauty treatment you can imagine. You'll find yourself wanting to don a smart frock—go places—do things!

For the next ten days won't you indulge in this daily care . . . for face and b[illegible]h? Then—feel your skin. Revel in its smoothness, its loveliness. A "tragic" skin? Not for you! Use Palmolive . . . for a skin free of blemishes, satin-smooth!

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.

More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

STATE'S CASE IS CLOSED IN SANITARY TRIAL

Defense Will Be Brief; Windup This Week.

The prosecution yesterday afternoon closed its graft conspiracy case against Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board during the whoopee period of 1927-'28, and six other defendants.

The defense attorneys informed Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, who is presiding over the trial, with Judges James J. Kelly and John Prystalski sitting in an advisory capacity, that if they had any evidence to offer it would not take more than ten or fifteen minutes tomorrow morning.

Attorneys Albert Fink and John J. McInerney, defense counsel, said that none of the defendants would take the witness stand to confute the prosecution charges, unless the defense plans are changed today. The lawyers said that they wanted to clear up one or two minor points in the testimony offered by the state and that this should not take more than a few minutes.

To Start Arguments at Once.

The defense atorneys said that they might not even argue a motion to direct a verdict. It was indicated that the main arguments in the case will be started at once and the entire trial concluded this week.

Judge Fisher intimated that he would ask the attorneys to confine their closing arguments to one day for each side. A final decision by the judges, however, probably will not be given for several weeks because of the voluminous record in the case, which is considered one of the largest graft conspiracy cases ever tried in Cook county.

Prosecutor John E. Northup said that the prosecution had about 1,500 actual witnesses, not counting the 300 witnesses whose testimony was stipulated, and that the state proved the loss of approximately $2,500,000 by the taxpayers through the manipulations and fraud committed by the defendants. The state was limited in its proof by the fact that some of the counts in the indictment were quashed. The prosecution charges that in all the taxpayers' loss was $6,500,000.

Duplicate Payments Shown.

The testimony yesterday was directed for the most part at John T. Miller, former superintendent of permanent plants and structures department of the sanitary district. The prosecution stipulated that approximately $110,000 was taken from the public treasury by payments of duplicate bills, approved by Miller in his official capacity.

The district awarded a general rehabilitation contract of $1,000,000 to the Tully-Costello Construction company and paid the concern in full. Many concerns, which did the work on subcontracts, collected from the Tully company and again from the district, according to the evidence.

Crowe and his associates paid out a total of $119,087 to the Central Auto service and the Plaza Auto livery, concerns run by John Saracino, during 1927-'28 for taxicab service, according to stipulations.

Payment to State Senator.

Other testimony put into the record by stipulation was to the effect that State Senator Francis Loughran collected $1,993 for expenses for trips to Peoria and that A. Mathiesen obtained $3,105 for trips to Jacksonville.

Crowe did not attend the closing session of the prosecution's case. He and Trustee Frank J. Link, who was the lone Deneen Republican representative on the board, have been mentioned most in the testimony. John T. Miller and Martin Edelstein, former real estate agent for the board, also have been mentioned frequently. Trustee John J. Touhy, who has been ill for several days, has not been mentioned at all by witnesses, and the testimony against Trustee James M. Whalen and August Miller, former trustee, has been slight.

John K. Lawler, former trustee, died while the trial was in progress.

$200,000 CITY GRAFT CHARGED IN TRUE BILLS

6 Reported Named in Contract Quiz.

Six men, three of them employés in the city department of gas and electricity, were reported to have been named in true bills voted yesterday by the grand jury charging conspiracy to defraud the city of more than $200,000 on an electrical contract let by the previous city administration.

Those reported named are Harry A. Johnson, president of the Electrical Contracting company, 844 Rush street; Floyd Knott, vice president of the company; John A. Meurling, city electrical engineer; Eugene G. Quinn, inspector in the electrical department; Frank Wargoske, storekeeper at the department's yard at 52d street and Oakley boulevard, and Joseph Duffy, former record clerk at the yard.

Contract Under Fire.

Evidence was presented to the grand jury after an investigation by Shelby M. Singleton, secretary of the Citizens' association, of a $1,063,365 contract for the installation of 6,905 street lights which was let to the Electrical Contracting company by Michael J. Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity during the past administration.

The investigation disclosed evidence that the contractor violated the contract specifications by skimping materials put into the lamp post foundations, and that there was an apparent excess profit of $211,284 in the contract.

Among the company's canceled checks, it is said, were five totaling $1,450, endorsed by "Earl King" as payee, allegedly in the handwriting of Quinn, the chief city inspector on the contract job.

A similar series of five checks for the same amounts, it is charged, were endorsed by "John F. Murphy" as payee, allegedly in the handwriting of Muerling, city electrical engineer in charge of the work.

Old Material Found.

Other charges on which the true bills were said to have been voted were that a city ordinance providing that an engineer make an estimate of the materials necessary and the unit prices of the materials was ignored, and that second hand material turned in from other jobs was turned over to the contractors and charged to the city as new material.

A final payment of approximately $160,000 on the contract is being held up by William A. Jackson, present commissioner of gas and electricity, pending replacements by the company of the faulty work.

50,000,000 Pounds of Cuban Sugar Cane Burned by Reds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 26.—Communists opposing President Machado's administration have burned more than 50 million pounds of sugar cane in Matanzas province since the grinding started on Jan. 15. The Reds are endeavoring to intensify the economic crisis by jeopardizing the sugar output.

SALVADOR DRIVES REDS FROM TOWNS; MANY ARE SLAIN

SAN SALVADOR, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Salvador's so-called Communist uprising had taken an uncounted number of lives today, the government indicated, but a British request for the landing of British marines brought reassurances of public safety by Provisional President Maximiliano Martinez.

Eleven supposed Communists were executed after entering a military barracks in the interior, and severe casualties were reported in fighting at various places, but the number of killed and wounded was undetermined.

Communists had been driven out of the towns of Sonzacate, Izalco, Tacuba, and other places, officials said, and government forces were in complete control. Heavy troop reinforcements arrived in San Salvador, the capital, from San Miguel, Zacatecoluca, Quezaltepeque, and other points to preserve order. Thousands of civilians have volunteered to carry arms for the government. Banks and business houses have contributed funds for the suppression of the uprising. Two American destroyers are at La Libertad to afford protection to foreigners, if needed.

COLONY OF RATS DIES, DELAYING DISEASE TESTS

Work on a series of experiments at the Illinois Research hospital will be delayed for several weeks as a result of an infection which broke out in the colony of rats kept there for experimental purposes by Dr. Carol Birch. All the rats perished.

Dr. Birch has been conducting experiments for a number of years in an attempt to discover a treatment for haemophilia, and he inoculated several generations of the rats with the disease in order to test different solutions on them. Now an entire new colony of rats must be obtained and inoculated for supervision.

Haemophilia is a disease which is transmitted to the sons of isolated families, and which causes the victim to bleed profusely at the slightest scratch, since the blood is of such a quality that it coagulates with extreme slowness. One of the noted cases of the malady is that of the crown prince of the exiled royal family of Spain.

Back Woman Lawyer for Municipal Court Bench

Miss Pearl M. Hart, prominent woman attorney and a past president of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois, was indorsed last night for associate judge of the Municipal court at a meeting of ward workers of the 42d ward regular Democratic organization. Miss Hart, who has been practicing law in Chicago for fifteen years, also has been indorsed for office by the Social Service Independent Committee for Political Action. She is now serving as a public defender in the Morals court.

TAXI COMPANY FIGHTS $33,000 BILL FOR TAXES

Opposing Payment on 11 Pieces of Property.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Yellow Cab company operates a taxi service throughout Chicago and in some of the suburbs.

Against this company there is charged in the tax books more than $33,000 of unpaid taxes for 1929. These were due May 15 last and the local governments are hard pressed for cash. The school board alone owes its teachers and other employés an aggregate of $24,147,040.

Benjamin Samuels, vice president of the Yellow Cab company, said yesterday afternoon that the corporation owns no real estate on which to pay taxes.

"But you have some real estate under lease where you have obligated yourselves to pay the taxes, haven't you?" Mr. Samuels was asked.

"Yes, but Albert Berger, 160 North La Salle street, handles all of the tax matters for the Yellow Cab company," he replied.

Questioned About Taxes.

Mr. Berger was called and he inquired what, specifically, THE TRIBUNE wanted to know.

"Why haven't you paid a part of your taxes?" was asked.

"The Yellow Cab does not own any real estate and does not owe any taxes," said Mr. Berger.

"Mr. Samuels said that you have leased real estate on which you have agreed to pay taxes," was the reply. "Is he wrong?"

"No, you have it right," said Mr. Berger.

"How many pieces of property of that kind have you?"

"I should say it is down to about three," replied Mr. Berger.

Objections Filed in Court.

The questions then pointed out to Mr. Berger:

"The Yellow Cab company filed objections to taxes in court, and one of the objections reads:

"'The property of your objectors was on April 1, 1929, exempt from assessment and taxation under the laws of this state.'

"I do not know anything about the objections set up," replied Mr. Berger. "The lawyers filed those. I look after the taxes."

"Getting back to the original question, why don't you pay?" he was asked.

"What property do you refer to?" asked Mr. Berger.

"There is considerable out of the town of Jefferson."

"That is the old Yellow Cab Manufacturing company," explained Mr. Berger. "There is an error of $460,000 in taxes on that property, and who would suggest we pay such an error?"

County Court Records.

The county court records show that the Yellow Cab company filed objections to 1929 taxes on July 21 last. Eleven pieces of property, valued for taxing purposes at $550,000, were involved. The collector's books show that these taxes, totaling $33,000, have not been paid. The unpaid taxes are indicated in the following tabulation showing the tax volume, item number, valuation of the property, and the amounts unpaid:

Volume.	Item.	Valuation.	Unpaid taxes.
521	336	31,127	1,876
521	335	55,938	3,373
517	1,555	96,942	5,845
489	288	94,193	5,792
486	946	80,776	4,967
486	953	41,760	2,568
453	347	50,781	3,189
280	579	5,765	354
280	578	42,798	2,632

Present Case Before Jarecki.

The objections to these taxes were filed by Attorney Morris Schaeffer. He, with Attorney Roy D. Keehn, presented the tax case of Mrs. Lillian Cisar, Oak Park widow, before County Judge Jarecki, who held that the 1928 and the 1929 taxes are illegal and invalid. This case has been appealed to the state Supreme court.

The Schnackenberg bill, which will give credit for excess tax payments for 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes on subsequent assessments, appears to be certain of adoption by the state legislature. The bill is intended to prevent loss to taxpayers from overpayments.

The D. F. Kelly committee will appeal to property owners to aid the local governments.

GOVERNMENT TO PRINT AS USUAL IN SPITE OF FROWNS IN CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—In the face of congressional disapproval over unnecessary documents printed by the government, the government printing office is going ahead with preparations to turn out just as many publications this year as it did last.

Next Monday the committee on printing will award a two and a half million dollar contract for 54 million pounds of paper to one of 43 paper manufacturers. During 1931, there were 54,134,995 pounds of paper costing $2,850,320 used.

More than 88 million copies of publications were printed during last year, according to the annual report of the public printer. Of that number more than 56 millions were ordered by various departments of the government for free service to the public, more than five millions printed for free distribution by senators and representatives, and 8 millions sold. Receipts from the sale totaled $701,597 as compared with an expenditure of nearly 15 millions in printing them.

ONLY ACCURATE TUBES CAN GIVE YOU FAITHFUL RECEPTION

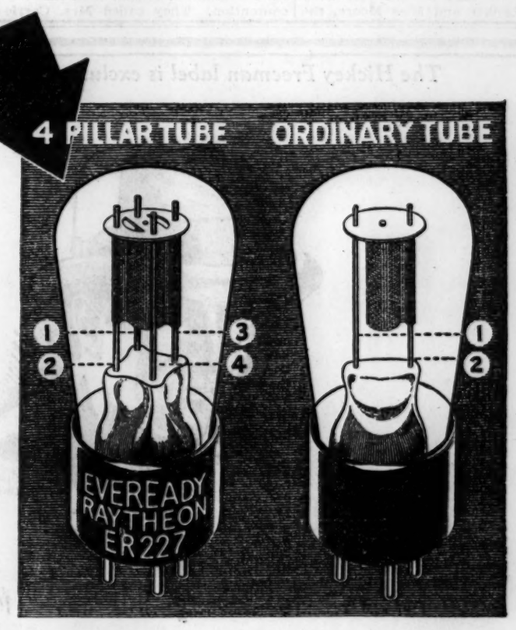
4-PILLAR TUBES STAY ACCURATE

A RADIO TUBE, like a watch, must be accurate to be reliable. A tube which has lost its accuracy distorts voices and musical tones, creates harsh noises in your loud-speaker, and lacks the power to give full, rounded volume.

Why risk missing the best that your radio can give? Why sacrifice any of the tone-qualities which were carefully built into it? Equip it throughout with Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar tubes . . . tubes which you know are accurate.

Rugged, rigid strength permanently guards the inbuilt accuracy of 4-pillar tubes. They have four sturdy pillars to anchor their elements firmly in place . . . one at each corner of a square. All other tubes have only two, and as a result, can be damaged by the inevitable jolts and vibration of handling and usage.

This is the first big advance in radio-tube construction since the development of modern radio. It is a unique, patented feature which Eveready Raytheon alone can use!



Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. All other tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. Compare them tube for tube with others, and the difference is amazing. But to realize what an enormous improvement they can make in a radio, install a complete set of 4-pillar tubes . . . then listen!

EVEREADY RAYTHEON TUBES are Quick Heaters. Don't be fooled by tubes of the old, slow-heater type with which the market is flooded. A modern tube should heat up in 10 seconds or less. Time it yourself!

DEFENDS COSTLY FURNITURE FOR COUNTY NURSES

Nurses at the Cook County School of Nursing must have a refined home atmosphere. This was the explanation offered yesterday by Frank S. Shaw, president of the board of directors of the school, for the purchase with county funds of $50 love seats, $279 couches, $75 lace tablecloths, $40 footstools, and other expensive articles of furniture.

Mr. Shaw had been summoned before a county board committee to explain these expenditures, which Commissioner Charles H. Weber had exposed, terming them "shameless extravagances." Miss Laura Rebekah Logan, dean of nurses at a $6,000 yearly salary, who authorized the purchases, was also present, but Mr. Shaw refused to allow her to be questioned. He accepted full responsibility, he told the commissioners.

Shouts Charge of "Outrage."

The meeting was almost uproarious at times, being climaxed by Mr. Shaw's shouted statement that the investigation was "a damnable outrage." It ended, however, with Mr. Shaw promising that Miss Logan would reimburse the county for some of the purchases.

Commissioner Weber began by asking Mr. Shaw if the purchases of high-priced furniture, linens and tableware had actually been made by Miss Logan with county money.

"The records you have are correct," replied Mr. Shaw. "They must be because they were stolen from our files. However, you gentlemen must not disassociate expense from achievement—"

"I see $41 worth of singing lessons in the list," interjected Commissioner George A. Miller. "What's that got to do with achievement?"

A Chorus for Camaraderie.

MR. SHAW—We have a chorus out there to stimulate camaraderie among the nurses.

MR. WEBER—What about the $75 tablecloths and these needlepoint footstools?

MR. SHAW—I won't be made a goat here. I refuse to answer——

MR. MILLER—When a man refuses to answer, certain inferences can be drawn. Mr. Shaw can't dictate to this committee.

MR. SHAW—This committee can't dictate to me, either. These items you're complaining about represent only $2,000 out of a total expenditure of $1,196,000. Why, we earned $8,000 in fees during the year.

MR. MILLER—Suppose the county recorder took the same attitude and because he collects fees gave singing lessons and bought love seats for the morale of his clerks?

MR. SHAW—Compare our costs with those of any other hospital nursing costs in the country. Why not talk about the good work we did? Those nurses laundered 50,000 diapers last year. They weren't required to do that.

Miss Logan's Furniture.

COMMISSIONER WILLIAM BUSSE—What's that got to do with the purchase of expensive furniture for Miss Logan's apartment?

MR. SHAW—Those things are for Miss Logan's sitting room, where she receives visitors, entertains out of town people and interviews the nurses. She has to create an atmosphere, if you gentlemen know what that means. She has to put in the little refinements of home around there.

MR. WEBER—The twin beds at $300, too?

MR. SHAW—Miss Logan is going to pay for some of these items.

Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, another county commissioner, here came to the aid of Mr. Shaw.

"I think this is all unjust," she said.

"I hear they had a party for a pet dog out there last week," said Commissioner Weber. "The dog had a birthday cake with one candle."

"This investigation is a damnable outrage," said Mr. Shaw. "Now there's been some talk here about a love seat. I don't know what it is——"

"It's a sofa built for two," said Mrs. Fleming. "It is used for specific social events."

"I move we adjourn," said Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, another commissioner, hastily. There will be more meetings.

BAR CONVICT LABOR HIGHWAY WORK AND SWANK FEDERAL JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Federal aid is to be matched by free and not by convict labor on the highways and government officials must content themselves with $750 cars, according to two amendments attached in the house of representatives today to the $175,000,000 appropriation bill for the department of agriculture.

F. H. LA GUARDIA. [Acme Photo.]

The two amendments succeeded where others—both to add to and to substract from the appropriation measure—failed of pasage. It was Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] who succeeded in slipping in the amendment concerning convict labor before a point of order could be made against it. The debate that followed was divided on the pattern of the old Mason-Dixon line, for the states to be affected are principally in the south.

Representatives from Georgia, Alabama, and Texas protested in vain that southern states were too poor to take advantage of the federal aid unless they were allowed to use convict labor.

"I thought there weren't going to be any convicts after prohibition," interjected Representative Linthicum [Dem., Md.], wet leader.

A vote of 126 to 87 passed the amendment.

The amendments as to official cars was introduced by Representative Collins [Dem., Miss], and he intended, he said, to offer the same amendment to every appropriation bill this session.

Not only does the amendment limit the price of the cars, but it requires them to be used only for official purposes, and those purposes do not include conveying the officeholder back and forth between his home and his job.

NEW CONFERENCE TO STUDY CHOICE OF TAX OFFICIAL

Local Governments Work on 1932 Budgets.

Another conference is set for tomorrow to consider the selection of a county assessor under the Kelly plan providing for the replacement of the present taxing machinery of Cook county with a single assessor and a board of appeals of two members. The bill providing for the change will be signed by Gov. Emmerson as soon as he and President Emmett Whealan of the county board agree on the officials. Mr. Whealan was in Springfield yesterday.

Mayor Cermak yesterday urged Col. A. A. Sprague to take the assessorship in case Emmerson and Whealan agree upon him.

Pass Canal Budget Tomorrow.

The sanitary district trustees will meet tomorrow to pass the 1932 budget. The finance committee has recommended a revision of a tentative budget of $47,455,000 to $39,713,000, or $5,407,000 below the 1931 budget. The revision is to be adjusted at the meeting.

County officials yesterday began presenting their estimates of the number of employés needed in their departments during 1932 to a Circuit court judges committee. The judges set the amount of help each official shall have.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan warned the officials that they would have little chance of obtaining additional employés and in some cases should expect cuts.

Although the revised draft of their 1932 budget has been completed, school board employés were doubtful yesterday that the trustees would pass the measure at their meeting today.

H. H. Brackett, auditor, finished the draft yesterday, embodying reductions of $14,000,000 from the tentative budget of $108,000,000. Bankers have warned that this reduction is not enough, and that they will be unable to market school tax warrants unless expenditures are cut to meet their estimates of tax income.

Opposition to the budget passage today, however, is expected from organizations which oppose the reductions already made.

Evanston will open a campaign on Monday to sell $750,000 in 1931 tax anticipation warrants to keep its schools open. Plans for the drive were completed by a committee of school board members and members of the Evanston Parent-Teachers association. A. D. Sanders, chairman on the finance committee of school district No. 75 will head the campaign.

In Wilmette the school board has no money to meet a pay roll of $17,000 due Friday.

Assemblymen Start Slicing of Salaries with Their Own

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—On the verge of recommending a general state salary cut of 10 per cent, the joint legislative committee studying retrenchment in the costs of government satisfied itself tonight with agreeing that assemblymen's salaries should be reduced from $3,500 to $3,000 for the biennium.

The committee chose a more circuitous route towards economy as far as other state and county officers are concerned, naming several committees to determine what offices should be abolished and how much the salaries of others be reduced—according to the "value" of the offices they hold.

A great deal of hypothetical calculation was had on the latter point before adjournment and fully thirty jobs were called up for consideration. In each case, some reduction was "suggested," but no vote was taken upon any. However, the advice of Harold C. Kessinger, Republican senator from Aurora, that "we've got to start on ourselves in order to show good faith" was accepted after the meeting had gone three hours without action.

"Follow Lead of Industries."

After Senator Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline] had said the annual state pay roll is $18,000,000, Senator A. A. Miles [Rep., Rosiclaire] moved that the committee "follow the lead of the great industries and slash the pay roll ten per cent from top to bottom."

Another member moved to start the ball rolling by cutting legislators from $3,500 to $3,000.

"I'd be ashamed," declared Soloman Handy [Dem., Marshall], "to face those farmers in my district and say that I'd only cut my salary $500. We got the whole sum in one day, you know, at the beginning of each session. Why not cut it to $2,500?"

"Why, you're getting half-pay now for your services," challenged Senator Leroy Adair [Dem., Quincy]. "No job in Illinois pays so little for the services rendered. In times like these, I've got to work. I can't afford to come back next term."

Eliminating Bureaus.

Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] favored cutting the state officers 15 to 20 per cent, "then making some real savings by eliminating bureaus, offices, and whole departments—like that of conservation, for instance."

Mr. Burns and Senator Simon E. Lantz [Rep., Congerville] were named a committee to suggest the jobs and departments to be eliminated.

The general pay slash almost went to a vote, but at the last moment Kessinger suggested considering each job in the budget. The committee began with the governor. Some one said $10,000 instead of $12,000. There were negative grumbles, but no vote was taken. The other elective state officers were hypothetically cut from $10,000 to $7,500; Supreme court judges from $15,000 to $10,000, and so on down the line—almost to midnight—but without action.

N. Y. FLOATS LOAN OF $25,000,000 IN WALL STREET

State Borrows; First Time Since 1915.

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—New York state came to Wall street today for a loan of $25,000,000 until May 1 and paid at the annual rate of 4½ per cent. This marked the first time since 1915 that the state, confronted with decreasing income, has had to borrow in anticipation of taxes and revenues. The loan was obtained through the sale by Controller Morris S. Tremaine of notes, dated Feb. 1, 1932, and due May 1, 1932.

Participation in the loan was eagerly sought by Wall street banks and banking houses well satisfied with the 4½ per cent rate. Allotment was made to fifteen in amounts ranging from $250,000 to $4,250,000.

Normally the revenues of the state are actually in hand before expenditures are made, but the slow receipts of taxes and other revenues made it necessary to borrow until such time as sufficient funds will come in.

Economy Forced on City.

Rigid economy continued to rule the committee of the whole of the board of estimate in its meeting today. Projects calling for the expenditure of approximately $33,000,000 were put on the suspense calendar or otherwise deferred, and no expenditures of any sort were approved.

The board appropriated $10,500,000 for unemployment relief.

The emergency work bureau will receive $8,000,000 to pay emergency city employés and the rest will be expended in home relief by Welfare Commissioner Frank J. Taylor.

The board authorized Controller Charles W. Berry to raise $8,500,000 by issuing special revenue bonds which will be purchased with the surplus in the pension and sinking funds of the city. The remaining $2,000,000 will be obtained by savings in the appropriations made in the 1932 budget.

Philadelphia Cuts Wages.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—One fourth of the city's police and fire force, numbering about 9,000, must be dropped or its members must suffer a 25 per cent wage reduction, under a plan adopted by the city council today to "balance" the budget for this year.

Employés in other city and county departments, who already have had their salaries cut 10 per cent, face an additional pay slash of 16 per cent or the dismissal of hundreds of them. The new budget, calling for a $7,000,000 reduction in pay rolls, was ratified in ten minutes.

Stench Bomb Thrown in Cafe; Blame Labor Trouble

A stench bomb was thrown against the wall in the back stairway of the Oriental Gardens at 23 West Randolph street last night. Chin Wai, manager of the restaurant, told police he believed the bottle of chemicals had been thrown because he had refused to unionize his hat check girls.

RUSSIAN-POLISH NON-AGGRESSION TREATY IS SIGNED

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Jan. 26.—The Polish press hails the Polish-Russian non-aggression pact initialed in Moscow last night as an important event in the pacification of eastern Europe. The semi-official Gazeta Polska, however, considered it necessary to point out that the pact will not come into force until other similar pacts are signed by all other European neighbors of Russia. The Finnish government when signing a pact last week made the same reservation.

Road to Peace—Russia.

MOSCOW, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The non-aggression pacts which are being negotiated by soviet Russia with other countries are a means of achieving peace, Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar for foreign affairs, declared today in a statement issued just before his departure for the world disarmament conference at Geneva.

"The contents of the pacts proposed by the soviet government are simple," he said, "and aim at eliminating causes which may infringe peaceful relations. If the contracting parties fear no peaceful obligations and pursue no indirect aims they may be effective. The negotiations already conducted have been completed quite speedily, as is exemplified by the treaty with Finland, which was accomplished in two weeks.

"Negotiations with Poland were completed today by an initialed pact. Negotiations with Latvia are progressing slowly and overtures to Estonia were begun a few days ago. These latter should be completed quite speedily, however, in view of the experience of the other two pacts.

Bessarabia Is "Put Aside."

"A project for a treaty with Rumania also has been almost agreed upon. Both parties have agreed to negotiate and have found it necessary to set aside the unsettled question of Bessarabia. It is quite evident that when no official relations exist between two states and they have serious territorial or other disputes, a two sided pact between them cannot be concluded without mentioning that these questions shall not be touched upon and shall be left aside.

"We fully understand that since Rumania virtually occupies Bessarabia, she would wish to forget the existing dispute and interpret our not mentioning it as a silent agreement to its occupation."

This however, Litvinov made plain, Russia could not agree to. He said Rumania also had asked a definite formulation, out of which would follow either Russia's recognition of Rumanian sovereignty in Bessarabia or of the Dniester river as the Rumanian frontier. This also, he said, Russia could not approve.

Both Sides Maintain Stand.

"It must be stated with absolute clearness," he said, "that both parties maintain their position on the disputed question, and that the conclusion of the pact does no damage to these positions."

He said Russia proposed to add to the first article of the proposed pacts, which state that both parties renounced war against each other, a specification that any attempt to use the treaty to settle existing territorial disputes would be regarded as a violation of the pact itself.

CHILD SHOT IN STREET AS BROOKLYN POLICE BATTLE 3 GUNMEN

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—A child was shot down in the Browsville section of Brooklyn late this afternoon during a running gun fight between the gun squad of Brooklyn police headquarters and three gunmen of Abe Rale's mob.

The child is Howard Engle, 2 years old. He is in the Kings County hospital dangerously if not fatally wounded. "In a critical condition," read a late bulletin from the surgical ward.

The gun battle between half a dozen policemen and the three gangsters was fought for a quarter of a mile in one of the most populous sections of Brooklyn, and was seen and heard by at least 10,000 persons. Probably a hundred school children were directly endangered by the flying bullets.

Probably a hundred shots were exchanged in the fight. All three of the gunmen were captured.

SWISS POLICE HUNT DE KAY AS BANK SWINDLER

Lucerne Orders His Arrest for $30,000 Fraud.

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 26.—(AP)—John Wesley De Kay, former American banker and internationally known promoter, was ordered arrested today in a warrant charging him with defrauding the Lucerne bank of about $30,000.

The action was taken at the request of the judicial authorities of the canton of Lucerne, who stated his extradition would be sought. He left Switzerland in 1919 and was last heard from in Salzburg, Austria.

A CHECKERED CAREER.

John Wesley De Kay, a native of Ashburn, Virginia, and once a resident of Providence, R. I., has had a checkered career since he disappeared from the United States in 1913. He subsequently was indicted for fraud in connection with the failure of the Atlantic National bank of Providence, was extradited from Great Britain, and was acquitted for lack of evidence after a lapse of fourteen years.

During the interim he was reported to have been involved in Mexican revolutions, was sued for jewels he gave to Sarah Bernhardt, was accused and escaped extradition to France for fraud in connection with sale of rifles to the Belgian army, and was mentioned as the promoter of wealthy mining and oil interests in the near east.

Arrested for Fraud.

A year ago in July he was arrested in Salzburg on charges of fraud growing out of unpaid hotel bills and his lavish living. The accusations later were withdrawn in consideration of the value of his property and he was turned over to medical authorities for examination.

De Kay once lived in Waukegan, where he published three newspapers. On Dec. 30, 1919, his daughter, Jeanne Ann De Kay, disappeared from Hull house here. Her body was later discovered in Lake Michigan.

LONDON CROOKS HUNTED; PLOTTED DARTMOOR RIOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—A wholesale plot to free the convicts in Dartmoor prison was organized among London criminals, the authorities disclosed today as Scotland Yard men started a search for the plotters here at the request of the home office.

Hundreds of ex-convicts had planned to attack the prison gates as soon as Sunday's riots took place, but the presence of their scouts in the neighborhood forewarned the authorities. Special squads of detectives were dispatched to round up London criminals. A number of those who were discovered missing from their usual haunts were traced to villages near Dartmoor.

The desperate plan miscarried, but the fears that an attack might still be carried out has caused many requests for the protection of troops in the prison area. Guards say signals have been frequently exchanged from the windows of two occupied cell blocks of the prison with some unidentified persons outside, and since the outbreak officials have revealed that whisperings among the prisoners have been carried on throughout the last two nights.

BOOTLEGGERS SET BISHOP'S HOUSE ON FIRE TO LAND CARGO

Manchester, Mass., Jan. 26.—[Special.] — Fired by bootleggers who sought to divert police attention from their activities in landing a large cargo of rum, the summer home of the Rt. Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, bishop of Massachusetts, was badly damaged here today.

The house, a one and one-half story frame structure, is located on Coolidge's point, near the eastern boundary of the town. The rum runners are said to have landed their cargo in West Manchester, nearly three miles away, while police and firemen battled the flames in the bishop's home.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 5 a. m., by a night watchman employed on the exclusive summer estates in the neighborhood. Smelling smoke, he investigated and found that the rear of the building had been ignited on the outside.

POLICE DOGS LEAD HUNGRY BLIND TO BERLIN CITY HALL

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—(AP)—One hundred blind men and women with police dogs on the leash stumbled into the city hall while the council was meeting today and begged for relief from their poverty.

Some of them were blinded in the war and some were old people who have been sightless all their lives. The police, who never hesitate to swing their clubs on most such demonstrations, had not the heart to stop these people.

"Hunger," they chanted in an abject monotone, and occasionally one of them would cry, "With your fat salaries you don't know what hunger means."

Heinrich Sahm, the lord mayor, took three of them into his office, listened to what they had to say, and promised to do all he could for them. While he talked the police dogs sat beside their masters, rising only when the delegation was dismissed.

3 SLAIN, 3 SHOT AS SPAIN'S POLICE BATTLE STRIKERS

MADRID, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Spain's revolutionary strikes dwindled today, but disorders continued. Three persons were reported killed and three wounded.

Two civil guards and a judge were killed in a battle between guards and strikers at Sollano after extremists had proclaimed the town under communistic control and raised the Red flag.

A new element entered into the situation when Ramon Franco, noted Spanish aviator, announced that he and five other members of the national assembly had formed a new party whose aim was "to establish a left wing republic, which the people wish."

A priest was shot and wounded at Sollano when extremists attempted to burn his church. A striker and a woman bystander were wounded in a gun fight between strikers and police at Seville. The only strikes of seeming importance were at Seville, Malaga, and Alicante. That at Seville was scheduled to end at midnight, but a new one was declared at Manresa in sympathy with textile workers.

'MR. A.' FACES LOSS OF THRONE; ASKS BRITISH AID

Moslem Hordes Marching on His Capital.

SRINIGAR, India, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The maharajah of Kashmir, once known as the mysterious "Mr. A." of blackmail fame, was again threatened tonight with the loss of his throne.

SIR HARI SINGH.

Twelve thousand fanatical Moslems, strongly armed, were reported to be streaming north out of the Punjab with the intention of launching a concentrated attack on this capital and gaining control of the only predominantly Mohammedan state in India ruled by a Hindu.

The maharajah, whose proper name is Sir Hari Singh, has appealed for protection and British and native troops were being hurried across mountain passes to save his "paradise on earth" from the designs of most of its own people.

Fourteen Villages Looted.

Fourteen villages in the Reasi district, near the Punjab border, already have been sacked by the rebels and their inhabitants—mostly Hindu—have been terrorized. Many buildings have been burned to the ground and the situation was said to be grave.

Severe fighting between Hindus and Moslems has complicated the issue and once more threw a the spotlight on the communal issue, which has inflamed the Indian people for years and was principally responsible for the failure of the second round table conference.

Sir Hari has ruled since 1925 over one of the richest provinces in India—a territory the size of Minnesota and having a population as large as Chicago. The people are 95 per cent Mohammedan and have repeatedly rebelled at what they claimed was preference shown to Hindus in the allotment of government jobs.

Famed In Blackmail Case.

The name of "Mr. A." echoed around the world in 1924, when he became the central figure in a blackmail case in London involving $1,500,000. The Midland bank, as his representative, was sued for damages and Joseph Robinson, a bookmaker, and his wife were tried for blackmail.

A jury acquitted Mr. and Mrs. Robinson of attempting to extort money from Sir Hari but failed to agree on the bank's liability. The prince's real name was not revealed until after the trial for "reasons of state."

No Connection with Gandhi.

The armed insurrection in Kashmir has no direct relationship with Mahatma Gandhi's weaponless movement for British India's independence. The Kashmir struggle is a battle for power between the Hindus and the Moslems. The population of Kashmir, which is the gateway to India from the north, has been divided for years by bitter racial animosities that have kept the Moslem and Hindu communities at odds.

While the Moslems complained that the maharajah favored Hindus in awarding state positions, the Hindus argued that the Moslems were unfitted by education and temperament for such jobs.

Kill, Burn, and Loot.

Kashmir is a great, tractless, uncharted mountain state, whose lack of communications makes it almost impossible for troops to reach disaffected areas.

The present revolt has been declared by the Hindus to be part of a scheme by the Moslems to create a vast federation of Islamic states reaching from Egypt across Arabia to Kashmir.

The Moslem population has been kept in a constant state of ferment by Mohammedan agitators from the Punjab, on the south. Whole villages have been burned, looted and terrorized. These excesses usually have been followed by racial riots, in which Moslems and Hindus cut one another's throats indiscriminately. Afterward there usually has been plundering of the shops of Hindu money lenders, who are exceedingly unpopular among the peasants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, Jan. 26.—India today celebrated "independence day." It was the third anniversary of the day on which Gandhi declared in favor of complete freedom for India following the British government's refusal to listen even to his demand for dominion status. More than 1,000 Nationalists, including many women, were arrested throughout India for raising the All India congress flag, singing the national anthem, or reading Gandhi's declaration of independence.

AGREE ON PLAN TO HALT CAPONE JAIL MESSAGES

United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer and Warden David Moneypenny came out of a huddle at the county jail yesterday with a system which they believe will block lieutenants of Al Capone from conveying further messages to the gang leader's cell. It was charged that Capone had been carrying on his "business" through lieutenants who gained access to his cell on the pretext of visiting the gangster's cellmates.

In the future all visitors to the convalescent ward, where Capone is held with five fellow prisoners, will be accompanied by trusted guards. It wi" be their duty to see that no messages intended for Capone are passed to any of his cellmates.

Assistant United States District Attorney Samuel G. Clawson, who issued a pass on Saturday to State Representative Charles Coia to visit Capone "on a personal matter," said yesterday that he would question Coia to ascertain "just what the personal matter was."

MIDWEST BOOZE CONSPIRACY CASE GOES TO JURY

The fate of twenty remaining defendants in the midwest alcohol conspiracy trial was placed in the hands of a jury late yesterday afternoon in the court of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. Earlier in the day Judge Lindley denied all motions for a directed verdict of not guilty. Before the case had gone to the jury Frank McDonald and Dayton Hill of Clinton, Ia., pleaded guilty and were sentenced to three months in the county jail and fined $200 each.

Before the closing arguments Assistant District Attorney Daniel Anderson called Peter Oster, police captain of Clinton, and Sheriff Edward R. Cook of the same city to the witness stand. They testified that Frank Proost, a garage owner of Clinton, one of the defendants, had a bad reputation. Questioned by the defense, they also said that Carl Johnson, a former Clinton policeman, the principal witness against Proost, had been dismissed from the service for conduct unbecoming an officer.

Of the original fifty-two defendants who went on trial two weeks ago several have pleaded guilty, others have testified for the government, and some have been granted a severance.

KISSING A BORE, SAYS SIMMONS IN ALIMONY FIGHT

Testifies He Married to Save Wife's Honor.

Parke E. Simmons, 73 years old, wealthy retired attorney and art collector of Evanston, asserted yesterday that he married Mrs. Mary De Diemer Wright Simmons, 53 years old, in order to save her from suicide and to protect her honor. He testified that shortly after their marriage, in January, 1931, he told her he did not love her. Besides that, he said, he was usually not fond of kissing, while his wife was.

Simmons told his side of the case before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, who is to rule on a motion for temporary alimony made by Mrs. Simmons' attorney, Samuel T. Lawton. Mrs. Simmons is seeking separate maintenance on a charge of desertion. Prior to the filing of her bill, however, Simmons sought the annulment of their marriage, alleging that he was tricked into the ceremony by his wife-to-be when she falsely represented that he was about to become a father. Judge Trude overruled that bill, but Simmons' attorney, John M. Zane, recently filed an amended action which is pending.

"Mrs. Wright told me of her condition early in November, 1930," Simmons said. "She was hysterical when I visited her apartment which was then on Greenview avenue, and she said that she would either walk into the lake or go away and have her child."

Tells of Telephone Call.

A month passed, Simmons said, before any mention was made of marriage. Mrs. Wright finally telephoned to him and told him that he would have to marry her or she would kill herself.

"I went to her home," Simmons testified, "and she promised me that if I married her she would go away from Chicago until the child was born. I agreed and I told her, 'I'll marry you to prevent you from committing suicide and to preserve your honor.'"

Simmons said he went to Mrs. Simmons' apartment the morning they left for California on their honeymoon, two weeks after their marriage in Geneva. "She tried to kiss me and I repulsed her," he said. "Then I told her that I hated her, but since I was a gentleman I would always treat her well."

Tryst in Forest Preserve.

Earlier Simmons testified that their first meeting alone was on a ride into the forest preserves near Evanston during the summer of 1930. "It was during this ride that I asked her if I might not take her to luncheon and then to a hotel," Simmons said. "She agreed and so we went soon after that to the University club and later to the Fort Dearborn hotel, where I had registered earlier in the day." They met on six other occasions that summer, Simmons said.

While living in California, Simmons replied in answer to his attorney's questions, his wife had made a rule that they should not walk from one room of their apartment to another without exchanging a kiss.

"I'm not fond of kissing," he testified.

DRY AGENTS RAID HOUSEBOAT AND ARREST TWO MEN

A party of prohibition agents raided a house boat in the north branch of the Chicago river between Wolfram and School streets yesterday and arrested two men. One group of raiders leaped on the house boat the Alice B from the shore, while the others went over the sides from a patrol boat.

Fred Bender and Same Reese were taken into custody and charged with violation of the prohibition law. They will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker today.

In a launch, tied alongside the house boat, the agents found two five-gallon cans of alcohol. Deputy Prohibition Administrator Albert Aman led the raid. The patrol boat was commanded by R. Whitehouse, coast guard recruiting officer, and Chief Petty Officer Howell.

He halted an inspection trip of the agency branches throughout the country to attend the installation today. "How do you like my brother George?" he asked, and added, "He ought to be a good man. I reared him."

HILLS BROS' PATENTED PROCESS PUTS THE FINISHING TOUCHES ON THE JOB THAT NATURE BEGINS

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting — the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . "a little at a time."

When ripe coffee is picked, Nature's work is done. Man must finish the job, and develop the flavor by roasting. But if he roasts the coffee too long, or not enough, its true goodness is lost. And it is easy to lose the flavor by ordinary, bulk-roasting methods.

Under-roasting and over-roasting can't happen with Hills Bros.' patented process! Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . evenly, continuously, by Controlled Roasting.

Small quantities, continuously, assure an ideal roast for each berry! The true flavor of coffee is developed in every pound. Controlled Roasting prevents variations in flavor! And it makes a flavor no other coffee has, because no other is roasted the same way.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Drink a cup of Hills Bros. Coffee, and see what a really fine flavor comes from Controlled Roasting! Your first sip is a thrill to your taste. You sip and sip again. Eagerly . . . hungrily . . . wanting more and more of that marvelous flavor! Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

HALE BILL ALSO POSTPONED; 2D JOLT FOR NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The American navy took its second major jolt in two days today when the senate naval committee agreed to postpone indefinitely action on the Hale bill, authorizing all warships needed to bring the United States fleet up to the tonnage limits allowed by the London naval treaty.

The action followed by just twenty-four hours a decision by corresponding house committee to shelve the Vinson 10 year warship authorization bill, pending further developments at the Geneva disarmament conference and in the domestic economic situation. In both cases the way was left open for action on the bills at some later date. The house committee went through the motions of endorsing the Vinson bill, then pigeonholed it. The senate committee, evidently influenced by the house action, did not even bring their measure to a vote.

Although naval officers have about given up hope that a naval bill of any kind will be passed this session, the chance still exists that a threat of American entanglement in the Chinese-Japanese war or an early breakdown at Geneva may supply the impulse for favorable congressional action on a warship authorization bill.

Time Not Specified.

While the Vinson bill was so written as to direct the secretary of the navy to submit budget estimates for a certain quota of new ships each year, both measures were in fact simply authorization bills which did not bind the treasury to expend one cent on new ships at any particular time. The Hale bill authorized the President to recommend the appropriation of funds as he saw fit for new warships until the United States had a treaty navy. The Vinson bill authorized the President to build, according to annual programs, all ships needed to give this country a treaty fleet over a 10 year period.

As matters now stand no new warships, with the exception of seven destroyers and between three and eight cruisers, can be laid down before another warship authorization bill is passed. Figures produced before the senate naval committee and certified as accurate by the navy department disclosed that in 1936, if no new warship authorization is approved by congress, Japan will have caught up with the United States in total tonnage of warships, counting battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, and submarines.

What 1936 Will Show.

In other words, Japan will have tonnage parity with the United States in 1936 if no new warship legislation is passed and the United States and Japan complete such ships as have been laid down and authorized. On Dec. 31, 1936, the United States would have sixty-eight ships of 598,370 and Japan would have 156 ships of 596,178 tonnage.

The action of the house committee in failing to report out the Vinson bill was termed a blow to American prospects at the Geneva disarmament conference by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.]. As a member of the American delegation at the London conference in 1930 Senator Reed said he found that the nation which had neither ships nor an authorized program had little influence at a disarmament conference.

Senator Reed emphasized the necessity of authorizing the new warships even if it were found necessary later to postpone construction pending an improvement in economic conditions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WM. A. MOFFETT.

Moffett was to testify as the first witness at the committee's investigation of charges that inferior materials had been used in construction of the Akron and that its weight and slow flying speed detracted from its military efficiency.

"We have to make compromises in designing such a craft, but we believe the Akron is the best airship in the world," said Moffett. "It has flown 450 hours under all sorts of conditions and has proven herself."

The admiral denied that any interior material had been used, or that any had been removed from the original framework after visits to the factory by inspectors.

The admiral declared the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation at Akron had lost money on the Akron contract, chiefly because of the cost of the $2,125,000 hangar or factory which had to be erected.

RAINS INCREASE PERIL FROM BIG RIVER'S FLOODS

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—With the flood waters at Monroe just one-tenth of a foot below the disastrous levels of the 1927 flood, that city this afternoon is fighting further inundation, while more families in West Monroe are ready to move out at a moment's notice. Anxiety was not lessened by the government warning issued at New Orleans that two inch and three inch rains throughout the Mississippi-Louisiana flood area would bring further rises.

"Immediate precautions to save life and property" were urged by the observer at New Orleans. "It is raining throughout the flood section of both Mississippi and Louisiana."

The Glendora section again today reported rising waters, and even over in Arkansas workers are fighting the encroaching waters as they have not been fought since 1927. Around Greenville, Miss., too, there is increased worry and a menace not felt before.

A survey of a large flooded area revealed that many of the refugees are facing serious conditions, with shortage of food and shelter the outstanding danger. Doctors and Red Cross workers have worked to prevent disease and appear to have averted any danger of epidemic.

Judge Kavanagh Leaves for Latin America Voyage

Judge Marcus Kavanagh, dean of the Superior court bench, left Chicago yesterday for a trip to Havana, Cuba. He will return home by way of the Panama canal and up the Pacific coast. The jurist's physicians ordered the trip and rest period after he recently fell and struck his head on the pavement near the county building and was confined to St. Luke's hospital for several days.

BANDITS HOLD UP HOTEL.

Max Hangler, night clerk in the Elm Park hotel at 1531 Wicker Park avenue, was forced to hand over $15 from the cash drawer to two bandits, one armed with a revolver, early yesterday.

President and Associates Accused of Mail Fraud.

President Henry F. Norcott of the defunct H. O. Stone & Co., investment house, and eight of his associates were indicted by the federal grand jury before Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday afternoon on charges of using the mails to defraud. The indictment contained thirty-six counts.

H. F. NORCOTT. [Moffett Photo.]

Arraignment of the defendants was set for Friday before Judge Barnes. They all are free in bonds of $5,000, set by Commissioner Walker when they were taken into custody on federal warrants last week.

"This is the first step in a campaign against businesses of this kind," asserted Joseph A. Struett, assistant United States district attorney. "The government has declared war on racketeering and fly-by-night investment companies."

The indictment, drawn up by Prosecutor Struett and his associate, Francis J. Kennedy, covers 123 pages. Thirty-six complainants are listed, along with the photostatic copies of letters and literature which they received from H. O. Stone & Co.

The other officers indicted are: Claude C. Niles, vice president; Marshall W. George, secretary; W. Scott Carroll, controller; Harold D. Bennett, vice president; Charles P. Packer Jr., treasurer, and Leslie A. Needham, attorney for the concern; David A. Coleman, president of the Stone Finance company, a subsidiary, and Francis E. Richardson, vice president of the subsidiary.

The defendants obtained control of H. O. Stone & Co. in 1919. Charges that mismanagement and inefficiency in business methods placed the company in a position where, after the stock market crash in 1929, it had no property or assets of any appreciable value and was virtually bankrupt, are set forth in the first count of the indictment.

Prosecutor Struett said that hundreds of investors lost sums ranging from $100 to $70,000.

SEEK A CHICAGO REPUBLICAN FOR GOVERNOR RACE

State's Attorney Contest Becomes Four Cornered

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Reaction to the "harmonizing" slate of the Harding-Crowe-Emmerson entente yesterday filled the air with Republican clamor and produced two main effects:

1. Renewal of the movement to bring a Cook county man into the Republican primaries for governor, with a view of getting nonfactional support and the aid of the Brundage and Deneen groups.

2. A four cornered contest over state's attorney which promises to be the most bitter spot on the ticket.

The Deneen group, every ward said to be represented, met at the Hotel La Salle and took up the preliminaries of picking a county slate. State's Attorney Swanson had no opposition for indorsement at the meeting, and the talk last night was that he would be backed by the Deneenites. Four years ago he was elected as a Deneen man.

Group to Meet Again Today.

Since the Harding-Emmerson group went for another candidate, Judge Michael Feinberg, a Crowe adherent, the latest word is that the Deneenites contemplate traveling with Swanson. The group is to take up definite slate making again today.

A new candidate — the fourth — cropped up in the person of Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas, a former Crowe follower, who came out for state's attorney after taking a wallop at the "harmony" slate, which he termed an effort to "sell the people down the river."

Judge Feinberg's friends reported it is a certainty that he will run against Mr. Swanson. With the field split up four ways, most Republican politicians yesterday said it gave a tactical advantage to Judge John H. Lyle, who became a candidate weeks ago and has been actively campaigning.

Fight for Party Control.

Many politicians are now beginning to accept the theory advanced months ago that the thing on which the fighting will be most intense is that for control of the party organization. On the theory that 1932 will probably be a Democratic year, the battlers are out to keep control of the machinery against a year when Republican prospects may be brighter.

That is the interpretation most leaders place upon the Emmerson efforts for the relief of unemployed ex-city hall machinists by landing them places on the pay roll. When the primaries roll around, the general talk is that the Emmersonized ward committeemen will uncross their fingers and go as they please on governor, their own great object being to be reëlected as committeemen.

Revival of the agitation for a Cook county man for governor was hooked up with the theory that the idea in the minds of the Emmerson ex-city hallers is to flop to Small for governor and retain the committeeships, with a view to the next mayoralty election.

Slate Aimed at Brundage?

One view of the Harding-Crowe-Emmerson slate is that it is aimed to chase Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, off the political map in Cook county. By slating for a Superior judgeship Ald. Oscar Nelson, the floor leader of the old city hall machine which was thrown out by the voters last April, the politicians figure the Emmerson hookup is trying to supplant Brundage as a north side leader by Nelson.

Talk last night was that in the next few days conferences may be held, called by nonfactional citizens, with a view of bringing out somebody as a Cook county governorship candidate. Among those mentioned are B. W. Snow, county chairman, and Mr. Brundage. It was reflected in talk among precinct captains who are snorting at the idea of Emmerson in the rôle of "new leader" in Cook county.

Dr. Morgan L. Trainor announced himself last night as a candidate for the Republican nomination for coroner. He was coroner's physician five years ago. He is said to be the first candidate for coroner who has practiced both law and medicine.

KEEP LEAGUE ISSUE OUT OF '32 CAMPAIGN, NEWTON BAKER URGES

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Newton D. Baker, successor to Woodrow Wilson as chief advocate and defender of the league of nations, believes that the league should be eliminated as a troublesome issue in the coming presidential campaign.

NEWTON D. BAKER.

The former secretary of war is regarded as a leading contender for the nomination for President, although he stated emphatically today that he is not a candidate.

In recent speeches he has stood by the league to the detriment of his own prospects as a candidate. In a statement made today when he was boarding the steamship Siboney for a trip with Mrs. Baker to Mexico, Mr. Baker said:

"Any opinion I entertain on the subject of America's relationship to the league of nations must be recognized as merely an opinion such as any private citizen is entitled to entertain. I have stated publicly several times within the last two or three years that the question of America's joining the league is at present not a matter in the field of practical political discussion.

"I would not take the United States into the league if I had the power to do so until there is an informed and convinced majority sentiment in favor of that action in the United States.

"I am not in favor of a plank in the Democratic national platform urging our joining the league. I think it would be a great mistake to make a partisan issue of the matter."

The fact that Mr. Baker took the opportunity before leaving on his vacation to set himself right before his party and the country on the league issue was seen as evidence that he was aware that his recent statements had been injurious to him.

GUNMAN KILLS BERWYN MAN IN WISCONSIN CAFE

Lake Geneva, Wis., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Biggio Pinto, 35 years old, of 1637 Clarence avenue, Berwyn, Ill., was shot and killed this evening in the Milani café on Lake street here.

Pinto was talking to his uncle, Frank Maili, owner of the restaurant, and Frederico Passaretti, an employé of the place, when a gunman entered. He walked up to Pinto and without warning fired several bullets from a pistol into his body.

Warning Maili and Passaretti not to follow him or to notify the authorities at once, the killer departed. Maili waited more than an hour before calling the coroner. He declared he did not know the slayer, adding that he had never heard of Pinto being engaged in any racketeering.

JUDGE FREES WATCHMAN.

Louis Deane, 711 Seward street, Evanston, arrested on Sunday for flourishing a revolver in the K-9 club, 102 East Walton place, was freed yesterday by Municipal Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt. Deane, a bank watchman, had a permit to carry the weapon.

"I suffered for 4 years. Everything I tried failed to do me any good. Then I heard about ACIDINE and tried it," says W. E. Slaughter of Samson, Ala. "After I took a few doses I felt better. I have been using ACIDINE regularly and feel like a new person now."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

AL SMITH TALKS WITH JACKSON ABOUT POLITICS

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Robert H. Jackson of New Hampshire, the new secretary of the Democratic national committee, called on Alfred E. Smith today in the Empire building and for an hour they discussed democracy's problems. Committee business and the general political situation were the topics of their talk, they said.

The Democrats, led by Mr. Jackson, are preparing for a hard campaign in New Hampshire to defeat Senator George H. Moses, who comes up this year for reëlection. Jackson insists his party can carry his state unless there is a disastrous fight in the primaries.

Friends of Mr. Smith are urging him to go into the New Hampshire primary, assuring him they can carry the state for him as a candidate for the nomination for President if he gives the word. Several Smith delegates are preparing to file.

SIX MORE CALLED BY CHAMBERS FOR SMOKE WARNING

Six persons and business concerns were summoned yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, to appear today in his office for a warning on the smoke ordinance. Those summoned:

Horders, Inc., 231 South Jefferson street.
Railway Express agency, 621 West Monroe street.
S. Shulman, 1229 South Avers avenue.

POLICEMAN SUES SEABURY, ASKING HALF A MILLION

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Samuel Seabury, to whom a subpoena, a complaint or a court order is now no novelty, today was served with summons and complaint in a suit for $500,000 filed against him by Lieut. John W. Kenna, formerly supervisor of uniformed police in the tenderloin district, and Mrs. Anna Kenna, the lieutenant's mother.

The suit charges Mr. Seabury with conspiring to injure Kenna and his mother as a result of financial testimony taken when the investigator was referee in the magistrates' inquiry. Named as codefendants are Jacob Gould Schurman, associate counsel; George Levy, assistant counsel, and William T. Sterling.

Bank account testimony before the magistrate investigating had it that Kenna had banked $237,000 during a four-year period in the tenderloin. Kenna admitted the deposits, but said his fund originated from funds taken in real estate operations.

Since the magistrate inquiry Kenna has been twice passed over for promotion by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney.

DANIELS SEES DEMOCRATS WIN WITH ROOSEVELT

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Josephus Daniels, former secretary of navy under Woodrow Wilson, asserted here today that "the nomination of a progressive figure, such as Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York will insure a Democratic victory beyond all question.

"This year the progressives throughout the country, regardless of political affiliations, will vote the Democratic ticket if the party nominates a man whose progressive tendencies are shown by his political record. Franklin Roosevelt is such a man. He was of that type when he was assistant secretary of the navy, and has developed splendidly since that time."

Indict 3 for Government Seed Loans' Fraud Plot

When Hunger Calls

It is high time for ALL to aid the hungry.

It is high time for public leaders to show some statesmaship in devising fair and workable methods of raising the necessary funds.

The proposal that the crisis be met by adding a cent or two to the tax on gasoline is unfair to those familiar with the gasoline tax situation.

The tax on gasoline in Illinois is already 100 per cent of the tank car price of gasoline and 25 per cent of the retail price.

Motorists and truck operators of Illinois are already paying a ruinous tax on motor fuel. Few other commodities are taxed at all.

With the tax at three cents, large sums of money have been lost to the state, and chaotic conditions have been brought about through gasoline tax evasion. Increase in the tax will undoubtedly lead to spread of the evasion racket with effects disastrous to State revenues.

Have the proponents of higher gasoline tax heard anything of the law of diminishing returns? Oklahoma increased its tax rate one cent in 1931 and COLLECTED LESS MONEY THAN AT THE LOWER RATE. Pennsylvania decreased its tax to three cents and COLLECTED MORE MONEY THAN AT THE FOUR-CENT RATE PREVIOUSLY IN FORCE.

Consumption of gasoline is already decreasing in Illinois. It will decrease rapidly if the tax is increased.

Merely because it has in the past proved easy to impose a gasoline tax, those not affected are beginning to look upon gasoline as the carry-all for public burdens. This unfair discrimination against one commodity and one class of consumers should stop.

The motorists and the oil industry have co-operated patiently while a reasonable tax was being imposed and collected for building of roads.

The motoring public and the oil industry are eager to co-operate in the relief of hunger, but should they, in all fairness, be called upon to bear the whole burden of relief of unemployment in all industry and business?

Necessity may compel some oil companies to refuse to collect a higher tax if it is voted and to resort to the courts for justification of their stand against unfair discrimination. If some follow this course, all will have to do so in defense of their business. The resulting delay will make it impossible to obtain funds from the tax at once in any event.

If there must be a new tax, why not a tax upon electricity and gas, steel, upon coffee, upon luxuries and upon any one or all of a thousand other commodities? Why a tax only upon gasoline?

WHY NOT, to be fair, A GENERAL SALES TAX? It is just as feasible for a public utility, wholesale drygoods dealer or a wholesale druggist to reckon up at the end of the month the amount of goods or products sold and remit the tax to the state as for the gasoline distributor to collect the gasoline tax. Only by a general sales tax will the burden be distributed equally to all consumers of goods and to all businesses.

Why not, if necessary, divert from road building to relief part of the forty-odd million dollars which are to be collected this year from the present gasoline and vehicle taxes?

THE RELIEF EMERGENCY.

The emergency which the directors of the governor's relief work have brought to the attention of the Illinois assembly is beyond debate. The conditions and the necessity of the promptest action have not been exaggerated. Private philanthropy has been drawn upon to the limit and is now exhausted. Neither Cook county nor Chicago can raise the required funds for relief. State aid is possible and essential. The alternative would be a social catastrophe such as Illinois has never suffered. It is not a thinkable alternative, and no one doubts that the legislature will take immediate and adequate measures to prevent it or that the people of Illinois will ungrudgingly approve the relief provided.

THE NAVY'S AGROUND ON BOULDER DAM.

The Vinson bill providing for the gradual building of the American navy to treaty size should not, the members of the house committee on naval affairs has decided, be reported to this session of congress. The committee indorsed the bill, but deferred to the "abnormal economic conditions." The bill in its terms recognized that nothing much could be done this year, but a program was defined in the expectation of better times. Even that was regarded as too much. Consideration for vanishing wealth and dying revenue determines the lot of the navy, but elsewhere in the same day's Washington news the reader discovers that what is a depression to national defense is nothing of the sort to such a project as Boulder dam.

The California water scheme which the federal government is financing in the Colorado river gets an allowance of $8,000,000 in the interior department appropriation bill. Thus for the period ending July 1 next year $24,000,000 will have been made available for the various coast interests —water, real estate, and power—which expect to profit by it. Boulder dam is just one item of the many the government will not cut out. The interior department ignores the considerations which the navy finds imperative, and the state department proceeds upon assumptions which the navy cannot make good. The government spends its money in enterprises it should not undertake, at the same time destroys the means it has of making its demands respected in foreign affairs, but does not refrain from policies which make it enemies.

When the Japanese are in southern California they may require the completion of Boulder dam as a part of the reparations and indemnities.

WANTED: DETECTIVES.

Organized crime has been exploiting the possibilities of kidnaping with increasing enterprise of late and the attention of law authorities has been called to this unpleasant development. Kidnaping, detestable and harrowing as it is, ought not to be one of the most difficult crimes to punish and suppress. It requires planning and cooperation. Its victims, unless they are killed, can identify. If there is prompt and persistent investigation and pursuit, the chances of taking the criminals and of successfully prosecuting them are better than less complicated crimes. But what is needed is expert detective work which is not diverted until the criminals are run down. Haphazard search will not suffice. There must be systematic coöperation between the authorities of the states and local communities, and there must be an expert detective service concentrating on major crimes.

The need for action along the lines suggested is emphasized by the recent kidnaping in Denver of a bakery manager. He was held for $50,000 ransom. The same sum was demanded on Dec. 21 of Robert G. Fitchie, president of the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' union and former president of the state federation of labor. The Denver victim says he was released without payment. The Chicago victim, according to his wife, underwent two days of torture before two of his union associates paid over the amount demanded. Fitchie promptly headed for Florida to recuperate. No one bothered to inform the police of what had happened until a month had passed. The inference is plain that the police were not informed because it was taken for granted that the police would accomplish nothing. Reporting the kidnaping might even have brought down reprisals.

Yet the kidnaping of Fitchie ought to present a half dozen clews, one of which should surely lead to the perpetrators of the crime. Fitchie's associates, Sumner and Bryant, collected the ransom money, according to Mrs. Fitchie. They must know a good deal more about the disposition of the money than has yet been told. Fitchie may have some pretty shrewd suspicions.

Each successful kidnaping invites others. The indifference of the police to any one kidnaping is an assurance that there will be others. Unrelenting pursuit and punishment is the only remedy.

MR. MELLON PASSES THE HAT.

The Federal Reserve bank of Chicago has sent to bankers in this district a letter inviting subscriptions to the forthcoming issue of treasury notes. The bankers are urged to hold the notes as bank investments rather than to offer them at once for resale. To toss them on the market, the bankers are informed, might lead to a recession in the prices of all other government securities. And the hint is thrown out rather broadly that the government will be inclined to maintain its deposit balances with those banks which follow the advice in the letter.

This is probably as near to high pressure salesmanship as the Federal Reserve banks have ever come in peace time. Possibly the method is warranted by the circumstances, but it must be obvious that no such methods would be required if the treasury were not dangerously close to the limits of its borrowing power. It is not pleasant to contemplate the United States treasury offering special inducements to subscribers to its note issues; and it is even less pleasant finding the fiscal agent of the government seeking to prevent a perfectly free market in government securities, but the facts must be faced.

The government's borrowing power is not yet exhausted, but the end is appreciably nearer. If we are to avoid far more serious difficulties than have yet been encountered in the course of the depression the borrowing must be brought to a full stop. That can be done only by a strict balancing of the budget. Federal appropriations must be kept well within income, and this does not mean within some optimist's notion of what the income will be but within a hard headed calculation of what the income taxes and any new taxes which are imposed will really yield.

Among the optimists are to be numbered Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills. There is no denying that both these gentlemen have had large experience in private and public affairs, but it would be a colossal mistake to assume that their forecast of what the taxes will yield is therefore infalliby correct. In the nature of things their forecast cannot be more than a guess. Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills may have some rough and inadequate data upon which to estimate the incomes of 1931 upon which taxes will be paid this year, but the incomes to be reported for 1932 and 1933 are no less critical in the calculations and no one today does or can know what those incomes will be.

Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills are assuming two things which cannot be proved: First, that business will improve at a given pace; and, second, that congress will enact certain additional excises and that, if enacted, those excises will yield certain expected sums. The treasury may be guessing correctly in all these matters, but it is entirely within the possibilities that the assumptions are faulty. If so, then the conclusions based upon them are not a reliable guide to congress.

Certainly the official optimism is not widely shared outside Washington. Certainly there is little in the record of administration prophecies before or since the depression to justify confidence in this latest effort at crystal gazing. There is a possibility amounting to a probability that the incomes to be reported for 1931 will fall below the treasury's expectations. There is a high degree of probability that, whatever the incomes for 1931 may be reported to be, the tax receipts will be disappointing because the money with which to pay the taxes has not been reserved and thousands of taxpayers, deprived of incomes in 1932, will be unable to meet their bills.

Washington has no adequate conception of the losses and sufferings of the last two years. Therefore Washington is inclined to think that increases in tax rates will yield proportionate increases in tax income. The expectation is preposterous. If the rates are raised materially the treasury will discover that it has retarded business recovery, and this principle applies with especial force to the imposition of new excises as well. At the same time higher taxes will be an encouragement to evasion, as has been proved over and over again in the history of this and other countries.

The prudent course in the circumstances is to take anything but an optimistic view of the receipts from taxation and to hold appropriations well within this expectation. Only in this way can the ruinous course of borrowing be stopped. Only in this way can the business men of this and foreign countries be brought to complete confidence in the integrity of the American dollar and the soundness of United States government securities. A tremendous slash in government appropriations, a slash which goes far beyond anything that congress has yet considered feasible, is the largest and, indeed, it may be the only contribution which the United States government can make to the restoration of good times.

WHAT! NO SPINACH!

[Kansas City Journal-Post.]

A recent survey of 614 hotels and 790 restaurants reveals that the consumption of sandwiches in the last twelve months has increased 215 per cent: of salads, 110 per cent, and of vegetables, 35 per cent, while there has been a decrease of 45 per cent in meat orders.

This shows a marked change in the eating habits of Americans, and it is not confined to public eating places. Statistics on carloadings show that there has undoubtedly been a change in the meals prepared by housewives. Since 1920 there has been a big increase in the amount of fresh vegetables shipped. The consumption of carrots has multiplied by four in the last decade, judging from freight figures. Ten thousand carloads of spinach were hauled last year, whereas there were only 2,800 in 1920.

Dietitians rejoice over these figures. Every plain citizen who accepts the pronouncements of science with proper reverence is bound to rejoice also. It makes one feel real progressive to picture 10,000 carloads of spinach going down the gullets of one's fellow countrymen. Spinach contains such valuable vitamins, you know.

But there are sad thoughts also brought on by the figures. It is easy to picture tens of thousands of children to whom spinach is an abomination being bullied by their conscientious parents into swallowing the weeds. Then there are tens of thousands of fathers who yearn for steak, potatoes and pie being nagged into forcing down spinach in order to set a good example to the children.

In the old days, some small boys were forced to learn chapters of the Bible by heart and were threatened with a personal devil if they refused. Spinach eating has now taken the place of the memorizing chores, and rickets have been substituted for the devil.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AH, FINLAND! BLESSED FINLAND! Thrice happy Finland! We say Finland with happy tears gushing from our eyes. (And, please, Truly Good, do not tell us to go back to Finland, where we came from. It will be a joke on you, Truly Good, if you do, because—here's a secret—we never came from there; whadda you know about that!) But here is Finland, after trying bone dry prohibition for thirteen years and then deciding it was a colossal mistake and kicking it out, going back to legalized liquor, and announcing that in the future good whisky will be sold for seventy-five cents a quart. And our bootleggers charge all the way from nine to fifteen dollars a quart. And it's been cut four or five times and doctored with all sorts of stuff. And Finland will sell port wine at $1.95 the bot. and champagne at $1.80, and light wines all the way from three and a half cents a bottle to a buck and a half. Tsk, tsk, tsk! Don't you tell us to go back to Finland, where we came from! We never came from there, but, by gravy, if we had the money we'd go back there anyhow.

Never let them see him sad.

RICHARD DUFFEY.

WE WISH the newspapers would stop saying "Spring's just around the corner." The very suggestion that anything is around the corner gives us a pain in the neck. For we have learned only too bitterly that things that hide around the corner stay there. And stay and stay. Look at prosperity.

HUEY P. LONG, pink pajama governor of Louisiana and now a U. S. senator, declares the nomination of Gov. Franklin Roosevelt would mean certain defeat for the Democrats. Darn it, we haven't been very enthusiastic over Roosevelt, but if Huey keeps on talking we'll have to be for Franklin all over the place.

THESE DAYS.

Sir: I stole into my favorite speakeasy the other evening to drink "the cup that clears today of past regrets and future fears," as the poet would say and do. I had been drinking at one end of the bar for some time when an impertinent inebriate broke in upon my solitude. "I'm a judge," he said, by way of introducing himself. I contracted my brow dubiously. "Glad to meet yu, judge," I replied. "I'm an alderman." "You're—you're not an alderman," he stammered. "You're too honest looking." I thanked him for the compliment. "And what's more," he went on, "it'd take—hic—it'd take three guys like you to make an alderman." I resented this inference that I was unduly emaciated. "Well, I'm just as much an alderman as you are a judge," I snapped. "Sez you," said he in a manner not quite judicial, and tottered out the door.

A few minutes later I found myself in a most distressing position. Several bull-necked individuals entered, armed with flashlights. Why they needed flashlights was not clear to me, for both the place and the patrons were well lit up. I perceived at once, however, that they were police officers—their feet were large and flat. Ostensibly, as some wag has already remarked, the proprietor hadn't paid his bulls.

After a few preliminaries, the attendants, my imbibing confrères, and I were ushered into several of those dark-blue conveyances of the municipality and transported to a near-by station house. There we were greeted by Sergeant Woof (I believe that was his name), who ordered the patrolmen to put us behind the bars. I protested that I wasn't a bartender, but my protestation was in vain. Shortly afterwards we were bailed out by a philanthropic politician. And in court the next day we were fined five dollars each for not filing our income tax returns.

P. S.—That fellow was a judge, after all. He was the guy that fined us! SNEEM.

A GOULD gets divorced and remarried all in one day out at Reno. But we always put our money on the Vanderbilts; bet one of them will get divorced and remarried in an hour some time and make the Goulds look like a 1920 model.

IT'S GETTING CLOSE to groundhog day; just a week more and the little groundhog is scheduled to tell us if we'll have six more weeks of winter. But here's what's worrying the groundhog to death: How can he say we'll have more winter when we haven't had any winter yet? You can't have more of a thing unless you've had some of it first. It's a terribly perplexing question and we don't wonder it's keeping the groundhogs awake nights. (Southern California and Loz Onglaize papers please copy.)

The deep blue shadows on the snow;
Forget-me-nots and dusky plums,
The peacock's breast, the pale blue moth,
The turquoise and delphiniums;

The blue jay, lapis lazuli,
The harebell and blue hyacinths,
The sapphire and chalcedony;

The gentian and blue dragon flies,
And, oh, my dear, I love your eyes!

ADELAIDE LOVE.

NIFTY FASHIONS are predicted for the well dressed gent for the spring and summer of 1932, and we are assured he will wear a suit of plain fabric, but simply go hay wire on cravats and sports outfits. But what we want to know is, will he have more than one pair of socks? R. H. L.

HOW TO COOK VEGETABLES.

DRS. SHIELDS WARREN and H. A. Nissen propose a new method of cooking—one that is so radically different that some cooks will keel over if any one proposes that they use it. Their proposal is that cooks percolate vegetables, just as they now percolate coffee.

These scientists are connected with a hospital in which a great many diabetics are being not only fed but trained to feed themselves. They became convinced that the regular methods of cooking vegetables were abominable. You and I who are well can stand it because if we don't like them we can leave them. But a diabetic under control is compelled to eat what is put before him or his doctor will read the riot act to him. These scientists became convinced that the man who said vegetables were "skinned alive and boiled to death" knew his stuff. To make matters worse, it is the custom to throw away the juice and liquors. The resultant vegetable as served is not much more than some softened cellulose from which has been leached much of the minerals, the sugar, and the starch. The vitamins have been destroyed or removed, and the albumins have been changed.

For instance, cabbage is cooked until its proteids are changed and its sulphur liberated, causing the cooked product to be dark in color, and with an unpleasant odor and a rank taste. Most vegetables are cooked too long and at temperatures that are too high and with too much water.

Being convinced of all these shortcomings by what patients told them, supplemented by analyses they made, to say nothing of much tasting, they donned a white coat and headgear and went into the kitchen.

Their method in general is as follows: They thoroughly cut and hash up the vegetable they are to use, after proper cleansing, of course. Next, they add a fruit juice—and orange juice is the one they report on—and a proper amount of water to the well minced vegetable. The combination is then put in a double jacketed steam boiler built somewhat on the lines of a coffee percolator. Then comes the cooking. The temperature is raised to 140 degrees Fahrenheit, and no higher, and kept there for 45 minutes and no longer. The juice is passed repeatedly through the mash. At the end of this period the percolate is placed in covered jars and cooled. When it is cool it is put in the ice box and held at a low temperature until it is needed.

This percolate may be added to soups or to vegetables cooked as usual, but not overcooked, or to any other foods. It is rich in vitamins, minerals, and sugars, and its proteins have not been harmed. The flavors are much superior to those of vegetables cooked in any other way. Children cry for percolated carrots, which cannot be said of carrots otherwise prepared.

CALLUSES ON FEET.

M. S. writes: Several months ago I suffered three painful calluses on the bottom of my feet. I went to a chiropodist, and she said they were wart corns and advised removing them. For three days she put acid on them from a stopper out of a bottle. The holes cleared up and all was fine for about a month, when they grew back again, as painful as ever. Since then I have two more. They are little, white, hard circles, about a fourth of an inch in diameter. Are they wart corns? Will they go away by themselves? Is there a cure for them? I am a young girl and love to walk, but not on painful feet.

REPLY.

Your description fits calluses rather than warts. If they are calluses they will continue to return until you wear shoes that are broad enough and rub the soles of your feet evenly. Wearing insoles gives relief but tends to make the calluses grow larger. Warts on the sole are best removed by a diathermy spark.

AVONDALE SUPERHIGHWAY.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly advise me the general status of the improvement known as Avondale superhighway—the proposed width of the highway; from what funds it is to be built; at what point it is planned to elevate the highway above the regular street level; and the starting point and terminus of said highway? R. P. S.

The Avondale superhighway, as recommended to the city authorities by the Chicago Plan commission on March 12, 1928, was planned to extend from the intersection of Monroe and Canal streets to a connection with Northwest highway near Parkside avenue. For the most part the express thoroughfare was planned to be 160 feet wide; and from the intersection of Elston avenue and Augusta street to the intersection of Milwaukee avenue and Norwood Park avenue an additional 50 foot wide roadway was planned at the normal street level to prevent stub ending cross streets and to give access to the ramps or inclines leading to the express highway level. The express portion of the highway was planned to be elevated above the normal street level throughout its entire length. The $5,000,000 bond issue intended to build the section between Lake and Canal streets and Halsted street and Chicago avenue was defeated at the election of April 10, 1928. From present appearances, if any superhighway development is to be made in Chicago, it looks as if the major part of the cost would have to be borne out of the gas tax fund.

DIVIDING ESTATE.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Property was purchased 17 years ago by an estate left by a husband. The interest was to go to his wife, upon whose death it was to be divided share and share alike. The wife has been living with her daughter's family in the property referred to since its purchase. A verbal agreement was made that the daughter was to receive this property as part settlement of her share of the estate in return for keeping the mother. The property is in the name of a trustee [son], but the daughter has been paying all taxes and improvements. The mother is still living and the two daughters want the son [1] who is trustee removed. 2. Can this be done without going to court? 3. As the son [trustee] and two daughters are getting along in years, can the estate be partially divided at this time? 4. In case above verbal agreement is invalid, can husband of daughter collect all money paid out for taxes, etc., and charge a reasonable sum for mother's board from the estate? 5. Would all moneys paid out prior to seven years ago be outlawed? A. H. B.

1. You have given us no facts as to a trust.
2. Depends upon the wording of the instrument creating the trust.
3. See No. 2.
4. Yes.
5. The limitation period on moneys due upon implied agreements or agreements not in writing is five years.

"PREFERRED CLAIMS."

Kingston, Ill., Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please explain "special bank deposit" as differentiated from "general bank deposit." An attorney told me money deposited as the former was a preferred claim in case of a bank closing. A bank president says he never heard of it. L. R. W.

Perhaps you misunderstood the attorney. He may have been discussing the effect of bankruptcy of the depositor rather than bankruptcy of the bank. In the former case a separate account which can be identified as set apart for a specific ownership would not be treated in the same way as general funds of the bankrupt depositor. The attorney is the best source of information as to what he meant. We agree with the bank president that there is no preference between the claims of bank depositors as against the bank.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16.—The speculation in greenbacks continues and the banks still hand out certificates over their counters instead of currency. There is no disguising the fact that all classes of business are feeling the money squeeze and some very seriously. Men at every turn seem to be engaged in a grand chase after money and the working people, when they are paid off, tuck their cash away. Merchants are withholding all the currency they possibly can and in the savings banks there is a large amount of money packed away which was withdrawn by depositors from national banks when the panic began.

New York, Nov. 1.—Intelligence reached Wall street that there is no immediate danger of suspension of Claflin & Co., dry goods house, which it was rumored the day before was embarrassed. The company declares its failure is impossible.

Nov. 4.—City in a Bad Way.—City Controller Ackerman has not yet succeeded in obtaining from Chicago banks the money he needs to liquidate the October pay rolls. And if he does get the money it does not appear that the real situation will be improved.

New York, Oct. 24.—Reports from representatives of various industries in New York City alone show that fully 100,000 men are unemployed here. The reports form a very impressive document that should be read by every workingman in the land.

New York, Sept. 28.—About 300 people, supposed to be unemployed, attended the first session of the national convention for the relief of the unemployed this evening in Manhattan lyceum, 66 East Fourth street.

May 16.—Deposits of the state banks of Chicago are gradually recovering the losses incident to the bank panic which began Oct. 26, 1907. They are not yet, as a whole, up to the mark of August last year, but they show a good gain over the figures of Feb. 15, 1908.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 27, 1916.

LONDON.—In regard to the negotiations with the United States and the intentions of the government in treating America's protests against the British blockade policy, Sir Edward Grey in the debate in the house of commons said today: "We are telling the American government that we are considering the whole matter in consultation with the French government and that we may consult our other allies. If we concede everything asked in the last note from the United States we will have to give up our attempt to stop even contraband from reaching the enemy. If we apply the principles of blockade expounded by the United States in the civil war, then neutrals should help England. If they say that England should not be permitted to interfere with shipments to Germany in connection with the principles, then they must depart from neutrality."

LONDON.—Dispatches from Rome say that Prince Mirko of Montenegro is believed to have been either killed or captured by the Austrians at Scutari. He is the second son of King Nicholas and was born at Cettinje April 17, 1879.

BERLIN.—An official Turkish statement says British forces in Mesopotamia made another attack upon the Turks, but gave up the effort after sustaining appalling losses.

CHICAGO.—In a wild ride in a hack over the elevated tracks of the Chicago and North Western railway, three women narrowly escaped with their lives. The horses and cab were brought to a stop in front of the Summerdale police station after a run of three miles, when the police fired revolver shots almost in the animals' faces. Charles Spaulding, the driver, was arrested. The Kenosha fast express was flagged just in time to prevent its striking the cab. The carriage occupants were Mrs. Joseph Griffin, 874 Montrose boulevard; her daughter, Miss Alice Griffin, and Miss Kate Paddon. They had been to a funeral and Spaulding had taken a few drinks to fortify himself for the cold ride home when he turned the horses in on the elevated structure by accident. On realizing his predicament he lashed the horses for the full three miles hunting a place to drive to the street, with the women screaming all the while.

PARABLE.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The problem and the controversy of war debts and reparations brings to mind an incident away back in my New England boyhood.

Pat Quinn was a typical ne'er-do-well who lived with his wife in an old house with a couple of acres of ground midway between the farms of Si Richardson and Enoch Mills. Pat's wife had another baby. Mrs. Si Richardson took pity on Mrs. Pat and in order to provide fresh milk for the baby she had Si loan a cow to Pat.

It was all right until one day the cow got the roving spirit and wandered across the orchard and broke into Enoch Mills' vegetable garden back of his home. Enoch had some fine potatoes growing there and had liberally sprinkled them with Paris green to kill the potato bugs. Somehow the poor cow was attracted to those potatoes, and she just about wrecked the entire garden, incidentally getting pretty well loaded with Paris green. The long and short of it was that the cow got out of the garden and wandered around until she found a good place over back of a clump of alder bushes, where she lay down and died.

Right there started a fine three-cornered neighborhood row. Enoch Mills wanted to take it out of Pat's hide at first because the cow had messed up his garden. But what was the use of fighting Pat? It wasn't his cow. So Enoch started in on Si Richardson for loaning the cow to Pat in the first place. And Si wanted some satisfaction out of it, too, for wasn't it his cow that was lost? So it grew until everybody in the neighborhood was taking sides.

One night, over at the corner grocery, all three were present, with several of the neighbors, and a continuation of the row was in fine progress, when in came Marcellus Fletcher, the selectman—and quite a character, too. Fletcher took it all in as the argument went on. Finally he broke in with his New England drawl:

Si didn't.

"Too late to plant taters agin, ain't it, Enoch?"

Enoch agreed that it was.

"Cow's dead, ain't she?"

Both agreed on that.

"Beginnin' to smell, ain't it?"

No argument on that.

THE CLOSING OF A NIGHT SCHOOL.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—The night school students of the Lawson Grammar school resent the closing of our night school. We feel that an injustice has been done to us. Though there are three high schools left running, tonight closes the last and only grammar school. We feel that our grammar school education is needed more than their high school education. We wish to keep our school running, as we have a very good attendance in all conditions of weather.

EARL SNIFF.

FADS AND FRILLS.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—In connection with the proposed elimination of the so-called bonus for Chicago school teachers, may I point out that the so-called bonus is not a gift to special teachers, but represents compensation for special training, demands extra time and activity on the part of the teacher, and provides an incentive for attracting young people to certain difficult types of teaching?

Physical education, household arts, manual training, and a few of the other special subjects requiring special training are not fads or fancy frills, but are recognized by leading educators the country over as being essential and beneficial to the growing boy and girl.

It is a generally recognized fact that it is the elementary school that presents the opportunity for real, i. e., primary, teaching. It is also true that the elementary teacher receives the lowest salary in the range of educational salary schedules. Add to this the realization that practically all of the so-called bonus teachers are employed in the elementary schools, and we must come to the conclusion that any elimination of this added compensation would be a direct blow at the lowest salaried group of teachers performing a great part of the noteworthy accomplishments in the system.

Nevertheless these same bonus teachers have plugged along month after month without compensation along with the rest of Chicago's 14,000 unpaid martyrs, and now, as a reward for their efforts in helping assume Chicago's debt of over $24,000,000 to the school system, it is proposed to slash their incomes anywhere from 9 to 14 per cent.

In conclusion, the Chicago school teachers have never been, are not at present, and probably never will be overpaid. LARRY GREY.

A CROWDED CAR.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 21.—I see in this morning's TRIBUNE that our state's attorney is going to try to indict some of those bold, bad funeral drivers. What I'd like to know is why don't he try to indict the driver of the car in which a girl was killed and his eight other passengers injured. Judging from THE TRIBUNE'S account of the accident, I think this driver was guilty of reckless driving, speeding, and having more persons on the front seat of his car than the law allows.

I think that I would rather pay $3.75 and ride with an experienced, reliable driver than to take a chance with some young fellow who may be a good driver when he hasn't nine of his friends in his car with him, talking to him and distracting his attention from his driving. SYMPATHIZER.

THE TWIN CITIES.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—In your paper this morning you referred to St. Joseph and Benton Harbor as "the Twin Cities." Since when did they become known by that name? They may be as much twins as many other two cities, but the title has heretofore been held exclusively by St. Paul and Minneapolis. RUDOLPH E. ERICKSON.

Both of These Offer Laughter to the Reader

American and British Humor Featured.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"A Strong Man Needed," by Maurice Richardson. [Liveright.]

SOMETIMES one needs a good dose of nonsense to choke off that little bird that is always singing in one's ear about the difficulties and trials of being a member of what B. L. T. used to designate as the "so-called human race."

ELMER DAVIS.

Two very sugar coated anti-blue pills are offered us in Elmer Davis' amusing tale and Maurice Richardson's wildly fantastic yarn.

Elmer Davis is a well known American humorist, who wrote, as I keep telling the whole world whenever I have a chance, one of the funniest books in American literary history in "Times Have Changed" [published in 1923]. Of late he has been devoting himself to more serious work, but in "White Pants Willie" he has returned to his first "follies." Not such a glorification of the American joke as made "Times Have Changed" unforgettable, this new novel. Just a gay story about a boy with a pair of white pants who uses them as the traditional shoestring, his other capital being one neither bright nor shining five cent nickel.

The reason Willie ever left Sloanestown was on account of the pants. Once before in the history of the village a pair of white flannel trousers had adorned its main street, with the result that their wearer left town never to return and became a legend of the wages of sin. That's what Sloanestown thought of the decadent ways of city folks.

Willie, after a day or two in Chicago [where he lived grandiosely and appareled himself lavishly], returned to his consuming passion for his boss' daughter with what he thought was an irresistible stage setting. The town thought otherwise, spat tobacco juice all over his grand new white nethers, and thus drove Willie into what proved to be his fortune. It drove him to Florida in the days when Florida was a "Land of Promise." The story of what happened to Willie and his white pants there is—so the author assures us—"a historical novel."

Mr. Davis has not written a book that takes stitches in your side, in "White Pants Willie" [readers' sides were all scarred and seamed from "Times Have Changed"], but if this weren't midwinter and hammocks weren't nearer that "quaintly archaic" time which Mr. Davis is singing about we'd say that the latest opus from the Davis ink-pot is an ideal hammock book.

By the way, if you yearn to know the facts of that mass-mania, the Florida land boom, which provided the hero of "White Pants Willie" with fame and fortune, you'll find it in "Boom in Paradise," by T. H. Weigall [King].

"A Strong Man Needed" is the first novel—I take it from the jacket of the book—from a new English humorist. It is completely and delightfully mad from the first page to the last. It is about a poverty-stricken noble line in England rescued from practical starvation by the heir returning from Australia with what proved to be a gold mine. It was in the form of a giantess who had charm and beauty and a wallop that made her the toast of the world. Not only did she become the social furor of London, but she earned with the gloves the tidy sum of an odd quarter of a million pounds. Bill [that's her name] was trained as a prize fighter and became—but you'll have to read what she became.

The major premise [Bill] of "A Strong Man Needed" is side splitting, but the minor deductions of the author about the state of society in England, the life of the traveling English celebrity in America, the business of prize fighting, the business of being a lord in the house, politics in general, life in general are the most amusing madness imaginable.

Can Opener Is Home Chef, Delegates Told

Housewives Seek Speed, Efficiency, Too.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Meals complete in every detail of tastiness, flavor variety, vitamin content, and complete balance, rationally, may now be prepared with canned foods, delegates to the twenty-fifth annual convention of the National Canners association were told yesterday. Together with food brokers and canning equipment manufacturers, the canners are meeting at the Stevens hotel.

Some 250 different kinds of food are now available in cans, the association reported. Beginning with the first canning of salmon, oysters, and lobsters in tin by Ezra Daggett and Thomas Kensett in 1819 in New York, an industry has been built whose products are now worth $750,000,000 annually.

"Everything from tripe to turkey, including pumpernickel bread and cheese, eleven kinds of beans, and ready cooked beef and onions, now stand ready on the shelf for instant use," the delegates learned. "There are 62 kinds of vegetables, 44 fruits, 37 seafoods, 28 meats, 30 soups, and 12 entrees now canned commercially."

Even broccoli, dandelion greens, mustard greens, palm hearts, whipping cream, and enchilada are said to lose none of their tastiness or food content in preparation for the tin containers. At the end of a can opener one may now even relish goats' milk.

Still the main crops in the canning industry, however, tomatoes, peas, beans, apples, pumpkin, and corn were the objects of research work during the last year, reports of which were given yesterday. Nearly 4,000 canners in attendance represented every state in the union.

The National Wholesale Grocers' association, meeting at the Congress, were told of new problems in food distribution arising from constantly changing food habits. Relations between wholesalers and retailers were discussed by J. Walter Tyer, president, National Association of Retail Grocers. Paul S. Willis, president, Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America, outlined plans for closer cooperation between the processors and distributors of foodstuffs.

This Beam Should Reach Mars Easily, in Theory, It's Said

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Mars, 35,000,000 miles away, may become just a "tank town" on the theoretical path of a radio beam made possible by a new tube developed by Westinghouse Research laboratories.

The tube is 20 times more powerful than any previous tube at its wave length, 42 centimeters, but its 10 watts of power can be supplied from an electric light socket.

I. E. Mouromtseff, who was in charge of the developing of the tube, chuckled when asked about Martian communication.

"Yes, in theory our beam should reach Mars easily. We can see no reason why it should not go out for an infinite distance. These waves pierce the heaviside layer [a strata of ionized particles 100 miles from the earth's surface] and beyond that there is vacuum and they should encounter practically no absorption.

"At different times certain people have interested themselves in the possibilities of communication with possible inhabitants of Mars. If anything of this sort is ever to be accomplished, it will probably have to be done by means of ultra short wave radio."

TAME LIGHTNING AIDS IN MAKING CHICAGO SAFER FROM STORMS

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—An artificial thunder cloud which hangs continuously eaves-high just outside the door of a Purdue university laboratory helps protect Chicago from lightning damage.

The assistance is through discovery of better ways to ward off lightning, and was explained today to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, at a symposium showing what Chicago, Boston, and Philadelphia have done to clip lightning's wings.

This artificial thunder cloud is a mattress of parallel electric wires. It creates in the atmosphere all about the same kind of induction tension caused by a big thunder cloud. But Purdue's tame cloud is geared low enough to be harmless to humans.

With its aid little lightning flashes are induced on experimental "house and city" circuits just inside the laboratory door. These strokes go popping like firecrackers, each one leaving a record indicating on a small scale what real, wild lightning is capable of.

Some changes in wiring, particularly for private consumers, have been suggested by the Purdue cloud experiments and put into effect. They were explained by Dr. C. Francis Harding and C. S. Sprague of Purdue. The work was done with the aid of the Commonwealth Edison company of Chicago.

Lightning improvement protection in 20 years about Chicago was described by D. W. Roper, of the Commonwealth Edison company.

Work in Prison Urged as Way to Avert Riots

Illinois Warden Talks to City Club Here.

The 4,802 men and 123 women now in the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries suffer from lack of work, said Warden Henry C. Hill in an address before the City club luncheon yesterday.

He blamed the situation on legislation which prevents the prison from disposing of manufactured goods except to other state institutions. While the prison authorities are contemplating an automobile tag industry, a cotton and woolen textile plant, and other factories, realization of those hopes still is remote, he said.

"It is when men are idle that they brood and that causes unrest and riots," said Warden Hill. "In the riots that have occurred since I have been there, the men expresed no dissatisfaction with prison management, but against the parole board. I am satisfied, however, that no amount of money could buy a man's way out of prison, despite their rumors."

Warden Hill said he believed prisoners should have some remuneration for their work, say 10 cents a day, to act as incentive. He did not favor outside employment on roads or elsewhere.

The punishment of handcuffing men to bars for more serious crimes has been almost abolished, but is necessary in some cases, just as it is necessary to send civilians to jail in some cases, he said.

Asked whether he believed punishment acted as a deterrent to crime, Warden Hill said he did not. He pointed to the two years in which the penalty for robbery with a gun was from 10 years to life, instead of 1 year to life, saying that 878 men were sent to prison under the heavier sentence, a larger number than ever before.

Seven hundred prisoners now go to school every day, learning to read and write and a knowledge of elementary arithmetic, Warden Hill said. Ninety-two prisoners are taking extension courses from universities, and 188 are taking correspondence courses, he said.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER, a daughter of whom the dean of American actors may well be proud, is giving a program of character sketches at the Studebaker theater that marks her as eminent in her field. With an apologetic bow in the direction of Ruth Draper, whose mimetic gift is more fluent and whose sense of satire is more pungent, I proclaim that this is the best one-woman show I have ever seen.

After a series of light monologues in the usual vein of platform amusement, adroitly and whimsically treated, Miss Skinner invades the field of historical romance and offers her audience an intensive study of the domestic life of Henry VIII. She depicts the six wives of that uxorious monarch in episodes that pluck the drama out of their stories, and when she has finished you are an expert on the subject of Tudor queens. You have felt the Spanish dignity of Catherine of Aragon; you know how gay Anne Boleyn went to the beheading block; you have felt the girlish unhappiness of Jane Seymour; you have smiled at the German naïveté of Anne of Cleves; you have caught Katheryn Howard in an excusable adultery; and you have sat with that prim housewife, Katherine Parr, at the deathbed of her lord and master.

This hour with Miss Skinner, as she skimmed over the conjugal history of England's most married king, has done more for me than a faithful reading of Francis Hackett's monumental biography. I now feel at home in the gallery of these famous spouses and am developing a sentimental weakness for at least three of them—the gallant, flirtatious Boleyn, of course; the gentle home girl, Seymour, and the flagrant flapper, Howard.

These half dozen sketches, each copious in dialogue and telling, by direct statement and intimation, a surprising amount of story, represent a brilliant achievement by Miss Skinner. The theme is massive, but she has treated it with such skill that it carries no burden of historical detail. She strikes the tragic note lightly, and brightens her pictures with feminine charm. Her costumes are rich and faithful to the portraits of the period.

Altogether "The Wives of Henry VIII." is a notable novelty in playgoing. The six sketches are, in effect, a complete historical drama, given single handed by a gracious, highly gifted young woman.

Miss Skinner's other numbers on the night program are: "A Southern Girl in the Sistine Chapel," "Eve of Departure," "Monte Carlo," "A Lady Explorer," and "Motoring in the '90s." Each contains a skillful bit of platform portraiture. For the matinée performances, today and Saturday, she will offer instead: "An American Girl on a French Telephone," "Calais-Paris Express," "Homework," "On the Beach at Barbados," and "Sailing Time."

Here is an artist of distinction and beauty in a diversion that has surprising variety and decided charm.

3 Minnesota Cavemen Sheltered from Economics

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The cavemen have come back with an advantage over the originals. Deep in the sandstone bluffs along the Mississippi river three men are living in a cave.

When it was fashioned by nature no one knows, but it affords a comfortable home for Gust Erickson, Henry Karvola and Tom Hill.

Early in the winter they lost their jobs and to conserve resources, they turned to the cave, where they sleep in one of the inner recesses and prepare their meals in a "kitchen" near the entrance.

"Our only expense is 25 to 50 cents a day for meals," said Hill. "At that rate we can get by until work opens up again."

Sister's Death Halts Kaiser's Birthday Plans

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Bowed by grief over the death of his favorite sister, Sophie, the former queen of Greece, Wilhelm II., once the German emperor, will celebrate his 73d birthday tomorrow in the seclusion of his Holland estate.

The usual festivities have been canceled. The servants, however, and other personnel will receive their usual free day and will be treated to a special noonday dinner in the administration building.

The former emperor has recovered from his recent attack of bronchitis and he will be able to take his usual morning stroll through the parklike estate.

"Until shortly before her death his majesty exchanged frequent letters with his sister," that aide said. "Although probably nobody would have raised objections had he traveled privately to Frankfort to see her when she was ill, the emperor refrained out of consideration for her.

"'Supposing I appear at her bedside—she will naturally think that I have given up all hope for her recovery. That will only make her condition worse,' he decided."

Another reason making the birthday sad this year is the economic reversals suffered by the Hohenzollern family in connection with the German agrarian crisis. Wilhelm no longer is able to distribute charity among his old soldiers nor to help finance archaeological expeditions which, in addition to investigation of the war guilt question, constituted his chief hobby.

"The sales value of the entire land and forest possessions of the former Prussian royal house in 1929 totaled about $6,750,000, but today, naturally, that no longer is the case.

"All forestry and agricultural undertakings today must be subsidized. In other words, instead of yielding a return they have deficits which must be covered.

"It is not difficult to figure out what this means to a family budget from which 16 families, totaling 49 persons, must subsist. Even the $3,750,000 which the Prussian state gave to the former ruling house as a settlement no longer suffices as a working capital for the Hohenzollern land and forest possessions."

Collegiate Athletics Too Hard for Health, Chicago Surgeon Says

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—"Youth of today with its wild parties, late dances and sports, is living entirely too fast." So Dr. Philip H. Kruescher, Chicago surgeon, said today. He is here for the convention of the American College of Surgeons.

"College football, basketball and boxing," he said, "are sapping the energy of young men, and are doing great harm. Youth must slow down, for simple, sane and sensible living result in longevity," he added.

"American boys and girls of 21 and 22 are crazy for a good time," he declared. "They play too fast, work too fast, and eat too fast. They are living faster than people of any other country.

"Young people stay out to 2, 3 and 4 a. m. on parties and dances, drinking bad liquor, night after night. That is living entirely too fast.

"College football is doing irreparable damage to its participants. Boxing, basketball and other forms of strenuous sports are causing players to lose untold energy."

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Hospitals comprise the largest single enterprise in the United States—a $4,000,000,000 investment — a sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons was told tonight by Dr. George W. Crile, director of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation.

New Chemical Element Is Named for Virginia

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Discovery of the elusive chemical element 87, reported in 1930 for the first time by Dr. Fred Allison of Auburn, Ala., is confirmed in a report of Dr. J. L. McGhee of Emory university, Georgia, to the Journal of the American Chemical Society. Element 87 is the latest of the elements to be found. Dr. Allison, head of the department of physics at Alabama Polytechnic institute, announced the discovery of element 87, a metal, and named it "virginium" for his native state of Virginia. "Virginium" was found by means of a magneto-optic machine the Auburn professor built after many years of experiments.

Actress Turns Back to Stage After Movies

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 26. — Ruth Chatterton and her husband, Ralph Forbes, are taking a joint flier into stage production here this April. Forbes owns 50 per cent of the play and will act in it. Miss Chatterton owns the other 50 per cent and will direct it. She'll continue with her Warner Brothers screen contract at the same time.

Anita Page, the little blond whom Harry Thaw started on her Hollywood career, has just had a long term contract renewal from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. This studio signed her first, when Thaw brought her and another girl of high school age to Hollywood five years ago. Anita's next rôle is with Bill Haines in "Are You Listening?" She plays Sally, a reception girl in a studio.

It is possible that Lon Chaney's son, Creighton, aged 23, may take up a screen career that will recall his father. A contract has been offered Chaney by Radio-RKO studio in which the young man would be billed as "Lon Chaney Junior," same as young Doug. Fairbanks is billed. The contract would start the youth at $250 a week, and if he develops into an actor and has his options renewed every six months, would see him drawing $3,500 a week five years from now. Young Chaney is married, and until recently worked for his father-in-law in a water heater business. He does not have a marked physical resemblance to his father, but his screen tests, which were taken without makeup, impressed the studio sufficiently to gamble $250 a week for 26 weeks on his making good.

Peter Grimm will return again, for the steenth time. Paramount is planning a re-do of the old David Warfield hit in talkies. Nobody cast in it yet.

Find Why Youngster Steals Before You Begin to Judge Him

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: My little 6 year old boy steals. What can I do?"

It is with such meager information that I am sometimes asked to prescribe a cure.

Why does a child steal? When we are confronted by this most disturbing quality it is better to find out why he steals than to punish him for doing it.

What purpose is served by stealing? What does he achieve by these actions? It may be a few pennies from his mother's purse, or it may range to more considerable articles.

He may steal because of the pure adventure of it. There is an element of thrill, of excitement to it, a spiciness that he does not otherwise have. Or he may take something because he wants it so terribly, and he does not think he can get it any other way.

Or it may be used as a means of "getting back" at someone. (One little girl "got back" at the children who were "not nice" to her by stealing their pencils.)

Some children steal for the simple reason that in their homes no respect is shown for each other's belongings, so they in turn have no respect for property.

However, these are the less frequent causes for stealing; they represent only a small part of the reasons that impel children to take things. Tomorrow a more important reason for youthful stealing will be given.

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

BY MARY MEADE.

Food Talk.

Some facts about potatoes!

There are different types of potatoes that are best for the various purposes to which they may be put. Mealy for baking, waxy for French frying, etc. In general, it is wise to choose potatoes of medium size and regular shape, and avoid those having many and deep eyes. Very large potatoes often have a hollow spot in the center due to a second growth. Small potatoes are immature and lack flavor.

The potatoes you select for baking should be of fairly good size and have a high percentage of starch distributed throughout the cells. This starch content is responsible for the mealy character of baked potatoes. On the application of heat the starch grains swell and burst, and so we get that desirable mealiness. As we have said, this quality is excellent in the baked product. Not so in the boiled. Starchy potatoes, when boiled, fall to pieces before they are thoroughly cooked.

Potatoes that contain a great percentage of protein will be waxy when cooked, and those that have a large amount of water and the starch grains unevenly distributed will be soggy.

It is interesting to know why raw potatoes discolor after paring. This action is due to "the presence of certain substances called enzymes, or ferments, which, in the presence of air, go through a process called oxidation." This oxidizing process causes the potatoes to turn dark.

There is another discoloration—the greenish color near the surface—which occurs when potatoes have been grown too near the surface of the ground. It is caused by the action of the sun. If you notice this condition the potatoes should be pared and soaked in cold water until the substance is dissolved. Unless it is dissolved there will be a bitter taste present.

Cut the boiled potatoes into thin slices and line a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Over this arrange a layer of cooked macaroni, then a layer of potatoes. Sprinkle more cheese over the potatoes and finish with a layer of potatoes. Pour over all a thick tomato sauce. Dot with butter and sprinkle cheese, salt, and pepper over the top. Brown in the oven.

SOCIETY NEWS AND FASHIONS OF THE DAY

Dancing Class Proves Popular with Society

Mrs. Henry Field's Group Meets Twice Weekly.

HAD you heard that Henry Field's talented wife, the former Betty Sturges, is assisting Alicia Pratt with her dancing class that meets twice a week at the Illinois Women's Athletic club? It was news to us for we did not know that the lovely Mrs. Field counted dancing among the things she does expertly, but we learned yesterday that she is a graduate of the Ruth St. Denis School of Dancing and really is a lovely exponent of that graceful art.

The class meets every Tuesday afternoon and Thursday morning in Le Petit Salon and usually after two hours of strenuous bending and stretching and the like, the members are glad to take a swim in the gorgeous pool on the 17th floor of the club. Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick Jr., were the original members of the class and now Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, Mrs. Philip Maher, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Scott Linn, Mrs. Lloyd A. Lafiin [she, too, is an expert, having studied dancing abroad before her marriage], and Mrs. Prentiss Andrews have joined it. Mr. and Mrs. Field are moving today from 234 East Pearson street to 70 Cedar street.

Drama League Entertains Cornelia Otis Skinner.

It was raining and disagreeable outdoors yesterday, but in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone, where the Drama league was giving a breakfast party for Cornelia Otis Skinner it was gay and springlike with spring flowers on the speakers' table and shaded candles on the others, and every one looking smart and cheery in spite of the fact that it is near the end of winter, that dreadful time when one's winter clothes seem so old and out of date and when it is too early for spring ones.

Miss Skinner was chic in a simple black velvet gown with a touch of white satin at the neck, a long string of pearls and pearl earrings, a black hat with the perkiest red feather imaginable, and a large red and white chiffon "hanky" which wasn't in evidence except when Miss Skinner made a few graceful gestures during the delivery of a French poem, descriptive of the November wind. Miss Skinner was introduced by Mrs. Clarence Hough, acting president, and seated with them were Miss Zona Gale who was an unexpected, but very welcome guest; Morgan Farley, the youthful hero of "Fata Morgana"; Ben-Ami, Roman Bohnen, who used to be with the Goodman theater and is a former Chicagoan; Miss Lytell, Miss Doucet, Miss Holden, and several other theatrical stars, and Lawrence Paquin, who has been here since autumn organizing the Drama League Players. Mr. Paquin announced that a Theater Guild play, "At Mrs. Beam's" has been secured and the players will make their debut in it this spring some time.

There is a rumor that the talented Lenore MacLeish [Mrs. Norman H. MacLeish] is to do the leading role, but who the other players are we do not know yet. Mrs. Marvin Miner Jr., who was forced to retire from the active presidency of the league on account of ill health, was at the breakfast yesterday, looking rather pale, but as attractive as ever. We doubt if many of her fellow members saw her for she was sitting in a rather secluded place—in the balcony—and she rushed away as soon as the meeting was adjourned. With her were Mrs. Potter Smith and Mrs. John A. Vincent. It was Mrs. Miner who conceived the idea of forming the Drama League Players and it is largely due to her untiring efforts that the idea is being carried out.

Among others at the breakfast were Mrs. James H. Channon, Mrs. Frank Gordon and her debutante daughter, Isabel, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. Howard L. Willett, Mrs. Edwin Seipp, Mrs. A. F. Callahan, Mrs. John Denison, Mrs. Henry K. Chapin, Mrs. Walter S. Carr, and her daughter, Margaret, and Mrs. Cyrus G. Hill.

Luncheon Today for Miss Avery in Evanston.

Mrs. Charles G. Little and her debutante daughter, Myra, are giving a luncheon today at their residence on Greenwood boulevard in Evanston for Miss Nancy Avery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Avery of 209 Lake Shore drive, who has just returned from school in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer will leave about Feb. 1 for Boston to attend the wedding on the 6th of their son, Potter III., and Miss Rose Movius, which is to take place in Chestnut Hill at the First Unitarian church. Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer will leave on the 4th for their nephew's wedding but neither of their sons, Honore Jr., or Potter d'Orsay, will be able to leave their jobs—we seem to remember having heard that they both are learning the banking business from the ground up—to see their cousin wed.

Roger Shepard of St. Paul, another cousin of the bridegroom, will be an usher [his mother and Mrs. Potter Palmer are sisters], and Oakleigh Thorne Lewis, who married Bertha Palmer last summer, also will usher.

Young Edward Kohlsaats Makes Home in East.

The young Edward C. Kohlsaats, who moved recently and rather hurriedly from Evanston to New York, have taken an apartment at 225 East 79th street and his mother is planning to go east to visit them fairly soon. The Kohlsaat girls, who used to spend so much time at Lake Placid every winter, are not planning to go there this winter, but their husbands, Franklin Agnew Jr. and Edward M. Harkness, have built a small ski slide in Mrs. Kohlsaat's yard in Winnetka and if ever we have some snow that will not melt immediately the young people expect to have some winter sports in a small way at home. The Agnews and the Harknesses hated to have the junior Kohlsaats move, for the three young couples all had apartments in the same building on Kedzie avenue in Evanston and they used to have such nice family parties.

Every one who met attractive Sue Eberhart of Kansas City when she visited Miss Virgene Richey here will be interested to learn that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Eberhart, announced her engagement to Harold Morris Peters of New York last Sunday in Kansas City. Miss Eberhart and Miss Richey, the daughter of the Eugene Richeys of 227 East Delaware place, were roomates at Miss Bennett's, and Miss Eberhart has visited the Richeys several times. Miss Richey will go to Kansas City on Feb. 7 to be Miss Eberhart's only attendant at the wedding on the 9th.

Charles H. Schweppes Have Gone to Florida.

The Charles H. Schweppes' departure on Saturday for Palm Beach was happily timed to get away from the present spell of unpleasant Chicago weather. Mr. Schweppe's recent illness delayed their trip somewhat, but they hope the Florida sunshine will be conducive to rapid convalescence.

Mrs. Winfield Scott Linn is expected to return today from a visit in New York with her mother, Mrs. William Lowe Rice.

Mrs. Julius Rosenwald and Mr. and Mrs. Selden F. White, with their daughter, Miss Wilhelmina White, are among the Chicagoans who will sail today on the Statendam for a 26 day cruise of the West Indies.

The Charles F. Glores have arrived in Lake Forest from a trip abroad, having gone over to spend Christmas with their daughter, Frances, who is at school in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour are back from New York, where they went to see their son, Watson III., and "Jack" Simpson off for what promises to be a most interesting trip. They will visit the Mediterranean ports and then go to Africa for a hunting trip, and perhaps after that they will try their hands at hunting in India.

This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Fullerton hall of the Art institute there will be a recital of Japanese music under the auspices of the Japan-America society and the "Orientals."

PRINCESS' CHOICE

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The midwinter hostess who buys her clothes in Paris is receiving her guests in something very simple, usually in velvet, satin or chiffon.

The extravagant, trailing hostess dress is being snubbed by smart society hereabouts. Frocks for receiving informally are worn just to the floor at the longest, and some fashionable ladies wear them instep and ankle length. These dresses have sleeves of a sort, too, and some women wear very long or otherwise exaggerated sleeves in their hostess dresses. The low cut neckline is a matter of taste, it seems, for even the most formal of hostess dresses may have rather high necks as well as real evening decolletées.

The type of hostess frock chosen by the smartest Parisiennes is shown in our sketch. This is a Worth model designed for the Princess Aga Khan. It is made of black chiffon and has a fitted basque waist with short ruffle sleeves, a piquant and charming effect, particularly in such delicate material.

The neckline is round in front and descends in a deep V in back. There is a narrow, while tulle yoke bordered by a line of pearls and two white chiffon roses are placed at the waistline in back.

The skirt has the 1880 movement achieved by two all-around circular ruffles and one across the back at the top, just below two mounting tucked bands of black chiffon.

Spirit of Youth Rules in Styles of Adornment

Costume Jewelry Reflects Personal Whims.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

ZEST for amusement seems to be expressing itself these days in all sorts of surprising accessories, have you noticed? Impeccably correct or not, nobody minds as long as they are youthful, chic, and have some "cachet" of personality.

In the costume jewelry line some enterprising person must have lost a lot of sleep thinking up all of the clever gadgets the city's shops are offering. Though to be worn sparingly, there is an interesting piece for most every occasion. Among the best is the crystal and silver bracelet for sport togs to be found on a Michigan avenue counter. Horses, dogs, and polo players are all painted in miniature under the crystal. The report is that one of the town's best equestriennes has ordered one with the heads of her favorite mounts to be painted by hand under the crystal sets.

The same idea is carried out in some clever money clips, cuff links, tie clasps, and key chains for men or boys. In this case a monogram may be substituted for the remainder of one's favorite sport, and the work is done in only a week.

Metal jewelry finished in dull silver or gold is to play a large and not inglorious part in the tailored and afternoon ensemble this spring. The miners have been digging and smelting, or whatever it is, and the shops have been designing all manner of things useful and frivolous. There are necklaces, bracelets, earrings, and clips, clips, and more clips for the dress, the hat, the scarf, or the bag.

Old gold forms the setting for jade and coral accessories for more formal afternoon attire and even crystal is to be used in this fashion, but the shopkeepers anticipate little demand for turquoise. The necklaces in jade and coral, from 28 to 30 inches long, have attractive side closings with a grape or cluster ornament. The same idea is carried out in matching bracelets and earrings, but the fashion decree is earrings or necklace but never both at the same time.

Pearl and rhinestone combs to be tucked in the hair at the side back are the latest evening revival. From Paris comes the news that Mme. Ganay is flanking her small "chignon" with diamond hairpins. Formal attire calls for bracelets in groups, four, five, or six, and a necklace with the new side closing or earrings depending on the contour of the face.

L. E. Myers Re-elected Chairman of Board of the Salvation Army

Lewis E. Myers was reelected chairman of the Salvation Army board at the annual executive session held yesterday at the Palmer house. Others reelected were John F. Gilchrist, vice chairman; John J. Mitchell, treasurer, and Sangston Hettler, secretary.

Commissioner W. A. McIntyre of the Salvation Army in a report of its work stated that army during the last year with other groups "carried the lion's share of the burdens resulting from a period of great business depression and social unrest."

"The army is aiding in every way to secure at least the $10,000,000 for relief in Chicago and Cook county desired from the state legislature," Commissioner McIntyre said. "Unless this sum is provided there is no doubt but what the overload relief will be seriously curtailed if not entirely discontinued as far as private agencies are concerned."

Lily Pons' $130,000, More, Too, Sought by New York Managers

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Lily Pons, Metropolitan soprano, testified today that although her salary from the Metropolitan company is $440 a week, to be $1,000 a week three years from now, she has earned $130,000 since May, 1930. She receives $1,200 for each concert appearance.

She testified in regard to the $315,000 suit brought against her and her husband, August Mesritz, by Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Zenatello, her former managers.

The Zenatellos, claiming the $315,000 as an estimated 15 per cent of the singer's earnings during the ten year period ending in 1940, which they say their contract with her covers. Until managed by them, they declare, she was not earning large sums.

Mme. Pons, who declares the Zenatellos broke the agreement, charging for advertising that was not placed. The Zenatellos deny that.

The Zenatellos have introduced evidence to show that 58 per cent of Mme. Pons' income is payable to persons other than herself under various agreements. Their lawyer at that time said the Metropolitan got 33½ per cent of all her concert earnings, Bruno Zenato, 5 per cent; Mme. Zenatello, 15 per cent, and Mr. Alberti, her Paris vocal instructor, 5 per cent.

The Zenatellos were defeated last spring when they applied for an injunction against the singer, the court at that time ruling that relief for the alleged breach of contract should take the form of an action for damages.

YANKEE MEN GRIEVE THE EYES OF TAILORS BY HATS THEY WEAR

These and numerous other combinations which shock the eyes of tailors were criticized at the National Association of Merchant Tailors in convention today. The criticism was made by R. G. Twyeffort of New York, chairman of the fashions committee.

Tailors from every state and several Canadian provinces registered for the convention, which opened today and will last through Friday.

Twyeffort added that despite the details he had noted, men of this nation are the nearest to being sartorially perfect, declaring that the tailors can dress this country out of hard times. A man in the right hat, a starched collar, and dignified suit cannot lose confidence, he said.

"Today men without the background of money they once had are dressing better to bolster their ego and give evidence of their security," Twyeffort told the 300 delegates.

Stock Resting; DeLamarter Runs Concerts

First of Midseason Series Presented.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

MR. STOCK is out of Chicago taking a brief midseason rest, and Mr. DeLamarter is therefore conducting the Chicago Symphony concerts for the present. His first at Orchestra hall came yesterday afternoon, and some astonishingly young music it was that he found.

Joseph Haydn, for example, is having a more or less running celebration of his bicentenary this season, so Mr. DeLamarter presented the symphony bearing the subtitle, "Le Midi." Following the idiom of a former age though it does, it is essentially as youthful in spirit as though it had been written last week. In fact, it is probably more youthful than some of the music written last week when that music comes to be heard.

There was also Jean Philippe Rameau, who, as far as years are concerned, was half a century before Haydn. A year ago Mr. DeLamarter put a suite from Rameau's opera, "Dardanus," into contemporary orchestral dress and brought it. He repeated it yesterday. It is delightful, charming, and, like the Haydn symphony, young of heart.

For the rest of the program, Mr. DeLamarter went in for more recent compositions, but still those of high spirits. Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" was one, still a marvel after nearly forty years of continuous performance. Deems Taylor's "Through the Looking Glass" suite was another, a delectable work and up to date the best thing Mr. Taylor has composed. It, by the way, was also played as a commemoration, but instead of to Mr. Taylor to Lewis Carroll, whose book was its inspiration and whose centenary is occurring this year. The final number of the program was Tschaikowsky's "Capriccio Italien."

The youthful exhilaration of the performance was admirably reflected by Mr. DeLamarter. He was at the top of his form, and the orchestra struck sparks.

Lutherans Unite Work Formerly Done by 5 Groups of Youths

Coördination of the work previously divided among five Lutheran young people's organizations, was effected yesterday at the Stevens hotel. The meeting was the first of its kind since the federation in 1930 of the five synods, now making the American Lutheran conference.

That union includes one-third of all Lutherans in America, the consolidation of the youth organizations was left until now for settlement. The synods that federated are the Augustana synod, the American Lutheran church, the Lutheran Free church, the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, and the United Danish Lutheran church.

NEW HUSBAND OF FORMER EDITH GOULD IS TITLED BRITISHER

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—New York friends of the former Edith Gould Wainwright, daughter of the late George Gould, expressed belief tonight that the Hector Macneal whom she married in Reno on Monday, a few hours after her divorce from Carroll Livingston Wainwright, artist, is the London and Glasgow shipowner who is listed in Burke's Peerage as Sir Hector Murray Macneal.

The couple was today believed to be either en route to Pasadena or else in hiding. In her absence the Reno attorney of the former Mrs. Wainwright admitted that the bridegroom is a titled Britisher. Sir Hector was made a knight commander of the Order of the British Empire in 1920, according to Burke's Peerage, for rendering valuable voluntary service to the British ministry of shipping, principally in connection with the administration of tonnage with the United Kingdom of France.

He was born Feb. 8, 1879, the son of the late Frederick H. Macneal and grandson of the late George Macneal of Ugadale and Lossit, Argyllshire, Scotland.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Representative Oscar De Priest of Illinois and Mrs. De Priest were among the first persons to arrive at the White House tonight for the reception given by President and Mrs. Hoover to members of the house of representatives.

Just as they did last year, when there was considerable speculation in Washington social circles as to whether they would attend the reception, the Negro representative from Chicago and his wife arrived early, and after passing down the receiving line walked to the east room and seated themselves along the wall. A number of other guests approached them and engaged them in conversation.

Reports from the White House tonight indicated that a number of prominent house members of both parties were absent from the reception, among them Speaker John N. Garner of Texas and Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader.

Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten, Representative and Mrs. Carl Richard Chindblom, and Representative and Mrs. William E. Hull, with the latter's sister and niece, Mrs. Harris and Miss Harris of Peoria, Ill., who are spending the winter with them here, were among the members of the Illinois delegation at the reception.

TANGEE
"ENDS THAT PAINTED LOOK"

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu valley to spend her remaining days. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family, although his mother had sent her checks.

Ricardo calls at the New York address of Miss Filomena Stanley and finds not the ancient aunt he'd expected, but a beautiful young aunt. He arrives in the midst of a cocktail party, staged by Filomena and her roommate, Frances, in their Bohemian studio. He stayed for the party and meets Filomena next day to talk everything over at luncheon.

INSTALLMENT III.

A FAMILY OF TWO.

Filomena looked up, the laughter dying from her eyes. "You mean it, then?"

"I mean it."

"Seriously, Ricardo Dane—I like your name. Always did, from the first time I heard it. It always sounded—o, romantic, and——"

"The Spanish tinge, that is? But, seriously, what?"

"Seriously and honestly and truly, what right have you to be asking me personal questions about me and my affairs? I never saw you before last night when you crashed my party. It was a good party, wasn't it?"

She giggled. "No one would have guessed it. You seemed able to utilize the top of the stairs as well as any of the oldtimers."

"Will you be serious? This is the way of it, Filomena Stanley—I like your name, too, in spite of having thought you'd be fifty-eight and tall and thin and spinsterish, everything that you aren't. But I like better to call you darling aunt. But this is the way of it. My mother told me before she died that I was to find you and look after you—she knew, or she had a good hunch, that you needed looking after, you see. And—perhaps you never knew much about my mother, but she—I've always, all my life, done what she wanted me to do. Now don't get me mixed up with some Little Lord Fauntleroy you may know. My mother wasn't that sort. She—she was wise and reasonable and tolerant and—and wonderful. I've always done what she wanted me to because what she wanted was always so damned right. You see?" He looked up and saw startled tears in the blue eyes across the table.

"There was nothing in her will about you," he went on, glancing hastily away, "and there's no legal reason why I should do a thing for you."

"Go on."

"Well, the thing is, what she wanted me to do I'm going to do. I know what she wanted done out on the ranch. All that was always understood between us. But at the very last she thought of you, somehow. I can understand it if she had ever known you. O, my dear, why can she never know you now?"

Frances was at present reviewing perfectly good pay every week for displaying her charms of face and form in the Follies.

"What do you think she did mean, Ricardo?" she asked quietly.

"She didn't say. But she wanted—I have an idea she wanted us to be together—to keep the family together, somehow. We're the last of the family. I want to be your guardian nephew, if you please."

"I haven't any family at all, of course," she said.

"Ah, but you have. You have a nephew, a guardian nephew, and you will please tell me at once just the condition of your heart and why it is bad and what ought to be done for it."

"The boy is persistent."

"Well, it's agreed, isn't it, that we're a family? You're to confide in me and let me know if things bother you or—or anything. And I'm to buy things for you and—and—and be your guardian. I'm serious, Filomena—Aunt Filomena."

Laughing, she put her hands to her ears. "I think you could begin over and do the whole turn again, couldn't you? You'd wear down the stamina of a much more strongwilled person than I am."

He reached over and pulled her hands down. "It's yes, isn't it, Filomena?"

"Sounds like a proposal."

"It is, but not that kind. But you do say yes, darling aunt?"

She nodded. "Yes. Because I'm weakwilled and weak-kneed, and have no moral stamina at all. I oughtn't to—but, then, you might as well know, I'm poor, and it's wonderful to have a rich relative turn up like this out of nowhere—I mean out of California. I—I need a relative, especially a rich one——"

She felt his fingers tighten on hers. "Darling—darling aunt, as soon as we're out of here in a taxi, I shall kiss you. To seal the bond, you know, and let me tell you that the one you had last night was nothing, girl. This kiss is going to be a genuine——"

She withdrew her hands. "There is one condition, nephew. There is to be no kissing, not now to seal the bond, nor next week for your birthday, nor any other time. I know I look like a loose young woman with no inhibitions whatever——"

"Not today. But last night—I thought I'd get into a——"

"I knew you had a wrong idea of me. But now you see me as I really am."

"You're much more beautiful today than you were last night."

She beamed. "Nephew, you are always allowed to say nice things. You, I might remark, were handsomer to gaze on last night before you had swalled that liquor."

"If you don't like me blear-eyed and sodden with whisky I can ride the wagon. I suppose you ride it from choice?"

"Not choice. Heart again."

"Please, what is the matter with your heart?"

"Very little, nephew. Enough for me to use it to scare people with, of course. It really kicks up a bit when I smoke or drink too much, and once in a great while I flop over in a faint. I wish I could say that it demands a winter on the Riviera or a tropical sea voyage. But I can't. I'm too honest."

"Let's pretend that it does, and we can——"

"No. We can't. There are places where I draw the line, even with a pseudo nephew."

"I don't trust the look in your eye. Come to think of it, I've heard of Spanish faith, and I think you're tainted with it. I am going to walk home."

It took Ricardo and his newly found aunt all of the month of November to settle down to being a family of two. It was the most tremendous piece of good fortune that he had arrived just the week he did. It seemed Aunt Filomena had had no work for weeks, and she was getting to the end of her slender resources.

She took only a lukewarm interest in his search for the apartment, though she willingly gave an opinion when it was asked. And when he finally insisted on yes or no about the place she was to occupy, she said it was simply too perfect. It had one big room with a fireplace at one end and wide windows that overlooked Central park. From that room one entered a small bedroom with a bath. And there was the tiniest kitchenette imaginable, also entered from the big living room.

In the same house, on another floor, it was possible for Ricardo to obtain a more modestly proportioned two room apartment, suitable, the agent assured him, for a bachelor. This made the arrangement completely convenient.

Then, of course, there was furniture.

Filomena inclined economically toward second hand shops and to dabbling in red and yellow paint. Ricardo frowned upon this and insisted she make her choice from furniture shops that he personally endorsed. This meant that they had impressive show windows.

"Your wild ranch must bring you in simply millions," she sighed.

She had already explained at length her financial difficulties when the quarterly check from California lapsed the spring before. This made him feel that any amount that he could spend on furniture and other adornments hardly made up for what she had missed. She had confided also the amount she earned when she did have work. Work meant a job in the chorus. He was utterly horrified when he first heard this fact. His mother's early training accounted for that.

He could assure her that the income from Romeu valley was equal to any demands she might make upon it. The apartment must be a real home when she moved into it.

Frances had required a little explanation, too. Frances, who was rarely if ever out of a job, was at present receiving perfectly good pay every week for displaying her charms of face and form in the Follies. Here at least once a week Filomena and Ricardo were expected to drop in and have a look at her, pick her up after the show for supper or dinner, and on Sundays they were lucky (in Ricardo's estimate) if she did not spend the day with them. As for her casual and unannounced arrival at midnight to spend the remainder of the night, he had no way of checking up on that.

She was exactly what he had thought her in the beginning. How Filomena, as different as night is from day, could be so intimate with her was one of the minor mysteries. It appeared the two girls had been roommates for a period they referred to as "simply centuries," ever since Fran had come to New York, in fact. Before that, Filomena's life was a vague shadow, about which she was always going to tell him everything.

How Does Boy Friend Stack Up to Father? Try the Comparison

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In his leap year decalogue Judge Henry Meade of Kansas City advises girls not to let a handsome face influence their better judgment. I don't know whether the judge expects the girls to go berserk because it is leap year, but it is written on the records that a handsome male face is not one of the most compelling assets a man may boast.

Girls have been notoriously scary of the collar ad beauty. They don't like his act of wanting to absorb all the flattery, and so he has operated under somewhat of a disadvantage, matrimonially speaking, heretofore. On the screen, the sheik goes over much better than he does off it.

But one commandment issued by the Kansas judge which bears the endorsement of this scribe reads: "Don't be finicky; you have faults yourself." Legion are the unmarried girls who sacrificed their big chance because they were unwilling to swap a fault for a fault.

And yet another piece of advice offered by the judge which might serve both in choosing a husband and later holding him, reads: "Don't delay a proposal because he is old fashioned. He may be like your father."

It's nice and it is well to have father brought out in the open as a sample with which marriage may be conducted happily. We have got into a way of relegating the old dear to a background of inconsequential influences. Yet, the married woods are full of these men, old fashioned in the sense of fulfilling their obligations to wife and home and family, possibly quaint in their sense of loyalty; withal, men who are the very backbone of our social lives, and men whom just as men women find worthy of giving a lifetime's devotion.

Studying father is not a bad pastime. Sizing up his character traits, his faults, for with all humans he may have his few, and then comparing the young suitor's disposition and character to dad's is one good way of going about taking out a matrimonial insurance policy good for the later years. That is, of course, where dad and mom are getting along.

There are some dads, to be sure, who could be studied for the type of man to avoid. But compared with the large body of decent, home-loving, loyal, fine husbands and fathers, they are decidedly in the minority.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Read Love Letter Aloud.

On the way to high school I meet a young man who causes my heart to go in leaps and bounds.

While in my English class one day I began writing him a love letter, which I never intended him to see. Suddenly I was called upon to read a composition about Thomas A. Edison.

I started, and then it began to dawn on me that the whole class was in an uproar of laughter. I came down to earth with a bang when I discovered I had mixed my papers and was reading my love letter to the class.

To make matters worse I discovered later that this man was related to my teacher and I had mentioned his name. I can never face either one of them without blushing to the roots of my hair. E. M. T.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

What tremendous consequences flow from little things. If in the summer of 1929 and in the late fall we had only said sell instead of buy—but, O, well, why torture yourself with the thought. If you had stuttered you might be a rich man today.

Now in yesterday's play-a-problem if East had only had the little 2 of spades with his A and 5, instead of finding the little two in his partner's hand, what a tremendously different story. This was the hand.

NORTH (Dealer)
♥—A,J,10
♦—Q,J,9,6

WEST
♠—J,10,9,8,7,4,3,2

EAST
♥—Q,7,5
♦—K,7,5,4,3

SOUTH
♠—None
♥—K,8,6,4
♣—K,Q,10,7,6,5,2

North dealt and bid a no-trump. East passed. South naturally took out with a bid of two clubs. West passed. North now bid two diamonds. East passed. South again bid his clubs—three this time. West passed. North bid three no-trumps and all passed.

I have given you the bidding as it actually occurred, but I do not like North's bid of two diamonds on such a weak diamond suit. The very minimum on which a four card suit takeout should be made is on one headed by an A or a K, with at least one other honor.

East opened the ♦ 4, dummy played the 2, West the A, and declarer the 6. West then led the ♠ J, declarer played the Q, East played the A, and dummy the ♣ 2. East returned the ♠ 5, which North took with the K. It is well to note at this point that North cannot allow the spade to hold and still make his contract, as he must concede two diamonds and one club, and if he gives the adversaries two spades he will be certainly set one. North now led the ♣ 9, East played the 4, South the Q, West discarding the ♠ 2. Dummy returned the ♦ 10, North put up the ♦ J, and East took with the ♦ K. East returned the ♦ 3, which North took with the 9. North now led the ♣ 8 to dummy's ♣ K. Dummy returned the ♣ 5, which East took with the A.

It now makes no difference what East leads. Whatever he leads will be captured by North or by the dummy—the club tricks run and the game taken in.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Feminine Silhouette Still Slender, but Curves Are Favored

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I see that Florenz Ziegfeld, the well known girl glorifier, has gone on record (in the papers) as a backer in the "curves for women" movement. I must see his new Follies flock before I believe it is going to be a curved follies year. I've been fooled before.

I've been led to believe that with Mr. Ziegfeld's promptings and his concrete preferences in salaried employés curves would get the inning due them. But, as I say, I've gone to the Follies and seen only make believe curves. Certainly not what Grandpop would call a curve!

Howsoever, the specifications for the 1932 follies model run:

Blond.
Height, 5 feet 6 inches.

One hundred and eighteen pounds for 5 feet 6 isn't any cushion of fat, you may believe. Our usual statistical weight and height charts allot the young lady of 5 feet 6 inches pounds in the one hundred and twenties. And the popular medical system of reckoning weight is to multiply the number of inches over 5 feet in height by 5½. This would bring the health weight and medical curves up quite a few more pounds.

The truth is that we need an entirely new computation system of weighing and measuring. Woman's silhouette has changed so radically in the last ten years that what were curves for Mamma in her heyday are work for the masseuse and the gym and the cook thrown in.

We may be overlooking, however, the fact that the Zeigfeld choices are very young women, in which case 118 pounds may do to cover the bones and leave a curve or two over. At that, they are plump maids compared to our movie siren weight demands, where the camera itself will add 10 or 12 pounds without blinking an eye.

German Builds New Palace for Ruler of Indore

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN. — Jan. 26. — Dazzling splendor, reminiscent of the "Arabian Nights," combined with the last word in supermodern European architecture and interior decoration, describes best the palace Manik Begh, just built for the maharaja of Indore in his capital by the Berlin architect Eckart Muthesius. A model of this fabulous building, together with the palace furniture shortly to be shipped to India, is on display here.

Throngs of curious Berliners, eager to have a glimpse of the home life of a real live up-to-date maharaja are drawn to the Pforza exhibition rooms displaying this modern Arabian Night dream. Was it not the predecessor of the present maharaja of Indore who had that scandalous affair with the pretty dancing girl Mumtaz Begum? Which affair finally ended in the maharaja being deposited and marrying the American girl Miss Nancy Miller.

Perhaps it is due to the warning example set by this dethroned Indian ruler that the Berliners look in vain for that well-guarded golden prison, the harem, without which, they are thoroughly convinced, no palace of an oriental potentate is complete. Instead there is the bedroom of the maharani, sober, matter of fact, unimaginative, with very little furniture in it beside a glass bed of the very latest European design.

The palace is a low, one story building, with numerous balconies and verandas, the two side wings encompasing a spacious terrace. By means of an elaborate system of pipes the rooms of the palace can be heated or cooled off at wish.

The furniture, partly made of the most precious woods, partly of glass and various metals, is heavy and pompous, but electric light enhances it with unexpected brilliant touches.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Does your baby have nights when he fusses, tosses and seems unable to go quickly, quietly to sleep? Look for one common cause, doctors say. A constipated condition.

When your baby is upset and unable to sleep, or has a little cold or fever, it is a wise precaution to give him the gentle but sure regulative help of Castoria. With regulation come relaxed comfort and restful sleep.

Keep a bottle always on hand. Children like the taste of real Castoria—which always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

A. S. AUSTRIAN FUNERAL TODAY; NOTED LAWYER

Known for Learning and Court Eloquence.

Funeral services for Alfred S. Austrian, for 25 years a leader of the Chicago bar, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the Rosehill cemetery chapel, with interment in Rosehill cemetery. Rabbi Solomon Freehof will conduct the service.

Mr. Austrian, a member of the firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt, died early yesterday in his home, 53 East Division street. He was 61 years old and had been in failing health since he underwent an operation at Passavant hospital in September, 1930.

Born in Chicago, the son of Solomon and Julia Austrian, he was educated in the public schools here and at Harvard university, where he was graduated in 1891. Upon his admission to the Illinois bar in 1893, he joined the firm of Kraus, Mayer & Meyer, and was admitted to partnership in 1905.

In the succeeding years his trial work won him a reputation as one of the most learned and eloquent lawyers in the city. Among the clients of his firm were such institutions as Armour & Co., the Erlanger theater interests, and the Wrigley company, whose president, William Wrigley Jr., also died yesterday.

Among his early notable cases were the series of suits in which he represented the Iroquois theater owners following the fire of 1903 which claimed 575 lives. He was counsel for THE TRIBUNE in 1912 in the attack before a senate committee on the legality of the election to the senate of William Lorimer.

The year 1920 found him counsel for the owners of the White Sox baseball club in litigation arising from the world series scandal of 1919. Two years later he appeared for the millionaire lumberman, James Stanley Joyce, in his suit for divorce from the famed Peggy Hopkins Joyce.

Notable Argument on Merger.

In 1925 he made a notable six hour argument before Secretary of Agriculture Jardine in defense of Armour & Co.'s acquisition of another packing concern, Morris & Co., which the government contended to be a violation of the Clayton anti-trust act.

He was attorney for William Wrigley when the chewing gum magnate sued a Chicago anti-Klan magazine in 1923 for publishing a charge that Mr. Wrigley was a member of the Klan.

Mr. Austrian, a member of the Democratic party, was counsel for a number of county officials, including County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer and the late county treasurer, Patrick J. Carr.

Outside the law, Mr. Austrian's principal interests were in his home, his family, and in literature. He was considered a scholar of the classics and possessed a notable collection of manuscripts and first editions.

On Oct. 1, 1901, Mr. Austrian married Mamie Rothschild of Chicago, who survives him with a daughter, Mrs. Magaret Fuller Bernheimer. Also surviving are his mother, a sister, Mrs. J. Harry Selz, and his brother, Harry S. Austrian.

BULLET IN BRAIN, BUT HE FEELS FIT TO GO TO WORK

Budek asked permission to leave the hospital for his employment with the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad. Dr. Samuel Geraci after a thorough examination said Budek was apparently recovering, but decided that his patient should spend another 24 hours under observation. No attempt is to be made to remove the bullet.

Budek was shot at Chicago avenue and Noble street by one of three bandits who were angry because he had no money. He walked five blocks to Dr. Geraci's office for attention.

Minnie Terrell, Democratic Leader in 29th Ward, Dead

Mrs. Minnie Terrell, 60 years old, 3155 5th avenue, Democratic committeewoman from the 29th ward for the last seven years, a director of the women's Democratic organization, died late yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at Our Lady of Sorrows church, Jackson boulevard and Albany avenue. Interment will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Mrs. Terrell is survived by her husband, Walter F. Terrell, and five children, Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th], Mrs. Samuel Frymire, Walter F. Terrell Jr., William J. Terrell, master in chancery for the Superior court and Miss Dorothy Terrell.

CLARENCE YOUNG, AIR SECRETARY, IS INJURED IN PLANE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, Clarence M. Young, was slightly injured this morning when the government plane in which he was conducting radio tests crashed in a small field in nearby Maryland.

Neither Mr. Young nor Marshall Boggs, his pilot, was seriously hurt. The commerce official received numerous bruises about the legs, but after having them dressed went to his office, where he remained all day.

Mr. Young and Boggs left the College Park airport near the University of Maryland in a two seater Curtis Fledgling plane, powered with a Wright J-5 220 horsepower engine, to conduct the radio tests. When about 500 feet above Berwyn, Md., the motor stopped and Boggs was forced to bring the plane down in a small field.

The ship ran through a hedge fence into soft ground and nosed over. The landing gear and wing panels were wrecked, although the equipment with which the tests were being made was unharmed.

BLAME GAS GAUGE IN FATAL TRIP OF EDDIE STINSON

Describe Error in Fuel Supply.

The death of Eddie Stinson, pioneer aviator, as the result of an airplane crash Monday evening was blamed on a new type of gasoline gauge which Stinson was not fully acquainted. William A. Mara, vice president of the Stinson Aircraft corporation, made this explanation at the inquest which was continued until March 24 to await the recovery of three other men injured in the crash.

W. A. MARA. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mara's explanation was not brought out in formal testimony, as only two policemen and an undertaker, who helped take the injured men from the wrecked plane, were put on the stand. Their testimony established that the plane ran out of gasoline and Stinson was attempting to land it in Jackson park when it struck a flag pole and crashed.

Experts Hear Explanation.

Maj. Herman H. Woeltjen and Maj. R. W. Schroeder, aviation experts assigned as special deputy coroners in air accidents, heard Mara's explanation informally and declared the new gauge was probably the cause of Stinson's leaving Chicago airport without sufficient gasoline.

"This new type gauge is a glass tube fixed to the end of the wing tank, inside the plane's cabin," Mara said. "When the plane is sitting on the ground with the tail down, it registers much less gasoline than is really in the tank. Eddie probably looked at the gauge, saw it was low, but thought that the tank still held enough gasoline for the short trip he planned. One of the mechanics offered to put in more gasoline, but Eddie waved him away."

License Just Renewed.

Stinson was in excellent physical condition, as he had passed a department of commerce physical examination for his license renewal only two days previously, Mara said. Mara planned to take Stinson's body back to Detroit last night, where funeral services will be held later this week. His two sisters, Marjorie and Katherine, are en route to Detroit, and his father is on the way from Aberdeen, Miss. Stinson is also survived by his widow and a stepson, 19 years old.

The plane crashed in Jackson park near 63d street. Stinson died in the Illinois Central hospital early yesterday. The three passengers who were injured were Fred M. Gillies, 36, of the South Shore View hotel, 7100 South Shore drive; Clark Field, 30, of Kalamazoo, Mich., and John Tompkins, 36, of 4021 Butternut avenue, East Chicago.

The inquest was held in the Roberts Undertaking company rooms at 1411 East 60th street.

CUSTOMS MEN TRIED FOR SHOOTING MAN ON SIGHTSEEING BOAT

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Two customs officers today faced a jury of seven women and five men before Judge Charles C. Simons in federal court. Clarence Fish and Walter Weslowski, border patrolmen, are accused of wounding Walter Gajewski by shooting hi... in the arm while he was a passenger on the pleasure steamer St. Clair in Detroit river July 21 of last year.

Taking the stand, Gajewski told of the boat chase and described how he was shot in the chase after a rum boat. Kenneth Porter, a service station attendant, charged that Fish and Weslowski had not lowered their pistols, despite the pleasure boat veered into their path. They continued firing, he testified, while they were running alongside in pursuit and after Gajewski was cringing from a bullet wound in his arm.

AUTO ACCIDENTS CLAIM 3 MORE LIVES; TOLL 93

Three deaths yesterday as a result of automobile accidents increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 93. The victims:

Isadore Morys, 34 years old, 2304 North Narragansett avenue. Died in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital of injuries suffered on June 6 last year when he was struck by an automobile driven by Jesse Vernon, a patient at the Hines hospital. The accident occurred near Morys' home.

Harry Kuhn, 35 years old, 6737 Emerald avenue. Died of injuries suffered on New Year's eve when he was struck at Madison and Dearborn streets by an automobile, the driver of which did not stop.

George Tallman, 35 years old, colored, 2150 West Austin avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered on Jan. 23 when he was struck by the car of a hit and run driver at Lincoln and Lake streets.

A coroner's jury yesterday failed to fix responsibility for the death of Jennie Johnson, 12 years old, who was killed on Jan. 17 at Parkside and Schubert avenues. Two cars, driven by Philip Mangano of 1506 Taylor street, a gangster, and William Vogel, 120 North Longcommon road, Riverside, collided and one struck the child. The coroner's jury could not determine who was at fault or which car caused Jennie's death.

Both men had previously been charged with manslaughter and will have a hearing in the Felony court tomorrow.

Col. Walter Fisher, 3959 Jackson boulevard, commander of the 106th calvary, Illinois National Guard, and Thomas Breen, 1551 West 83d street, an insurance agent, were injured early this morning when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a disabled bus of the Chicago Motor Coach company, parked at Lake Shore drive and Deming place. Breen suffered a skull fracture and Col. Fisher a broken leg. They were taken to the Columbus Memorial hospital. Walter Minol, 6219 Broadway, driver of the car, escaped injury.

UNION WORKERS ACCEPT CUT TO KEEP JOB GOING

Brickmakers Sign for 30% Slash.

BY AL CHASE.

Sixty-five brickmakers, members of the Brick and Clay Workers union, yesterday accepted a cut in their wages from a former union scale of 82 cents to $1.05 an hour down to 58 to 75 cents an hour for making soft tile. The men are all employed at the Tuthill brickyards, at 135th street, in Blue Island, and accepted the reduction when their employer told them he couldn't compete with downstate nonunion yards in supplying tile for the new postoffice. They will begin work under the new scale next Monday and continue for five months.

FRANK KASTEN.

Difference in Scales.

"The new schedule, while it's about 30 per cent lower than the former union scale, is about 30 per cent higher than is paid at Hobart and St. Ann's by tile manufacturers for non-union labor," said Frank Kasten, president of the Brick and Clay Workers union, and also mayor of Blue Island.

"It was only by reducing the wage schedule that Tuthill was able to continue to compete with the downstate manufacturers. We decided to go along with him and have accepted the reduction. With this cut and the difference in freight rates Tuthill is able to continue making tile for the postoffice."

In other words, it is pointed out that unless the union had made this concession Tuthill would have been forced to discontinue making the non-load bearing tile for the federal job. This is the only soft tile manufacturing plant operating in the Chicago area.

Let Contract for Church.

The general contract has been awarded to Peter Kalinak for the erection of the first unit of St. Peter and St. Paul's Roman Catholic church. Work has started at 2408-10 West 53d street, from plans by Joseph Bednarik, architect. It will have an auditorium seating 350. Later on a school and parish house are contemplated.

The Stanford Williams Co., clothing manufacturer, has leased the corner store and entire second and third floors of the building at 418 South Wells street, containing 21,000 square feet, at a reported rental of approximately $17,000 annually. The corner store will be used for a wholesale display room. Arthur Rubloff & Co. were brokers.

• Doctors Say Coated Tongue • Comes From Poisons •

LOOK OUT! That coated tongue means poisons inside you.

© 1932, Standard Brands Incorporated

Clean up that TONGUE!

Fleischmann's Yeast softens excess wastes in your body so that they are more easily passed off. It stimulates sluggish intestines to normal action.

In addition, it is rich in health-giving vitamins B and G and the "sunshine" vitamin D—elements our usual foods so often lack. It helps to balance our daily diet.

If you would keep your system clean and free of the poisons that lead to coated tongue, bad breath, headaches and worse ills, just eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day—regularly!

You can get it at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains, and directions are on the label. Why not see what it will do in your own case?

GREEN ASKS MEN TO HELP REVIVE COAL INDUSTRY

Urges Profit for Miners and Operators.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today asked the United Mine Workers of America at the opening session of its thirty-second biennial convention here to become a stabilizing force for economic well being.

Green, former international secretary-treasurer of the miners' union, brought cheers when he urged establishment of a wage scale that would raise the standard of living and at the same time provide a profit for coal operators. In formal opening speeches, union leaders united in demanding rehabilitation of the coal mining industry. The report of the committee on rules and procedure was adopted by the convention by a large majority.

Cure for Economic Ills.

A six hour day with a five day week and permanent regulation of bituminous coal mining by a federal coal commission was proposed as a "cure-all" for economic ills of the mining industry by international officers in a report signed by John L. Lewis, president; Philip Murray, vice president, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer.

Bituminous coal mining was cited as the "horrible example" of the result of wage cutting, "cut throat" competition, destruction of employé purchasing power, company profits and capital assets.

"During the last ten years the per man production of bituminous coal miners has increased 20 per cent," the report said. "This increased production has resulted in decreased earnings for coal miners and created a competitive situation that has eliminated all profits for the coal companies and in addition has thrown more than 200,000 miners out of employment."

Call for Shorter Day.

Assertions were made that with both the shorter day and week that 500,000 miners would receive 230 to 250 days working time, which would give permanently employed miners an increase of from 75 to 150 working days each year.

The second proposal, advocating federal regulation of bituminous coal mining, indorsed the bill introduced in the senate by Senator James J. Davis, Pennsylvania, which provides for a federal coal commission.

The report set out that the production of bituminous coal in 1931 was 378,000,000 tons, or a decrease of 89,000,000 tons from the 1930 production. This is the lowest volume of production since 1909, the report said.

In regard to the cost of coal in relation to manufactured products, the report pointed out that an arbitrary price of $2 a ton would mean the re-establishment of 2,500,000 persons in the consuming class for manufactured products, while the continuation of $1.50 a ton basis would mean "continued pauperization of the industry," while the difference in the cost of the manufactured articles is only .13 of 1 per cent.

INQUEST LEAVES CLEANING RACKET DEATH UNSOLVED

Testimony of witnesses and police at the resumption of the inquest yesterday into the death of Benjamin Rosenberg, independent cleaner and dyer, who was shot to death in Maywood on Jan. 11, failed to bring out any additional clews to the murder. As a result the coroner's jury returned the customary verdict in such cases of murder by persons unknown. Coroner Frank J. Walsh conducted the hearing at the county morgue.

The witnesses included officials of the Cleaners and Dyers' Institute, union officers, and hoodlums. Harry Alpert, head of the International Cleaners and Dyers, 2812 South State street, testified that he was told to discharge Rosenberg by James P. Gorman, president of the cleaners and dyers' union, presumably because of Rosenberg's activity in the overall cleaning business. Gorman, on the stand, denied he had asked Rosenberg's dismissal.

Dr. Benpamin P. Squires, czar of the Cleans and Dyers' institute, testified he had not known Rosenberg nor of any trouble brewing in the overall business. Philip Mangano and Louis Clementi, Capone hoodlums, denied they had had any trouble with Rosenberg. Shortly after the murder they were arrested as suspects, but were released.

JESUITS BANNED BY SPAIN WILL BE SENT TO U. S.

Older Members Will Go to Holland and Belgium.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 26.—Members of the Society of Jesus, who have been forced to give up their homes in Spain by the republic's degree dissolving the order, will be sent to the United States, Holland and Belgium, according to provisions made by the curia of the Jesuit order in Rome. Belgium and Holland are the only remaining countries in Europe which admits the Jesuits.

In anticipation of the order plans were made some time ago by Father Wladimir Ledochowski, general of the order. These plans were approved by the pontiff at an audience granted Father Ledochowski.

It is planned to send the younger Jesuits to the United States and South American countries, while the older ones and those in precarious health will be received by the various Jesuit establishments in Holland and Belgium. Members of the order who are pursuing scientific studies will be placed in scientific institutions to permit them to continue their work.

Fabulous Wealth Denied.

Vatican circles deny the Spanish Jesuits are possessed of fabulous wealth. According to figures announced here, the Jesuits in Spain number about 3,000, and possess about 200 different houses.

The Jesuit order has no fear over the confiscation of its archives, according to Vatican circles. Vatican authorities have been denying for some time past that the Spanish Jesuits have gradually been removing their archives to Rome. The only records sent out of Spain, they said, were large collections of documents on the history of the order. These now repose in a building in Rome which enjoys diplomatic immunity under the Lateran treaty.

Spain Drafts New Church Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 26.—All Spanish cardinals, archbishops and bishops will be obliged to take an oath of allegiance to the Spanish republic under the terms of a new law regulating relations between church and state and which is now being drafted. The oath must be taken within two months of the publication of the law.

Under the new law all religious creeds will have the liberty to practice in Spain and will enjoy the same rights and will be under the same obligations as the Catholic church. The churches will be free to name their appointees for ecclesiastical posts, but the government reserves the right to veto any appointee if the latter is suspected of meddling in politics. Religious services will be allowed in military barracks, ships, hospitals, prisons and other public institutions, but the attendance cannot be compulsory.

ROBINS APPEAR HERE; FREEZING IN CALIFORNIA

Two robins appeared yesterday in the back yard of the home of Michael F. McCormack, 33 South Mason avenue. When Mrs. McCormack fed them she was rewarded by a song. They stayed in her yard most of the day, she said.

Chicago continued to have mild temperatures which turned flurries of snow into a drizzle yesterday. Unsettled weather with rain or snow probable was the forecast for today. Southern California reported more subfreezing temperatures. Nebraska was under a heavy blanket of snow yesterday.

BOND RAISED BY JUDGE.

Judge Graber yesterday raised the bond of Fred Colhardt, 25 years old, 1036 East 47th street, from $1,000 to $7,500 when he was informed that a girl was in a critical condition as a result of taking a drug given her by Colhardt.

WRIGLEY'S SON TO CARRY ON DREAM OF WINNER

Prosit Password in Jolly Old Flatbush.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—Having acquired Hack Wilson for their ball club, the citizens of Brooklyn are looking forward to elaborate inauguration ceremonies on the occasion of his visit to Flatbush next week to sign his contract to play with the daffiness boys.

Already, the Brooklyn breweries, which have been operating on a reduced schedule of 24 hours a day because of the depression, have been placed on a schedule of 48 hours a day to meet the demand for ceremonial brew with which to lubricate the festivities.

Just Doubled Their Staffs.

The brewers were able to do this merely by doubling their staffs of malsters, hopsters, tapsters, bungsters and gangsters, and diplomatic negotiations have begun looking toward the temporary suspension of the Brooklyn protective tariff against New York beer to guard against an embarrassing lack on inauguration day.

Confidence is felt that in his new surroundings Mr. Wilson will be able to resume the production of home runs and win a pennant for the daffiness boys in 1932. The citizens of Brooklyn are proud of their brew and insist that Wilson's slump last year never would have occurred if he had based on Flatbush instead of Chicago, where the brew is of an inferior quality.

There seems to be a little dispute just now regarding the order of the march in the inaugural parade to Ebbets field. Mr. Wilson, himself, will ride in solitary state on a brewery truck, which, of course, will be emblazoned with the name of a milk company, according to the local law, but this truck will be placed well back from the head of the procession, for dramatic suspense.

Land Forces Have Edge.

The misunderstanding has to do with the desire of the prohibition agents and the sea forces to lead the parade. However, Brooklyn, like the British isles, is very insular, with a slogan, "Buy Brooklyn," and imports very little merchandise from foreign breweries. Therefore, it seems likely thta the land forces will be placed at the head of the parade, marching with their tin cups, under a banner bearing their corps motto: "See me."

Next in line, according to the tentative arrangements, will come Mr. Abe [Singletooth] Yeager, the old press agent for Humbert Fugazy's series of bigger and better superarenas which would have housed championship prize fights, airplane meets, international yacht races, Florida hurricanes, Johnstown floods and world wars all under one roof but for one flaw in Mr. Fugazy's nature. This flaw was Mr. Fugazy's forgetfulness.

Mr. Fugazy Forgetful.

He was always forgetting where his site was supposed to be and consequently never showed up for any of the numerous ground breaking ceremonies which Mr. Yeager publicized in the newspapers. Several times he showed up at other people's vacant lots and broke the wrong ground, but of course that did not count and once he broke ground in Central park, only to be driven off by a policeman who said he could not build an arena there without an o. k. from the district leader.

Mr. Yeager, at last reports, was no longer press agent for Mr. Fugazy, but was managing a lady prize fighter, and hurling challenges to any lady in the world to meet his lady.

She's a Fighting Fool.

"My lady is just a fighting fool," Mr. Yeager insisted, "but outside the ring you would never take her for a fighter at all. She has the sweetest little husband at home that you ever saw and treats him gently at all times. And yet last week she fought a big, fat blond at a stag party over in Newark and knocked her bowlegged with a punch."

Aside from the intense Brooklynness, Mr. Yeager has another qualification which clearly entitles him to an advanced position in the Hack Wilson inauguration ceremonies. With his one tooth, Mr. Yeager has been subsisting on a liquid diet for some years and he is a living, healthy testimonial to the brews of Brooklyn, which require no chewing.

Mr. Fugazy also will march in a distinguished position, carrying a large roll of blueprints borrowed from the Empire State building and his gilded spade. Arriving at the ball yard, he will break ground in the outfield where Mr. Wilson will play ball next summer, and plant a row of hops.

To Hold Beer Drinking Meet.

The foremost beer consumers of the daffiness boys will then engage in a beer drinking contest, some of them from scratch, others with handicaps ranging from one pail to one-half barrel, according to their official ratings and, as the crowning feat, Mr. Wilson will dive into a vat of beer and drink himself out, against time.

Following this the name of the daffiness boys will be formally changed from the Robins to the Tanks. The public ceremonies concluded, the official party will then repair to a beer store and drink some beer.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The cue wizardry of the Schaefers settled down like a Limehouse fog yesterday and almost completely enveloped the world's three cushion tournament when young Jake Schaefer overwhelmed Bud Westhus of St. Louis.

Beating Westhus has become somewhat of a habit with most of the players, so Schaefer's accomplishment in this respect wasn't anything out of the ordinary, but when he achieved it by a score of 50 to 23 in 31 innings that was something else again.

It was the shortest and the most scientifically played game of the tournament. It thoroughly aroused the three cushion followers, of whom there was a houseful in the little amphitheater at Mussey's on South Wabash avenue, and they cheered young Jake roundly as he clicked off the deciding point.

Runs 10 to Win.

Young Jake's finish was dramatic. An unfinished run of ten gave him his 50th point. He was managing the balls as if he might have made them run errands for him the rest of the afternoon.

Young Jake did everything possible to bewilder his three cushion rivals who were scattered through the audience. He didn't play three cushions as three cushions are usually played.

He played them as Jake Schaefer would play them; played them perfectly and pointed his cue in this and that direction, and made the balls stop where he indicated they should stop. He scored with one of his famous masse follow shots for his 31st point. It was the only masse shot attempted to date in the title competition.

Westhus Played Well.

While all this was taking place, Westhus was playing fine billiards. He was turning in a game that would have beaten about all of the other players in the meet. But Schaefer, the master, never faltered. He scored in each of the first six innings and took a lead of 11 to 7. From then until the finish he kept increasing his advantage.

Schaefer didn't get away to a good start in the tournament. Three cushions had him puzzled in his first three games. He played in just about the same manner as that of the other three cushion stars. But in his last two games he has made 100 points in 71 innings and he has the best average of the tournament with 224 points in 217 innings.

Reiselt, Thurnblad Tie.

Keeping step with Schaefer in the title drive were Gus Copulos of Eugene, Ore.; Frank Scoville of Buffalo, and Art Thurnblad of Chicago, the world's champion.

Thurnblad and Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia are tied for the lead. Each has won four games and lost one. Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago is in second place, a game behind the two leaders. Scoville is in third place. Schaefer and Copulos are tied for fourth and in their last three games they have played the best billiards of the tournament.

Johnny Layton's defeat at the hands of Scoville last night, 50 to 37, in 46 innings, was a sad blow to Layton, who had held the championship more times than any other man. It was his third defeat of the tournament. The billiard world will have to turn upside down if he is to regain the title this year.

Thurnblad Wins Easily.

Thurnblad's victory, 50 to 32, in 51 innings, over Denton was one sided all the way. The champion was never in better stroke and the railbirds came to the conclusion last night that if the sensational Schaefer is to be beaten in the final drive for the crown, Thurnblad is the man to do it.

ONE TITLE BOUT HERE NOT ENOUGH FOR BROUILLARD

Signs to Fight Again at Stadium in 90 Days.

Chicago fans last night were assured of another world's welterweight championship bout within 90 days after the ten round title fight between Lou Brouillard, Worcester, Mass., the champion, and Jackie Fields, Chicago, at Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Brouillard signed an agreement yesterday to meet a leading challenger for the championship here if he is victorious over Fields. The champion always has stipulated in fight contracts that if he is defeated in a bout his conqueror must give him a return match within three months.

Both Finish Training.

Thus, if either Brouillard or Fields is the winner of tomorrow's combat the next welterweight title bout will be decided in Chicago. If the present champion defeats Fields, Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, said, he will be matched with either Billy Petrolle or Jimmy McLarnin. Petrolle already has agreed to the contest. But if the Chicago challenger whips Brouillard a return encounter between them is inevitable.

Both Brouillard and Fields finished boxing yesterday. Their respective trainers said the hands of the fighters were in good condition and they will be able to punch as hard as ever. Neither will have any trouble making the weight of 147 pounds, but each will engage in his final workout this afternoon with limbering up exercises.

Jones Meets Bozo.

Fans are divided as to who will win the light heavyweight championship tournament bout between Billy Jones of Philadelphia and Battling Bozo, Birmingham, Ala. Both men are boxers and neither has a hard punch. As a result, their bout is expected to go the full distance of ten rounds. Another 175 pound tourney contest on the card brings together two Buffalo battlers, Lou Scozza and George Nichols.

The opening ten round match brings together Franta Nekolny, European welterweight champion, and Jackie Brady of Syracuse, N. Y. Nekolny is making his first start in Chicago, but he fought three times in New York, knocking out Andy Saviola, losing to Eddie Ran, and defeating Phil Rafferty. In Brady he will receive a real test, since the Syracuse battler recently held King Tut to a ten round draw.

FALCONS BATTLE HAWKS FOR 2D PLACE TONIGHT

Hockey Results

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
New York Americans, 3; Montreal Canadiens, 2.
Montreal Maroons, 4; Boston, 3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
St. Louis, 3; Buffalo, 1.

The Detroit Falcons, who are trailing the Blackhawks by only one game, will play Chicago's crippled team at the Stadium tonight. Despite injuries the Hawks were successful on their road trip, winning two games and tying one.

The Blackhawks' slender hold on second place in the American division of the National Hockey league was gained after a two month struggle with the Boston Bruins. The slipping Bruins have dropped out of the second place battle but Detroit is a new threat, being only two points behind the Hawks.

Prospects of the Blackhawks tightening their hold on second place appear bright, inasmuch as the Falcons have not been able to win at the Stadium this season.

BLACKHAWKS.		FALCONS.
Gardiner	G	Connell
Abel	L. D.	Young
Graham	R. D.	Noble
Lowrey	C	Goodfellow
Ingram	R. W.	Aurie
Thompson	L. W.	Kilrea

Sports World Loses True Friend in Death of Wrigley

The world of sport lost a warm friend yesterday in the death of William Wrigley Jr. Leaders in all branches of sport were shocked and deeply grieved over the passing of a man so vitally interested in the advancement of athletics. Tributes of the nation's sports leaders follow:

K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball—William Wrigley Jr. was generously endowed with common sense, integrity, courage and energy. This combination of qualities enabled him to travel far in the commercial world and made him an influential factor in everything relating to outdoor activity. His personal fiber made strong and enduring friendships and his passing is a serious blow, particularly at this time.

J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the White Sox—I have lost a personal friend and baseball a great leader. Mr. Wrigley was always in the forefront of progress in sport, and his high standards and love of baseball did much to elevate the game. As a club owner his personal contact with his players always made for good feeling on the club, and he came to be universally known and admired for his love of clean sport.

Sheldon Clark, sportsman—I am greatly shocked to hear of Mr. Wrigley's death. He was Chicago's most beloved citizen. His passing will cause sadness to thousands of Chicagoans. His many kindnesses and constructive work will not be forgotten by future generations.

George Getz, boxing commissioner—I am greatly shocked at the death of Mr. Wrigley. He was one of my oldest and closest friends, and his loss is a deep personal one. He will be missed by everybody connected with baseball, for he was one of the foremost sportsmen in the game.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission—William Wrigley Jr., one of Chicago's leading citizens and outstanding sportsmen, has "stolen home" to his eternal rest. Noted for his bountiful charity, his love for Chicago and a financial genius that inspired his every endeavor, his life's record is placed on Chicago's honor roll.

William Harridge, president of the American league—Naturally, the news of Mr. Wrigley's death is a tremendous shock to me. My sympathies not only go to Mr. Wrigley's family, but also to the National league, as he was one of the main factors in its success. Mr. Wrigley was a thorough sportsman in every way and a most valued member of the family of organized baseball. As president of the American league I wish to say we were proud to have him as a rival. Chicago will miss him, as he was one of its most progressive citizens.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, president of the Blackhawks—Mr. Wrigley's death is a great shock to me, and it means a tremendous loss both to the world of clean sport and to business. He was a great credit to both.

John Heydler, president of the National league—Mr. Wrigley's death is a great shock. I knew him as a fine sportsman, always optimistic and charitable. He exerted a fine influence on baseball, and his resources were responsible for building up the Cubs. His loss will be felt by thousands of friends of baseball as well as by the public at large. His influence, his personality, his counsel, his splendid sportsmanship, and his friendship meant more for the game than words can tell. He was a big man and he helped baseball in a big way.

William Veeck, president of the Cubs—It's a terrible shock; it's like losing a parent. Mr. Wrigley was the finest man that ever lived.

Henry Edwards, service bureau of the American league—Mr. Wrigley's counsel at the joint sessions of the two major leagues always has been eagerly sought and greatly valued. His loss to organized baseball will be a severe one.

Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium—Mr. Wrigley's passing will be a blow to every lover of sport in Chicago. As a baseball magnate, it has always been my opinion he was the outstanding sportsman of them all, and the way he built up the game in his city was a great boon to all sports. He always seemed to place more emphasis on clean sport than he did on the money to be made from baseball.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cubs—I've worked for a lot of wonderful fellows in baseball, but I admired Mr. Wrigley more than any of my other employers.

Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union—William Wrigley Jr. was a warm personal supporter of all forms of athletics. He always could be counted upon in any project for the betterment of sports, not only as a donor of money, but, what is more important, for his personal enthusiasm and help. He was one of the great leaders of the nation who believed in sports as a healthy pastime and as wholesome entertainment.

Hazen Cuyler, Cubs outfielder—Mr. Wrigley was a great fellow and spent many hours with his players. His loss will greatly change the atmosphere of the club, for he was one of the finest employers I ever knew.

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox—I am sincerely sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Wrigley. I knew him well and it grieves me to know that baseball and the world has lost such a dynamic and outstanding character. He participated in every-

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Chicago National league baseball team, died without attaining the goal closest to his heart—a world championship ball team. Pride, partly personal and partly civic, set him to work on the building of a Cub team which would dominate the baseball world, but he came close only once, in the world series of 1929.

"Baseball is a funny business," became a stock remark with him after a few year as a club owner had taught him its uncertainties and disappointments. With the millions at his command he could buy about everything he wished for. That is, all except one. That was a world championship ball team. That's why he always exclaimed, somewhat sorrowfully, that baseball is a funny business.

It was his wish, often expressed, that after his death his son, Philip K. Wrigley, should conduct the club on the same high plane. That the son will do so, for several years at least, appears certain.

"Mr. Wrigley intends to retain ownership of the Cubs," a dispatch quoted his secretary, I. A. Kirkman, as saying. "He will retain William Veeck as president of the club and will exercise control to the same extent his father did."

Paid Liberal Salaries.

Although he failed in his ambition to own a winner, Mr. Wrigley contributed more to the game of baseball than any owner since those who pioneered to start it on the right track.

Cub players are paid liberal salaries. They are housed in the best hotels in the country. Their dressing quarters at the park are models for spaciousness and cleanliness. Their spring training at Catalina island, which Mr. Wrigley owned, is conducted on a field which is a far cry from some of the rock piles which a few big league clubs term "training camps."

Mr. Wrigley made intimate friends of all his players, the stars and the mediocres alike. All in all, he brought about conditions that made almost every athlete in the league long for transfer to the Cubs.

There was only one thing the late Cub chief refused to condone. That was a persistent disregard of training rules. It was Mr. Wrigley, not former Manager Joe McCarthy as generally believed, who summarily dismissed Pitcher Grover Cleveland Alexander for the waiver price of $7,500. It was Mr. Wrigley's order that moved Hack Wilson off the Cub roster last December.

And it was Mr. Wrigley who, when he thought the team had got beyond the control of Joe McCarthy, defied the popular admiration for the Cubs' manager, by turning the job over to Rogers Hornsby.

Entered Baseball in 1915.

Mr. Wrigley first became interested in baseball in 1915 when the Federal league went out of existence. According to the peace terms, the Cubs, then owned by the late Charles W. Murphy, were to be absorbed by the Chicago Federal league backers, the team to remain in the National league. Mr. Wrigley, with others, including J. Ogden Armour, gave financial support to Charles Weeghman, who had been president of the local Feds and who remained for three years as head of the new Cubs.

Within a few years Mr. Wrigley developed such a fondness for baseball that he set about purchasing stock until he became the principal owner. His last large block was purchased from A. D. Lasker. At his death he was supposed to have owned about 70 per cent of the club. The next largest stockholders, in their order, are William Walker, the Spielman estate, and Philip K. Wrigley.

One of Mr. Wrigley's first moves after he decided to take his baseball seriously was to suggest that the team train in California. Pasadena was selected as a camp site. Mr. Wrigley's winter home—a palatial marble structure on Orange Grove avenue—was nearby. This made it easy for him to pay daily visits to the training field.

Typical of Mr. Wrigley.

The purchase of his Pasadena home was followed by an incident typical of the man. Mrs. Wrigley was con-

Capt. Bill Haarlow, Bowen forward, ended his high school basketball career yesterday by establishing a new individual scoring record as the Bowen heavyweight quintet overwhelmed Morgan Park, 64 to 19, in a south section Chicago Public High School league game at Bowen's gymnasium.

Haarlow, who will be among the league's outstanding athletes to be graduated Friday, sank 20 baskets and 11 free throws to lead Bowen to its second consecutive victory. It was Morgan Park's second league defeat of the season.

Leads Two Years.

One of Bowen's greatest athletes, having also been captain of the baseball, golf, and fencing squads, Haarlow has led the league's high scorers in single games for two years. Last year he collected 38 points when Bowen defeated Parker.

Two other regular members of Bowen's squad also played their last games yesterday. They are: Orr, center, and Weinberg, guard. Orr scored a basket and a free throw, while Weinberg sank two field goals. Bowen held a 38 to 8 advantage at the half and at the end of the third period led, 51 to 16.

Roosevelt's lightweight team hung up its third north section triumph by defeating Lake View, 35 to 28, on the latter's floor. Dry, playing at forward, led the victors, scoring three baskets and three free throws. Lake View led, 21 to 16, at half time.

Lane Tech Wins.

In another north division lightweight contest Lane Tech scored three points in an overtime period to whip Schurz, 18 to 15. Schflitowski and Sommers gathered the winning points. It was Lane's third league triumph.

Austin and Tuley lightweight teams were victors in west section contests. Austin, led by Schneider, defeated McKinley, 37 to 20, and Tuley triumphed over Harrison, 39 to 14, for its second league victory.

You're Wrong, Sir, Sparrows Aren't Vandals

BY BOB BECKER.

At last the lowly English sparrow has a real champion. This sassy little gamin has been the target of many verbal attacks lately. We have heard from dozens of bird fans who are down on the sparrow.

But now comes Samuel A. Harper, author of "Twelve Months with the Birds and the Poets," to champion the cause of the little Britisher. His arguments in behalf of the sparrow are as follows:

"At the outset I agree with Meltje Blanchan, who says 'Indeed a great deal of nonsense is talked about the sparrows driving away other birds. . . . The sparrows are prepared to live while others would starve. They kill no other birds.'

"I feel," continues Mr. Harper, "that there are at least two very substantial reasons why extermination of the English sparrow should not be advocated. First, the grave danger that uninformed persons would kill a large number of other useful species of sparrows by mistake, and second, because the English sparrow is extremely useful in certain sections of the country by reason of its feeding habits.

"As to their destructiveness, they certainly are no worse than some of our favorite home birds. Robins often destroy cherry, olive and other fruit crops, and the bluejays and the blackbirds are quite as destructive as the English sparrow.

"Much more good would be accomplished if we directed our fight against the arch enemy of all birds, the house cats, which many people allow to roam at will, each killing at least fifty birds in the course of every year."

I. C. RAILROAD DELAYS ACTION ON PREFERRED

Seen Waiting Result of Wage Parley.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Whether the Illinois Central railroad will maintain dividends on its preferred stock is likely to depend on the outcome of the wage reduction conference in Chicago. The directors of the railroad were scheduled to take action on the dividend yesterday, but the meeting lacked a quorum and was adjourned to Feb. 9. The semi-annual dividend of $3 on the 6 per cent preferred stock regularly is payable on March 1.

The Illinois Central discontinued dividends on its common stock last October, thereby terminating an unbroken dividend record extending for almost 75 years. The last payment on the common stock was $1 a share, the annual rate having been reduced successively from $7 to $4 a share.

If the railroad maintains its preferred dividend next month it will be paid out of surplus. The preliminary report for last year was made public yesterday. It showed a net loss of $3,582,112 for 1931 after all charges, compared with net income of $9,289,590 for 1930, which was equivalent to $6.01 a share on the common stock after preferred dividend requirements.

Operating revenues last year were $166,788,193, a decline of $31,667,710 from 1930, while operating expenses totaled $94,797,653, a decrease of $19,015,543. Net railway operating income was $11,847,714, or just about half as much as for 1930. December produced net operating income of $1,530,578, a decline of $1,271,360 from December, 1930.

Milwaukee Is Hit.

Another western railroad to suffer severely from conditions last year is the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific. Its net operating income was $8,334,406, a decline of $7,620,142 from 1930. Gross operating revenues were $111,423,772, a decrease of $31,145,860. However, the rate of decline was less toward the end of the year, as net operating income for December was $594,231, compared with $833,475 in December, 1930. Gross operating revenues last month totaled $7,698,436, compared with $9,927,508 for December, 1930.

A number of other railroads made preliminary reports for 1931. The New York, New Haven and Hartford had earnings of $3.04 a share on the common, compared with $7.33 a share in 1930.

Net income of Norfolk and Western was equal to $14.39 a share on the common after preferred dividends, compared with $21.96 a share in the preceding year.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas earnings were equal to $1.01 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock, compared with $3.01 a share on the common after preferred dividends in 1930.

Virginian Earnings.

Earnings of Virginian railway were equal to $5.05 a share on the common after preferred dividends, compared with $8.88 a share in 1930.

The St. Louis-San Francisco had a net loss compared with earnings of $4.07 a share on the common after preferred dividends in 1930.

Reports from the first twenty-four railroads for December show net railway operating income of approximately $10,735,000, or 46.1 per cent lower than the $19,938,000 reported by the same carriers for the corresponding months of 1930.

For the full year 1931 these same carriers report net railway operating income of about $179,125,000, compared with $287,274,000 in 1930, a decrease of 37.6 per cent.

CAR LOADINGS GAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on Jan. 16 totaled 573,276 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today. This was an increase of 772 cars above the preceding week, but a reduction of 118,477 cars below the corresponding week in 1931 and 273,879 cars under the same period two years ago.

Cut Dividend of U. S. Steel to 50 Cents

New York, Jan. 26.—In announcing a reduction today in the quarterly dividend rate on common stock from $1 to 50 cents, the United States Steel corporation made public its income report for the fourth quarter of 1931 showing a deficit of $15,033,414 after all dividend requirements and a total deficit of $49,236,881 for the full year.

At the same time the directors virtually served notice on stockholders that the common dividend will not be continued unless there is an improvement in earnings. The dividend had previously been reduced to a $4 annual basis from the old rate of $7 yearly.

The income account, while close to Wall street expectations, reveals that the results in 1931 and in the last three months of the year were the most unsatisfactory in the thirty-one years of the corporation's history.

Smallest in Sixteen Years.

The payment on common stock, which is at the rate of $2 a year as compared with $4 formerly, is the smallest that stockholders have received in sixteen years—or since the first quarter of 1916, when dividends were resumed after a hiatus of two years during which nothing was paid on common. The last time that the corporation paid 50 cents a share, or one-half of 1 per cent on $100 par value, was in December, 1914.

Simultaneously with the dividend announcement, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, announced that W. J. Filbert, for many years comptroller of the corporation, has been made vice president of the committee. He will assist Mr. Taylor in supervising the fiscal affairs of the corporation. H. L. Austin, long in the service of the corporation, has been appointed comptroller and A. W. Vogt has been made senior assistant comptroller. The board took no action today toward selecting a successor to James A. Farrell, who recently announced his intention of retiring as president in April.

Today's dividend action broke a tension which has lasted several days in Wall street and which, during the last two days, has kept the stock market almost motionless.

Total Net Is $3,970,920.

Total net earnings after all expenses in 1931 were $3,970,920, equal to $3.60 per share of preferred stock, on which dividends of $7 were paid, as compared with $9.11 a share on common after preferred dividends in 1930, when net was $23,083,791. Total earnings for the full year 1931 were $46,434,371, as compared with $157,755,791 in 1930 and $265,776,629 in 1929.

The statement for the fourth quarter of 1931 includes an item of special income amounting to $4,997,961, which arose from the sale of a public utility subsidiary of the Steel corporation. The special income allocated over the year amounted to $19,319,893.

The intimation that dividends on common stock will not be paid three months from now unless business expands was contained in the following statement by Mr. Taylor:

"During the year 1931, as the published figures show, nothing was earned on the common shares, the total distribution in 1931 [approximately $43,500,000] of dividends upon such shares having been taken from surplus. It is manifest that continuance of dividends upon its common stock must depend upon an improvement in the corporation's volume of business and earnings."

Down $1.75 a Share.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—United States Steel common stock sold down more than $2.50 below the Wall street close on the market here and then recovered nearly $1 today, following the slashing of the dividend in half. The closing sale was at $40—down $1.75 from the last sale in New York. Other stocks were little disturbed by Steel's decline.

INLAND CO. CUTS RATE

Directors of the Inland Steel company yesterday reduced the annual dividend rate from $2 to $1 a share by declaring a quarterly payment of 25 cents, compared with 50 cents previously paid. At the same time the annual report was issued showing net profit of $1,263,599 for 1931, which was equivalent to $1.05 a share. Net profit for 1930 was $6,498,966, or $5.42 a share. The indicated net loss for the quarter ended Dec. 31 was $233,196, against a net profit of $90,166, or 8c a share, in the first quarter of 1930.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, including subsidiaries, for the year 1931 had a net loss of $2,283,459 after interest, depreciation, and depletion. This compares with net profit in 1930 of $9,093,287, equal, after dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock, to $8.64 a share on 516,320 shares of common. Profit and loss surplus declined during the year from $74,749,325 to $67,291,440.

Net loss for the December quarter was $1,549,948, against net loss in the preceding quarter of $934,352 and net profit of $283,754, or 48 cents a share on the preferred stock, in the final quarter of the previous year.

COTTON BELT LIENS LEAD RAILWAY BONDS IN MODERATE UPTURN

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Under the stimulus of a somewhat sensational rise in St. Louis Southwestern railway bonds transportation loans turned upward today. The Southwestern, or "Cotton Belt," liens gained from 13⅞ to 19 points, and various other low priced carrier mortgages closed with moderate advances, although reacting from their top prices of the day.

The flurry in "Cotton Belt" followed a decision by the interstate commerce commission permitting the Southern Pacific to acquire control of this line. The loans of other roads were aided by prospects of early relief from the new Reconstruction Finance corporation and also hope that the wage reduction conference in Chicago would be concluded satisfactorily. Southern Pacific did not trail the "Cotton Belt," but closed steady.

At the same time United States government obligations were in demand at moderately higher prices.

The foreign list was generally firm. German government 5½s and 7s were up from 1¾ to 2½ points in heavy trading. Canadian bonds were firm, as were those of Argentina, Great Britain, Italy, and Japan.

GOV'T DEFICIT PAST 1½ BILLION DOLLAR MARK

May Halt Decline by End of June.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The government's loss on its financial operations from last July 1 to Jan. 23 passed the one and a half billion dollar mark on the latter date. At the close of business on Jan. 23 the treasury's statement—issued today—showed that the government had collected from all sources $1,234,738,582 and had spent $2,725,814,832, leaving it with a deficit of $1,501,076,250.

The deficit for the six months and 23 days of the 1932 fiscal year was approximately $600,000,000 more than for the entire preceding fiscal year, when it amounted to $903,000,000.

The billion and a half deficit, however, was expected to increase as the remaining five months and eight days of the fiscal year passed and be at least $2,200,000,000 on next June 30.

Income Tax Slumps.

If the treasury's tax program is adopted by congress its $900,000,000 more income a year is expected to halt the deficit soon after it passes the $2,000,000,000 mark. Unless, however, congress raises that amount the deficit is expected to soar above the figure set by treasury estimates.

Income tax has caused the chief decrease in revenue, dropping from $1,129,791,945 a year ago to $630,567,579 this year. Miscellaneous internal revenue decreased $25,000,000 to $301,000,000, while customs duties dropped from $222,000,000 a year ago to $219,000,000 this year.

Strenuous efforts are being made in congress to reduce expenditures to aid in meeting the situation.

Pares Down Budget.

The budget bureau has pared estimated millions below those for last year and in turn the house appropriations committee has trimmed the amounts called for in the money bills thus far reported.

It slashed the $175,000,000 agriculture department supply bill by $10,000,000 and the interior department supply measure by $6,000,000.

The financial situation caused the house naval committee to agree that a $616,000,000 naval bill would not be pressed for action at this term.

Mutual Banks Hold Savings of 10 Billions

The trend of savings continues upward, despite the present condition of industry and the extent of unemployment. Figures just made public by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks show that total deposits in mutual institutions reached the record total on Jan. 1 of $10,030,014,385, while total assets likewise reached the record figure of $11,206,875,737, providing $1,123,253,973 of reserve to assure the safety of deposits.

Total figures for Jan. 1 reached record proportions in almost every instance, although the year's results were not uniform in all sections. Of the eighteen states having mutual savings banks there were five that experienced slight recessions in deposits. The other thirteen registered gains. Thus the total increase in deposits for 1931 was $565,281,893 and a very considerable part of that increase was represented by the gain in New York savings banks, which amounted to $466,348,132.

Results Nearly Identical.

The year 1929 is usually thought of as part of the "boom period," because the crash in market values did not come until the last quarter. And 1931 may be definitely placed in the worst phase of the depression. Yet the total increase of mutual savings bank deposits in 1929 was only $65,236,264, or $12,000,000 more than the increase in the final six months of 1931. For the whole year of 1931 the gain in deposits was but $27,000,000 below 1930, when the entire gain represented $592,607,440. The two years produced almost identical results.

Savings bankers emphasized that the increase in deposits should not overshadow the gain in depositors, the increase of 584,179 indicating that a larger number of people than ever before were trying to assure their independence. This increase brought the total of depositors to 13,359,671, the greatest number recorded in more than a hundred years of operation of the mutual savings banks. As in the case of deposits, New York provided the largest proportion of new savers last year—490,792.

Cites Average Accounts.

While deposits, depositors, and assets were increasing, the average account also rose to $750.77 from $740.85 a year ago, but decreased slightly from the average on July 1 of $753.56. New York had the high average of $855.38. Rhode Island came next with $819.53, and Indiana followed with $779.04.

Perhaps the most satisfactory of these results was the gain in surplus to $11,123,253,973, also a record figure and an increase of almost $39,000,000 for the year, it is stated. New York again led, its gain being $27,992,587. There was a small decline in the average ratio of surplus to deposits from 11.5 to 11.2 per cent. In this connection Delaware showed the highest ratio, 17.1 per cent, followed by Indiana with 13.9 per cent, and New York with 12.6 per cent.

General Motors Net Is $96,858,701.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—Net earnings of the General Motors corporation in 1931 amounted to $96,858,701, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.01 a share on the common stock, according to a preliminary statement issued today by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president. This compares with net earnings of $153,766,247, or $3.32 a share in 1930.

ALFRED P. SLOAN.

The preliminary statement, which was issued ten days earlier than last year, made no reference, as usual, to the company's dividend policy. The directors are scheduled to meet next week to take action on the present dividend of $3 a share, which has been paid since 1929.

Contains Bare Details.

The preliminary report contains bare details on earnings, since a more detailed statement, including balance sheet and income account, is to be issued later. Mr. Sloan added to the usual preliminary statement, however, by revealing that the company's cash, government securities and other marketable securities on Dec. 31, 1931, amounted to $204,835,000, compared with $179,037,071 on Dec. 31, 1930.

"Subject to final audit," Mr. Sloan said, "net earnings of General Motors corporations for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931, before provision for extraordinary non-recurring losses, amounted to $115,089,701, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.43 a share on the common stock. After deducting from earnings extraordinary non-recurring losses in the aggregate amount of $20,639,000 [$18,231,000 after provision for taxes, etc.] net earnings amounted to $96,858,701, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.01 a share on the common stock.

Cites Foreign Losses.

"These extraordinary non-recurring losses include provision for contigent losses resulting from the revaluation of the corporation's investment in net working capital abroad affected by the depreciation in foreign currencies, and from revaluation of the General Exchange Insurance corporation's securities investments, all written down to market value as of Dec. 31, 1931."

The company's net earnings last year are the smallest for any year since 1924. After provision for the company's $3 annual dividend payment on the common stock, it is computed that the deficit for 1931 was $43,017,142.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—Stocks put in the day maintaining what the wags of Wall street were fond of referring to as their standstill agreement. The recognized leaders did exactly nothing in the whole five hours and the rank and file of their camp followers rather less than that. The point is that it was another dull day.

Roughly, around 800,000 shares were slated about rocking prices upward for a puny fraction on the pitch and leaving them to ebb back again on the toss. Nobody but the brokers made car fare home.

Awaits U. S. Steel Dividend.

They said the market was waiting on the dividend meeting of the United States Steel corporation scheduled to take place after the close of the meeting or a settlement of the railroad wage dispute at Chicago or something of the kind. It certainly was waiting.

So far as could be learned—from the action of the stock or inquiry—the street was without an inkling of the contemplated action on the steel dividend up to the very close of the market. The attempts to "guess" the news, which was credited with yesterday's slight upturn in the price, were not in evidence today. The result was that the issue lost a half of its runup.

Watch Rail Conference.

As for the rail conference, the trading fraternity continued to fret and wonder and keep a heavy hand on the old hip pocket wallet. It had been anticipated in some quarters that a decision would be forthcoming this afternoon or tonight and that it would fulfill popular Wall street hope of a 10 per cent reduction.

But as usual with this "off again on again-gone again Finnegan" problem, today's advances from the front were not so hopeful. There was another hitch in the agreement—several of them, in fact—and the outlook was not so good. It was all very trying and the street was half-minded to get impatient with the conferees, but that would have cost some effort and the average mill run of streeter is not spending anything these days if it can be avoided.

And so it came about that even the

Support was lacking in the hog market yesterday and prices slipped down 5@10c soon after a mostly steady opening. Lightweights showed most weakness in the absence of eastern competition. The extreme top and general average prices were down 5c at $4.15 and $3.85, th latter equaling the 32 year low mark established last week.

Bulk of offerings yesterday sold within a range of $3.70@4.05, while pig weights met an undependable trade at $3.75 and below, only low dressing stock going down to $3.00 and under. The full strength of the early activity in the wholesale trade was not reflected in the market for live hogs, and when later reports indicated a tapering off of demand for meats packers were able to cheapen up again on their initial costs in face of the lighter run estimated for today. Five markets report 76,000 for today, against 86,700 last Wednesday.

More Life in Futures.

The hog futures market showed more life on yesterday's session and more bids and offers were reported in several months, with gains of as much as 25c in bids for some contracts. Today's lightweights were also bid a shade higher, the top bid on the "to arrive" market being made on 170@210 lb averages for today's delivery. Bids were advanced to $4.75 on May mediums, but $5.50 was the lowest offer posted in that month. March mediums were offered at $5.00 and bid $4.00, while March lightweights carried bids of $4.25. All February contracts were offered at $4.50.

Lighter supplies added tone to the trade and some price gains of as much as 25c were uncovered in late transactions, when five markets posted only 22,500 cattle for today, against 29,600 last Wednesday, the lightest Wednesday total in four weeks. Cattle selling at $7.00 and above showed most of the price gain, while some of the $4.50@6.00 kinds were only steady. Only a small share of offerings were good enough to sell above $8.25, with the bulk of the whole day's receipts at $5.00@8.25. Armour paid $9.40, the top, for a shipment of 1,026 lb yearlings good enough for their eastern trade.

Steers with a fair "kill," but lacking quality, ranged downward to $5.00 and below. Little change was noted in the market for cows and heifers. Calves, however, featured the trade in a rise of 25@50c, top selections going to city butcher buyers as high as $9.00, while packers bought mostly at $7.00@8.00.

Lambs Under Pressure.

Lamb prices veered sharply lower under pressure of larger receipts at all leading centers yesterday. Monday's upturn attracted too many lambs from nearby places and prices were unable to maintain the previous day's high level, which also effectively curtailed some eastern buying. Unseasonably warm weather east of Chicago made order buyers wary and also curbed packer buying on eastern account. Losses of 50c were general in bulk of sales.

STUDEBAKER PAYS REGULAR 30C DIVIDEND

While the dividend meeting of United States Steel directors overshadowed other meetings yesterday, action was taken by the boards of several big corporations.

Studebaker corporation directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on the common stock and $1.75 on the preferred stocks. Pierce-Arrow voted the regular payment of $1.50 on the preferred.

International Business Machines corporation announced that the regular dividend of $1.50, which was to be acted on late next month, has already been authorized by directors.

Chain Belt company declared a dividend of 25 cents, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis as compared with $1.60 previously. Intertype corporation took no action on the common dividend, and Pittsburgh United corporation voted to omit the usual dividend of $1.50 on the preferred shares.

rails did not get their customary rub-down. New York Central, New Haven, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Atchison, Erie, Baltimore and Ohio, in fact, virtually the whole outfit closed within less than half a point of their Monday night finals.

Cotton Belt Pfd. Soars.

An exception could be made for the shares of the St. Louis Southwestern [Cotton Belt], whic his about to be taken over by the Southern Pacific under authorization of the interstate commerce commission but the movements of this stock, as every one knows, do not figure very largely in the carrier department picture ordinarily. On the first sale of the year, the preferred stock of the road shot up nearly 200 per cent in value. The price of 20 at which it closed up 12½ compares with a closing price of 7½ last year. The common moved up about 2 points, but the profit takers got after it toward the last and it finished with only about half its early gain. Southern Pacific lost a small frartion on the day's turnover, closing at 34⅞.

Kreuger & Toll Active.

Intense activity continued in Kreuger & Toll, the issue accounted for about 10 per cent of the sales in the first half of the session. The stock has been very much in the limelight for the last week or so as a result of reports that gold had been discovered on certain of the corporation's properties. Reports were current today again, however, that a considerable short interest had been discovered in the stock and a theory is that an attempt to squeeze this element is back of much of the current activity. The closing sale reflected an advance of about a half point on the day.

LIQUIDATION IN WORLD MARKETS LOWERS WHEAT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Scattered liquidation was on in the leading wheat markets yesterday and the increased disposition to press sales of new crop grain on the part of Argentina is having a decidedly depressing effect. Owing to the low prices being asked, Broomhall reporting the grain offered at 52⅜c l. f. the United Kingdom early yesterday, or over 5c less than was quoted for the May delivery in Chicago, while Australian was quoted at 57⅜c, the United States and even Canada is unable to sell any material amount of its surplus for export at the present time.

There was a noticable lack of outside interest in the local wheat market yesterday and prices gradually sagged under scattered selling, with the inside figures showing around 1c under Monday's finish. Final sales were at net losses of ⅝@⅝c, with March 55⅜c, May 57⅝c, and July 57⅛@57⅝c.

Foreign Demand Restricted.

Lowest prices for wheat of the season were established in Buenos Aires yesterday when March dropped below 40c for the first time and closed ½c lower at 40⅜c and the lowest at which any future has sold since Oct. 5, 1931, when the December was 39¾c. January wheat in Rotterdam closed ⅝c lower at 45⅜c. Liverpool was off ½@¾c per bu for the day, with the May at 54¾c, or 3⅜c under Chicago at the time. Winnipeg received some support from houses with Pacific coast connections, but lost ⅝@⅞c for the day, with May at 61¾c in Canadian funds, or 53⅝c on a gold basis.

Only scattered lots of North American cash wheat have been reported sold for export of late, and as long as the southern hemisphere continues to offer and ship freely the demand is expected to remain restricted. Financial regulations in a number of European countries, preventing the sale of foreign exchange, tend to curtail business.

Corn Rallies After Break.

May corn dropped to 30¾c yesterday as the result of scattered selling induced by the weakness in wheat, showing ⅛c under Monday's finish, but there was fair buying on the break, and the pit element were regarded as afraid to press the selling side at 40c and under. The expected support developed and brought about a rally of ⅜c from the inside figures, with the finish at net losses of ¼c. March closed at 37⅝c, May at 40¼@40¾c, and September 41⅞@42c.

Country offerings of corn to arrive were small, with only 8,000 bu reported as booked, while shipping sales were 15,000 bu.

Oats held within narrow limits and closed unchanged to ⅛c lower. Rye was off ½@⅝c with wheat. May closed at 45½c and July at 46¼c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A bearish undertone prevails in the wheat market but traders are, in the main, disposed to go slow on the selling side because they consider the price too low to return more than a small profit at best. There are a few operators, however, who are extremely bearish and short and predict that unless there is an improvement in the export demand or something else happens to lift the trade out of the rut prices are to work irregularly lower. It is said that leading holders of wheat while possibly reducing their lines have not sold out and they are expected to take hold more freely on any further decline.

"There is a striking difference in the volume of wheat trading in Chicago and Liverpool," say Clement, Curtis & Co., "although the latter is regarded as the world's leading market from a distributing standpoint as foreign cargoes are shipped to that port and many diverted elsewhere later. Sales in Liverpool in 1931 aggregated 458,000,000 bu, or 6.6 per cent of the business in Chicago, which was 6,825,000,000 bushels."

PRODUCE MARKETS

Continued mild weather over the belt is resulting in heavy production of eggs and butter for this season of the year. Fresh eggs were in better demand, however, with prices steady to ¾c higher. Receipts 6,407 cases. Butter was ½@1½c lower, with receipts 12,001 lbs. Live Leghorn hens declined, with other poultry unchanged. Receipts, 3 cars and 44 trucks. Potatoes weak. Receipts, 78 cars, with 254 cars on team track.
